TREASURY HEAD ASKS FREE HAND ON MONEY ISSUE

Experimenting Now, He Declares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who today asked congress to allow the administration free hand in its monetary experimentation, will have to decide early next week whether the government issues printing press money with which to pay off its maturing securities.

Admitting frankly that the present money policies of the administration are purely experimental, Mr. Morgenthau in a personal appearance before the house banking and currency committee urged congress to withhold action on any new monetary legislation until the current experiment has had a full and complete trial.

Must Decide Soon.

Later he announced that some time between Monday and Wednesday he will make up his mind about the next huge loan which the treasury will float before March 15. In planning this loan, the secretary admitted, one of the primary considerations will be the handling of a billion dollars in Liberty bonds on April 15.

Faced with the obligation of redeeming these Liberty bonds, the treasury has three alternatives: To refinance them into another type of security, to pay them off out of cash on hand, or to print new currency with which to pay them off. Secretary Morgenthau today refused to indicate which course will be followed, saying he has not made up his mind.

The maturing of about a billion dollars' worth of Liberty bonds on April 15 gives President Roosevelt the first logical opportunity he has had to issue paper money for the redemption of government securities. The President has the power under the inflation amendment to the farm adjustment act to issue up to 3 billion dollars worth of new money for the purpose of paying off government securities.

Roosevelt's Stand Recalled.

President Roosevelt previously has declared that he would not regard such printing press money as "greenbackism" or uncontroled inflation. He pointed out that the amount of money to be printed and issued would be rigidly controled by the amount of securities to be redeemed.

To pay off the Liberty bonds which the treasury called last October would reduce the interest-bearing debt of the government. A group within the treasury is urging that the bonds be redeemed in cash, but that cash already on hand instead of printing press money be used.

If Secretary Morgenthau decides to redeem the bonds from cash on hand he will have to bolster his cash balance by increasing the March 15 loan. A 450 million dollar issue of treasury certificates matures on March 15 and must be refinanced into the new loan.

Borrowing May Exceed Billion.

Financial circles here expect the new government loan which Secretary Morgenthau will whip into shape next week to involve the borrowing of another billion dollars or more by the treasury, depending largely on what the secretary decides about paying off or refinancing the Liberty bonds. The new loan is expected to be for five years or more and to carry an interest rate between 3 and 3½ per cent. It will be formally announced Wednesday or later.

Mr. Morgenthau appeared before the committee in connection with the proposed bill to establish a federal monetary authority, vested with broad control over the nation's currency. While he refrained from criticism of the plan, he told the committee it was the belief of the administration that the present system is working fairly well and should not be tampered with at this time.

"I hope congress will give us at least nine months or a year so we may find out a little more about the situation," the treasury head declared. "As far as I am concerned we are on a day to day basis. As far as I know no man can tell us where we will be six months from now or a year from now. Whether we are going to continue to be successful I can only hope—none can know."

Urges Keeping Minds Open.

"We have got to keep our minds absolutely open and meet things as they come," he continued. "As long as our gold program is working well we would like to try it a little longer and give it a chance."

Nevertheless Mr. Morgenthau saw the plan under consideration by the

WAR SECRETARY FIGHTS SPECIAL FLYING FORCES

Rejects Bill for 4,000 Planes.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The war department and congress came to a parting of the ways today as Secretary of War Dern launched a vigorous attack on congressional plans for a great and independent army air corps.

Going so far as to question the sanity of the congressional proposals, Mr. Dern addressed a statement to the house military affairs committee in which he took a definite stand of the furthest reaching significance in future development of American national defense.

Mr. Dern held that the air corps was only a coördinate part of the army, that its flying officers and men were not heroes of glory any more than the infantry and the artillery, that the whole army organization must proceed in balance and that the air corps has had more than its rightful share of progress in recent years.

Believe MacArthur Speaks.

Never has the mild mannered and retiring secretary of war produced such a shock to the members of congress, who were inclined to lay most of the responsibility, and most of the language of the secretary's statement as well, to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of the general staf.

The Dern statement contained the Roosevelt administration's whole philosophy of national defense, and it proved a blow to those representatives and senators who have hoped for the establishment of an air corps sufficient to defend the nation against any attack. Mr. Dern went so far as to attempt to refute the oft quoted argument that the next war will be fought largely in and from the air.

The military affairs committee, through its chairman, Representative John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.], had introduced two bills providing for the purchase of 4,384 military airplanes and for the separation of the army air corps from the jurisdiction of the general staff and the granting to officers and enlisted men of the air corps special compensation and rank. The committee ignored the war department's recommendations for the "GHQ" air force with 1,000 new planes and additional personnel.

Refers to Roosevelt, Root.

Secretary Dern held that the necessity for coördination in the army services "was settled, conclusively and absolutely, under the leadership of Elihu Root and Theodore Roosevelt," and that the system of maintaining the single list for all branches of the army even antedated the problem of staf control "and by evolutionary processes was finally settled many years ago to the satisfaction of practically every military thought that has existed or does now exist."

Mr. Dern said he was so unalterably opposed to the McSwain bills that he was willing to sacrifice entirely his own proposal for a GHQ air force if the bills were to be coupled with his suggestion.

"In our army air corps," Mr. Dern wrote at the beginning of his statement to the McSwain committee, "we have an excellent group of trained aviators—many of them tested in war, and the others trained in our aviation schools, which are not surpassed in efficiency.

Equal Any in Efficiency.

"The performances of our airplanes equal and in some respects exceed those of any other military airplanes in the world. The strategical and tactical doctrines upon which our air corps organization is based represent the most progressive thought influencing military aviation.

"Consequently the war department must oppose any change or legislative proposal which it feels would lower the existing high standards of our air personnel or destroy its efficient organization. It is the firm conviction of the war department that the legislation proposed would so result.

"No doubt these proposals have been advanced with a desire to increase the effectiveness of national defense. The considerations involved therein, however, are limited to but one element in the military framework of national defense.

"While aviation is indeed an important arm, it is only one of several which are comprised in a well balanced land defense force. Consequently, a fundamental error appears in all of these proposals. They are not well-rounded out.

"They are one-sided and, in fact,

Former Wife of B. Dahlberg Sees Mate Shot

San Antonio, Tex., March 1.—[Special.]—Shot, it is claimed, without provocation, in a downtown barroom early today, Huntley Chapin, 23, artist, capitalist and Yale graduate, is reported recovering tonight. Young Chapin was wounded in the foot and also struck in the face with brass knuckles, according to his wife, Mrs. Mary Dahlberg Chapin, 33, former wife of B. G. Dahlberg, wealthy Chicagoan who heads the Celotex company.

A few hours after the attack on Chapin a police officer filed a charge of assault to murder against Walter [Skinny] Baker, a former city detective, in connection with the shooting. Still later Mrs. Chapin filed a similar complaint against Frank Nixon, alleging that he struck her husband.

On Way West from Chicago.

The Chapins were en route to their home at Taos, N. M., after a business visit to Chicago. Neither could assign any motive for the assault, she declared.

Mrs. Chapin, interviewed by telephone in the office of E. B. Simmons, attorney with whom she appeared at the district attorney's office to make a statement, said she and her husband entered the Embassy club about 2:30 o'clock, approached the bar, and ordered beer and sandwiches. Their service had not been completed, she said, when one man, apparently upon a signal from another, fired two shots from a pistol.

Her husband, she continued, cried "I am shot," and before he could get up he was struck with a pair of knuckles by the man whom she accused of signaling the other to shoot.

Two Freed on Bonds.

Both Baker and Nixon furnished bond and were released, the former under $1,000 bail, the latter $750. Nixon's hearing was set for Tuesday.

Mrs. Chapin said she was divorced from Dahlberg, who has since remarried, in 1932.

Chapin, his wife said, is the son of Mrs. Huntley Chapin of Buffalo, N. Y., and a grandson of a late utilities magnate there named Huntley.

Grandson of Schoemaker Dies in Hospital Accident

Charles Schoemaker, 2 years old, 6234 North Nordica avenue, grandson of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, was found accidentally strangled to death in his bed in the Children's Memorial hospital last night. The child had been ill of pneumonia and a rubber tube had been inserted through an incision in the chest as a drain. In some manner the child twisted the tube around his neck. He was the son of Sergt. William J. Schoemaker.

RUNAWAY GIRLS, SORRY AND TIRED, GET HOME TODAY

A telephone call from Memphis, Tenn., last night ended the mystery of the disappearance of Miss Marjorie Swift, 18 years old, 5524 Cornell avenue, granddaughter of the late George B. Swift, former mayor of Chicago, and Miss Mary Dickinson, 16 years old, of 2970 Sheridan road. The two girls ran away early Sunday from the Jennings Seminary for Girls at Aurora, and it was believed that they had headed for Hollywood.

The telephone call cleared up everything. It was made by Miss Dickinson to her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Dickinson. It was a repentant girl speaking.

"We're down here in Memphis," said Miss Dickinson. "We're sorry and tired now. We were trying to go south, but we're sick of hitch-hiking. We're both ready to come home as soon as we get railroad fare."

Mrs. Dickinson uttered forgiveness over the phone, and then telegraphed funds for the runaways' return. They will reach Chicago today.

Auto Plunges Into Channel; Hunt for Dead

One or more persons are believed to have been drowned last night when an automobile crashed through the wooden railing of a narrow bridge in Peterson avenue, near Lincoln avenue, and plunged down a steep embankment and into the north shore channel. Early today police were dragging the canal in search for bodies.

The submerged coupe was dragged out of the water shortly after 2 o'clock and towed to a garage. Inside the car were found a bulging machine, two boxes of eggs, and a notebook. On this book was printed the name "Baird Brothers" and under that was written "R. D. Miller, Harvard, Ill." Another notation was "Mickey's poolroom." Baird Brothers is a drug store. The owners, however, said they did not know any one named R. D. Miller.

Tells of Seeing Two in Water.

There were no eyewitnesses to the accident, although one person who reached the scene immediately after the accident declared he saw one or two persons struggling in the water. From this account police believe there were two occupants in the car and that both are dead.

The automobile, a new coupé bearing 1934 Illinois license 391-407, was traveling east in Peterson avenue, which on both sides of the bridge is a four lane road. The bridge is wide enough only for two passing cars. Police said that the driver of the coupé apparently failed to notice the narrowing of the highway at the bridge. The car hit the north railing, tore through, and rolled perhaps 100 feet down the embankment. It then struck a thick concrete culvert and from there bounded into the center of the canal. The water there is 20 feet deep.

Tells of Death Struggle.

Ernest Spiegel Jr., 6037 Lincoln avenue, who conducts an oil service station nearby with his father, heard the crash and ran to the bridge. It was he who said he saw one or two persons struggling in the cold water.

Firemen under Chief Timothy Dillon of the 27th battalion dragged the submerged car to the concrete culvert an hour later, but could not raise it clear. They raised it close enough to the surface to get the license number and to ascertain that no bodies were inside the car. License records through which the car's ownership could be traced were not available to the police.

William Deising, 63 years old, 1600 Oakton street, Des Plaines, was killed yesterday by a truck driven by his brother-in-law, Charles Breitung, in Des Plaines. Deising was stooping to pick up a fallen crate from the street when Breitung backed the truck over him.

Dying by Own Hand, Killer Electrocuted

Michigan City, Ind., March 2.—[1 a. m.]—[Special.]—For twenty-two hours yesterday the state of Indiana, through its appointed servants, battled to preserve the life of Harvey Edwards. The efforts were successful. The flicker of vitality was kept in the body of Edwards until shortly after midnight, when the state snuffed it out in the electric chair at the Michigan City prison.

Edwards, 39 year old war veteran, who was sentenced to death for the murder of his estranged wife at Mitchell, Ind., eighteen months ago, was strapped in the chair at 12:02 a. m. The electric current was turned on three minutes later. At 12:10 a. m. he was pronounced dead by Dr. P. H. Weeks, prison physician.

Killer Attempts Suicide.

Early yesterday, having been informed that Gov. McNutt had denied his plea that the sentence of death be commuted to life imprisonment, the killer in a fit of despair broke the lenses of his spectacles and with the jagged bits of glass so obtained slashed his wrists.

He was weak from loss of blood when a guard, R. H. Smith, found him stretched on the floor of his cell.

"I want to die this way," he gasped. "I can't stand the thought of going to the chair. Don't—please don't—try to save me for that."

Guard Smith summoned his superiors. They in turn called for physicians. The stern fight to save the life of Edwards, in order that the law might take it, was started immediately.

Give Blood Tranfusions.

His torn wrists were bandaged. The blood he had lost was replaced by transfusions from the veins of fellow inmates of the prison, who volunteered to help Edwards hold the heart beats he had tried to halt. For a time the issue was uncertain. Then, in the afternoon, it was announced that it was probable Edwards would live long enough to die by legal mandate.

The announcement was greeted with satisfaction by state and prison officials.

"It is the duty of the warden to keep Edwards alive for the electric chair," declared Wayne Coy, secretary to the governor.

Governor Refuses Stay.

"That is true," said Warden Louis E. Kunkel. "There will be no change in the plans for the execution. The law will be observed. Edwards will die in the electric chair at the time appointed, even if he is dying then and we have to carry him in on a stretcher."

Gov. McNutt, informed of the complication due to the attempted suicide, said that he would not interfere, that his decision had been made and that he had no further comment to offer.

Walks to Death Chair.

During the night medical treatment continued, and when the time came for the death march Edwards had gained so much strength that he was able to walk to the chair with only a little help from his guards. He made no answer, however, when he was asked if he had anything to say before the mechanical lightning was turned upon him.

Only prison officials witnessed the execution.

The killing of Mrs. Edwards came after a long series of quarrels. She and her husband had both been married previously and it was said the disagreements of the children of one with the children of the other aided in keeping the couple in strife. However, Clarence Head, one of the slain woman's sons, was among those who urged clemency for the killer. Electrocution, he told the governor, wouldn't bring back his mother.

CROWD IN TEARS AS CATHERINE HELPS MOTHER

Dr. Alice Expected to Testify Today.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

(Pictures on Back Page.)

Her face stained by tears, her voice choked by sobs, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, brilliant young daughter of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, took the stand yesterday to persuade a jury that her mother could not have killed her daughter-in-law, Rheta. It was pure persuasion.

In an hour on the stand Dr. Catherine reëmphasized the old defense suggestion that the unhappy Rheta could not have died at Dr. Alice's tender hands, but might, to spite her mother-in-law or her philandering husband, Earle, have killed herself.

"Mother loved us all too much for that," she sobbed, whereat Dr. Alice and some of the half-hundred murder fans cried too.

Dr. Catherine Scores.

Following her cross-examination, prosecution and defense counsel agreed that Dr. Catherine scored, as much as could be scored—except for what the pensive Dr. Alice herself may gain when she takes the stand today to make specific denial of the murder.

Dr. Catherine had seen Rheta in a mood of black despair just nine days before her bullet pierced, chloroformed body was found on Dr. Alice's operating table in the basement of the Wynekoop home at 3406 Monroe street, the daughter testified. Her brother, Earle, she said, was planning a long trip west—alone—and Rheta talked darkly of self-destruction.

"It was a Sunday—Nov. 12, I think," she began under questioning by Defense Attorney Milton Smith. "Rheta, Earle, and mother were there. I usually left my post at the county hospital to visit them on Sunday."

Rheta Seems Unhappy.

"Did you see Rheta alone?" Smith prompted the agitated girl.

"She was upstairs alone," Dr. Catherine replied, the tears welling up.

"She was staring at the floor—seemed very unhappy. I said, 'Why, Rheta, what's the matter?' She said, 'If Earle goes away without me I'll do something he'll be sorry for.'"

At the implied threat of suicide the jury sat up straight. Dr. Catherine dabbed her eyes. But Smith hadn't finished.

"What did you say?" he prompted gently.

"I said, 'Why, Rheta, what do you mean?'" and the next words tumbled out in a rush. "She said she had been thinking about things for several weeks now and Earle hadn't better go if he wanted to keep his wife."

Witness Fights Her Grief.

Smith was still angling for a clearer suggestion of the supposed suicide intention in Rheta's mind. "What did you say?" he pressed Dr. Catherine.

The daughter's mouth twisted in a grimace as she fought her grief. The tears rolled down her cheeks. Her shoulders shook with sobs.

"I said, 'Rheta, dear—if anything ever happened to you——'"

"Control yourself, doctor," the lawyer counseled.

"'If anything ever happened to you—[sobs]—ever happened to you—[sobs]—it would break mother's heart.'"

Dr. Alice, heretofore resting limp and tearless, sat up and applied her handkerchief at this. There was snuffling all over the crowded courtroom.

10,000 at Courthouse.

More than 10,000 murder fans had charged the courthouse during the morning and at noon recess in the expectation that Dr. Alice herself would be called to testify before the session closed. They were disappointed.

Elevators, stairs and corridors were clogged as women fought to get near the door. Bailiffs culled their political friends from the crowd and packed them in chairs six feet deep before the rail, ordering such vitally interested persons as Walker Wynekoop and the dead Rheta's father, Burdine Gardner, to take standing room in the rear.

Defendant Seems Encouraged.

It was 1:35 p. m. when Judge Harry B. Miller swore Catherine as a witness. It was 3:15 when she left the stand. Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty subjected her to only a casual routine cross-examination.

Dr. Alice seemed greatly encouraged.

"Ah! I'm proud of that girl," she exclaimed to her spiritual counselor, the Rev. John Henry Hopkins. "She was splendid—a Wynekoop through and through."

The clergyman, aware that Dr. Alice will be her own final and all important witness today, was solicitous about her physical condition.

"Pretty tired—a little weak in the legs, father," she told him. "But otherwise all right."

"Will you have the strength for the ordeal?" he queried, anxiously. The defendant's wide mouth closed in a grim line.

"You bet I'll be there," was the fervid reply.

Daughter Is Alert.

The daughter in whom she professed her pride had prepared for court with care. Her lustrous hair was carefully marcelled. Her blue crepe dress displayed her supple figure. She was alert, but composed, under the first questions.

Attorney Smith touched on her precocious record at Northwestern university and Rush Medical college. He brought out that she won her post as resident pediatrician at the county hospital by competitive examination. She is now 25 years old.

Over Dougherty's objection, he guided her into the theme of Dr. Alice's indiscriminate love for herself and Rheta. The prosecutor was quick, but Dr. Catherine was quicker. Invariably her answers went into the record before Dougherty's objections. The judge ordered them stricken, but the effect remained.

No Salary from Hospital.

Q.—Who provides your living? A.—Mother. [State objection sustained.]

Q.—Who buys your dresses? A.—Mother. [Objection sustained.]

Q.—With reference to Rheta's dresses and yours, what was your mother's practice? A.—Every time mother bought me a dress she bought one for Rheta also. We two—— [objection sustained].

Dougherty was becoming exasperated.

"I want to warn you to heed my objections and wait until the court rules before you answer," he said sharply. Dr. Catherine dropped her eyes.

Question Her on Insurance.

Q.—What was your mother's attitude towards insurance? A.—I talked to her about it early in the summer when Rheta was so worried about her health and mother said she would get some insurance for Rheta to reassure——

"Object," cried Dougherty. Dr. Catherine turned towards the judge. The objection was sustained. With head bowed, and hands folded, Dr. Catherine seemed altogether docile as she awaited the next question.

Her eagerness got the better of her a moment later. Smith had led her through a recital of how her mother telephoned her at the county hospital about Rheta's death and instructed her to notify the coroner. She came home and heard Dr. Alice telephoning to Dr. Frank Chauvet, she said.

Q.—You heard her telephone Dr. Chauvet? A.—Yes; she said it looked as if her little girl was dead and would he come over. He said he had a roomful of patients and said he couldn't——

"But you didn't hear that part," Smith checked her.

"O, of course not," she said hastily. "But mother told me later. So, you see I knew."

Tells Mother's Appearance.

Smith told her to describe her mother's appearance as she looked when Dr. Catherine reached the house. The description came like a paragraph memorized from a story book.

"She came tottering towards me with unsteady gait; her face was flushed, her hands trembled and I thought she was about to faint," she said.

"Object to what the witness thought," Dougherty broke in, but Dr. Catherine was not to be deterred.

"She told me she felt she was about to faint," the witness continued. "She said everything went black as she tottered up the stairs from the operating room and all was a blank until she found herself calling me."

"I took out a pencil and lifted the corner of the blanket from the body," she said composedly.

Q.—You saw the wound in Rheta's back? A.—Yes, mother and I saw it.

As Dougherty later stressed on cross-examination, neither medical mother nor medical daughter made any move to examine the girl to discover if a spark of life remained.

Friends Greet Defendant.

A recess was called, during which many of the character witnesses swarmed into the courtroom and crowded around Dr. Wynekoop, shaking her hand and offering their good wishes. Some of these friends, however, covered up their faces lest the photographers picture them with the defendant.

Dr. Catherine was under direct examination for a few minutes more after the recess. She testified that her mother was suffering from high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, and angina pectoris. Excitement of any kind aggravated this condition, which she described as a disease of the heart characterized by severe pain in the heart region.

She had been keeping her mother's blood pressure down to about 150, she testified, before her arrest.

"As a result of the lack of proper medical attention and lack of rest after her arrest, her blood pressure shot up to 250, didn't it?" asked Attorney Milton Smith.

Objection Is Upheld.

Prosecutor Dougherty's objection to this question was upheld by the judge.

Cross-examination of the witness was begun with a series of questions intended to show that Dr. Catherine failed to examine Rheta's body to determine whether she was still alive.

Q.—[By Prosecutor Dougherty]—Your mother was in a dazed condition when you got home that night [Nov. 21, the day Rheta was slain]. A.—Yes, she was.

Q.—However, you accepted her diagnosis that Rheta was dead? A.—Yes.

Q.—You made no attempt to go down yourself and see if Rheta was dead? A.—No.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I took care of mother.

Q.—Did you make any effort to determine if there was any life left in the body of Rheta Wynekoop? A.—When I looked at the body I knew she was dead.

Q.—Can a doctor tell by merely looking at a body that there is no life remaining? A.—It was not my business to make a diagnosis.

Q.—I didn't ask you that. A.—I think a physician can tell death by looking.

The prosecutor asked the witness if she had not always been treated courteously by the police and seemed surprised when Dr. Catherine answered him:

"Capt. Stege threatened to ruin my reputation if I did not talk. He said it would be too bad to do it to a nice girl like me."

"Was I there when that happened?" Dougherty demanded.

"Yes," said the young woman firmly.

"It did," repeated the witness.

Prosecutor Dougherty then asked the witness if it wasn't a fact that he had only questioned her 10 or 15 minutes and had treated her courteously after the inquest. She admitted that she had no complaint about that questioning because she had refused to talk "without her lawyer being present."

Q.—When did you see Earle last? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Was it about a day ago or a month ago? A.—I don't know.

Recalls Mother's Phone Call.

Prosecutor Dougherty then took her over the ground again after she was notified at the hospital by her mother of the death of Rheta. He apparently was trying to impress on the jury that Dr. Catherine took her time in getting home and was in no hurry to look at the body or to make an examination of it.

Q.—Did you say when questioned that your mother detailed to you the events of the day and that you finally said, "Well, mother, what happened?" A.—That did not happen. In my statement I was trying to give you the facts which I had gathered.

Q.—Well, did you say to your mother as I have quoted, "Well, mother, what happened?" A.—No, I did not say exactly that. I knew what happened before I left the hospital. Mother told me Rheta was shot and was dead.

Lifts Blanket with Pencil.

The prosecutor then took the witness over the scene of Rheta dead on the operating table, and of her lifting the blanket with a pencil rather than pulling it back with her hand. She insisted she did not know why she "did that."

Q.—You asked your mother if she touched anything, did you not? A.—Yes, she said she had not.

Q.—As I understand, you knew nothing about Rheta's insurance policy? A.—I didn't know that it was taken out.

With this Prosecutor Dougherty, who later admitted he did not make much progress in his questioning of Dr. Catharine, closed the cross-examination and court adjourned.

Act to Strengthen Alibi.

The defense put three props under Dr. Alice's anticipated alibi before Dr. Catherine took the stand. Her brother, Walker, concluding his morning testimony, produced a sheet of penny stamps which his mother is expected to say she purchased at the neighborhood postoffice while out on the stroll she will say she was taking at the probable hour of Rheta's death.

Fred Feigl, pharmacist at 4100 West Madison street, averred that Dr. Alice six weeks before the murder purchased twenty morphine tablets through his store, tablets which Dr. Alice is expected to insist were missing from her desk when she found the body.

S. E. Cleveland, embalmer at 3409 West Madison street, whose establishment is just north of the Wynekoop home, testified he saw Dr. Alice at the Garfield Park hospital about 4:15 or 4:20 p. m. on the afternoon of the murder, forty-five minutes after Rheta was last seen alive.

Meets Her at Hospital.

The witness explained that he furnished chairs for a meeting of the hospital women's auxiliary and had gone to the hospital, expecting to get his chairs at the conclusion of the meeting. He said he saw Dr. Wynekoop in the office of the hospital and spoke to her.

The state cross-examined Cleveland closely, striving to make him confess that he might not have been sure of the date. He insisted, however, that his recollection of the date was correct.

THE MORNING SESSION

Walker Wynkoop's cross-examination by Prosecutor Dougherty opened the morning session. The lawyer sparred politely with the witness, who firmly maintained his opinion expressed in his direct testimony that police had reduced his mother to a state of exhaustion by endless questioning the night of Nov. 23, two days after Rheta's death, until she made the various statements attributed to her.

There was only mild interest for the crowd in this dialog until the prosecutor suddenly swerved to questions concerning the whereabouts of Earle Wynekoop, who disappeared after the killing.

Recall Earle's "Confession."

Earle, the husband of Rheta, once made a "confession" of the murder, which was repudiated when an acquaintance revealed that Earle had been far from the Wynekoop house at the time Rheta was shot.

"When did you see Earle last?" inquired Dougherty.

"On Nov. 11," replied the witness, apparently interpreting the question to mean when he had last seen his brother before the death of Rheta.

Q.—I mean since Nov. 21 [the day of the murder]. A.—[Reluctantly] About ten days ago.

Q.—At what address? A.—At my house in Glencoe.

Q.—Where is he now? A.—I am not certain.

Q.—What was his last known address? A.—I could get it for you.

The attitude of the son of the defendant was clearly revealed when Prosecutor Dougherty asked the question: "You knew that the police were investigating the murder of your sister-in-law, did you not?"

"I don't know yet that it was a murder," replied Walker, with composure.

"Well," returned Dougherty patiently, "you knew they were investigating—shall we say the death of your sister-in-law?"

"O, yes," said Walker, gazing with a slightly triumphant air at the defense side of the table.

The cross-examination lasted less than thirty minutes. When he was excused Walker turned to the judge and asked if he might remain in the courtroom. He received an affirmative answer.

13 CHARACTER WITNESSES

Thirteen character witnesses followed Walker to the stand. Milton Smith said he had 100 more in reserve, but the judge ruled fifteen would be all he could call.

Physicians, teachers, and social workers, many of them of prominence, the witnesses not only vouched for her character, but related incidents to show that for thirty years Dr. Alice had devoted herself to helping humankind.

The big bosomed lady friends of the bailiffs, who had squeezed themselves into the front row, and their husbands into the press seats, tittered as the first witness came to the stand. She was Miss Helen Hamilton, author, lecturer, and producer of children's plays, residing at the Auditorium hotel. Amusement was provoked by her antique hat and bewildered air.

Q.—How long have you known Dr. Alice? A.—Since before the war.

Q.—She was associated with you in the Women's City club? A.—Yes, she was on the board of directors.

History Professor Next.

D. Roy Matthews, history professor at Lewis institute, bald, middle aged, and wearing a Van Dyke beard, came next. He had his own notions of how the question as to character should be put and answered.

"Do you know the defendant's general reputation as to truth, veracity, and as a peaceable, law abiding citizen?" asked Milton Smith. The professor stroked his beard.

"Put negatively I have never heard anything against her," he replied.

"Answer the question 'yes or no,'" chorused the judge and Mr. Smith.

"It's a question that can't be answered that way," the professor protested.

Q.—Well, all who knew her spoke well of her? A.—I never heard any speak otherwise, so I would conclude so.

Other Character Witnesses.

Other character witnesses were: Dr. Mabel Marie Matthies, 2220 South Keeler avenue; Miss Harriet Vittum, head of the Northwestern University settlement; Tony Romano, 3204 Monroe street, pharmacist; Paul H. Mueller, publisher of the Abendpost; Dr. F. A. L. Lobdell, physician, Congress hotel; Mrs. J. W. Blake, 1035 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park; Dr. Perry Ross, 3828 Maypole avenue; Dr. Jennie E. Clark, 321 Belden avenue; Miss Helen Hattouch, president of the Women's Protective association and the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, former pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, now Dr. Wynekoop's spiritual adviser.

Others were Dr. Edith Lowry of St. Charles; Dr. Ione Dean, 401 Fullerton avenue; Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, member of the board of education.

State Avoids Demand That Dr. Dean Get Death Penalty

Greenwood, Miss., March 1.—(AP)—Without specifically requesting the death penalty in final arguments, the state today asked the jury trying Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean on a murder charge for the alleged poison whisky highball death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy to "consider her case as you would a man's."

"You promised to try this case on the evidence presented and to bring in a verdict of guilty or not guilty regardless of the fact the defendant is a woman. The fact she is a woman is no shield for crime," Means Johnston, special prosecutor retained by the Kennedy family, told the jury in opening the arguments.

Will Not Ask Death.

During a court recess, District Attorney Arthur Jordan, who will close for the state, told newsmen that the matter of punishment in event of conviction was "for the jury to decide."

For the defense, Attorney Dick Denman told the jury its instructions provided for a verdict of acquittal "if any reasonable doubt exists in your minds that Kennedy met death in the exact manner charged by the state."

"Remember the burden of proof rests with the state," he said. "The court will instruct the jury that dying declarations must be regarded with great caution and circumspection."

Statement State's Keystone.

Kennedy's alleged dying statement that Dr. Dean poisoned him with a whisky highball at a "farewell" midnight that July 27, is the keystone of the state's case.

With three attorneys on each side to be heard and arguments unlimited under Mississippi law, it was problematical when the case would go to the jury. Judge Davis ordered a night session, but later canceled it because of an engagement and permitted the arguments to be continued tomorrow.

SPAIN MAY PICK FALLEN PREMIER TO STAY AT HELM

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 1.—Deprived of the support of the right, which kept his cabinet alive, Premier Alejandro Lerroux and his ministers stepped out today without waiting to be defeated in the cortes [parliament]. The 70 year old Radical party leader went to the presidential palace this morning prepared to offer the heads of two left wing ministers to his conservative friends, but President Niceto Alcala Zamora, yielding to the rightists, insisted on an entirely new ministry to include elements further to the right.

Lerroux emerged from the presidential palace an ex-premier for the second time. He lost out to the ascending right bloc after governing for two months and a half. Though he has lost the battle, Lerroux is far from through. Tonight he remained the most likely candidate to succeed himself, provided he forms a ministry agreeable to the right and turns back on his own turbulent career as a Radical.

Political leaders late today began their traditional consultations with the president to advise him on solving the crisis of the rightists, whose very existence is at stake. The threat of a red revolution on one hand and a right dictatorship on the other hung ominously over Spain.

It appears that Lerroux would head a ministry right in color, but neither as anti-Marxist as the right parties want, nor as liberal as the left insists upon. Hence it would be a cabinet pleasing to nobody. Political observers claim such a cabinet may even relieve the tension for a few weeks at least. What will happen then is a question.

WILLETT'S WIFE QUIZZED ABOUT REPUTED SUITOR

Her Lawyer's Objections Block Answers.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett, who has testified in her alimony hearing before Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court that her husband, Howard L. Willett, refused to "come on home" to their penthouse at 2130 Lincoln Park West, was questioned yesterday concerning reports that she had had a suitor. She was not allowed to answer the questions, however.

The questions concerned Edmund Harris Jr., young Baltimore architect. They were put to Mrs. Willett on the witness stand by Attorney Jay Fred Reeve, counsel for Willett. However, Mrs. Willett's counsel objected and the objections were upheld by the court. A few questions pertaining to Mrs. Willett's employment of Harris as one of four architects who worked on her Mexican roof garden atop her penthouse were allowed to stand. Mrs. Willett contends that she needs $25,000 a year alimony to live alone in the penthouse.

Alludes to $1,000,000 Suit.

In an argument in chambers over the admissibility of any testimony along the lines suggested by Attorney Reeve's questions, Attorney Benjamin B. Davis, attorney for Mrs. Willett, charged that Attorney Reeve was "deliberately trying to embarrass the witness [Mrs. Willett] in another suit in which she is the complainant." Davis alluded to the $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit Mrs. Willett has pending against Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, wealthy widow, of 5490 South Shore drive.

During the argument in chambers Attorney Reeve offered to show that "whereas it's been pictured by Mrs. Willett that Willett left her through no fault of her own, the facts are that she was the first one to want a divorce, and that was because this young architect, Harris, had turned her head with a proposal of marriage."

He went on to say that if allowed to question her along those lines, he could show that the Willett roof garden was "a brain child of this Harris" conceived with the thought that he and Mrs. Willett would be married after her divorce.

Attorney Davis retorted that Attorney Reeve's remarks were "inspired by Alice Greenacre," who is the attorney for Mrs. Hall in the alienation of affections suit.

Mrs. Willett Testifies.

Previous to the argument in chambers Mrs. Willett was allowed to testify in reply to Attorney Reeve's questioning that Harris was introduced to her by Dudley Crafts Watson, Art institute lecturer, who conducted a Mexican tours party of which Mrs. Willett was a member, in February, 1932, and by a Mrs. Freer. Later she said she was first introduced to him at a New Year's day tea party at the home of Mrs. Orville Thompson.

Q.—And hadn't he been visiting you in your home? A.—Once, when he came to dinner with my daughter—[Mrs. Samuel Gale Taylor III.].

Q.—Came with your daughter? A.—Yes.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you introduced your daughter to him about midnight on the night of Jan. 12 or 13 when she returned home from a Democratic victory banquet? A.—No, Mr. Reeve.

Questioned by Attorney.

After the attorney's arguments, Attorney Reeve put the following questions to Mrs. Willett in court, drawing objections from Attorney Davis:

Q.—Following that introduction by Mr. Watson did you go to Mexico? Objection sustained.

Q.—Did Harris on the same train and at the same time go to Mexico? Objection sustained.

Q.—When did you return from Mexico? A.—Toward the last of February.

Q.—Following your return was Mr. Harris present in your home in the day time in the absence of Mr. Willett for a period of four months? Objection sustained.

MRS. WILLETT: I'd like to answer that.

ATTORNEY DAVIS: The court says you can't.

ATTORNEY REEVE: Shortly before Sept. 4, 1932, when, according to your husband's testimony you asked him for a divorce, did this architect, Harris, discuss the subject of your and his marriage with you? Objection sustained.

ATTORNEY DAVIS: I want the court to know that I hate to object as it gives a false impression.

Tells of Payment to Architect.

ATTORNEY REEVE: I can see how you hate to object. [To Mrs. Willett]: Was Mr. Harris a paid architect? [Objection overruled.] A.—He was; I paid him $75 for his work. It covered, not a few months, but a few hours a day for a few weeks.

Q.—Did Mr. Harris go to Mexico to get a design for your roof garden, in other words, as an employé of yours? [An objection was sustained, but not before Mrs. Willett answered, "No."]

Q.—Did this gentleman take any of Mr. Willett's personal wearing apparel at any time? Objection sustained.

Q.—Did this same gentleman [Mr. Harris] without Mr. Willett's knowledge but with your consent wear Mr. Willett's clothing, and I specifically refer to a full dress suit?

Again Her Lawyer Objects.

ATTORNEY DAVIS: I object to all of the questions, including the dress suit.

JUDGE DESORT: Objection sustained. [In an aside:] But I'd like to know.

It was ruled that Mrs. Willett might answer a question as to when she last saw Harris. The only time she had seen him since he left Chicago, she said, was in July, 1932, when she got a glimpse of him at a public gathering at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that the idea of building the Mexican roof garden, instead of its being Willett's idea of a summer home, was put in your mind by Harris? A.—No.

Mrs. Willett's color mounted as she was asked whether, in 1932, she wrote to her son [Howard L. Jr.] that she "had met a very attractive man who had proposed marriage" to her. An objection was sustained.

Final Arguments Tomorrow.

Final arguments in the hearing will begin at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. When the court session began yesterday Mrs. Willett was asked in cross-examination by Attorney Reeve if the conversation of Sept. 4, 1932, in which her husband offered her $23,000 a year in the event they were divorced, according to her testimony, had not ended in a friendly fashion and with an agreement not to quarrel. She replied, her blue eyes flashing: "Agreed not to quarrel about another woman, yes."

Q.—And was she discussed in that conversation? A.—Must I reply?

Q.—You've given newspaper interviews on the subject, haven't you? A.—I must refer all statements about her to my attorney, David Stansbury [her attorney in the alienation suit].

Q.—Was the other woman discussed that night? A.—I don't recall.

ATTORNEY DAVIS—Answer to the best of your ability, Mrs. Willett.

MRS. WILLETT—We had a very painful discussion of the subject the night before.

ATTORNEY REEVE—You were willing for a divorce providing the price was right, weren't you? A.—[Deliberately.] No, Mr. Reeve. I asked my husband to give up another woman and come back to me. He said he preferred divorce. I thought if I gave him time he'd change his mind, because Mr. Willett does change his mind, you know.

The name of Harris, the architect, was brought into the Willett case in depositions taken in Waukegan last October by Miss Greenacre, attorney for Mrs. Hall. The witnesses were Watson and Mrs. Bertha Baker Alling of Lake Forest and Chicago. Their testimony concerned the Mexican tour. Both witnesses denied that there were any improprieties in the relationship of Mrs. Willett and the architect.

Harris was seized later that month in Los Angeles and removed to Chicago to answer to a federal charge of misuse of the mails. It was charged that he wrote an extortion note to Mrs. Hall demanding $5,000 on the promise he would have the alienation suit withdrawn. The case is pending in the federal court here.

Question Mrs. Willett About "Other Man"

DAVE HUTTON GRANTED UNCONTESTED DIVORCE FROM THE REV. AIMEE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 1.—[Special.]—"Darling." Dave Hutton, portly spouse of the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, today became her ex-spouse, winning an interlocutory divorce decree without contest. He related how he broke down in tears when Aimee told him, in the presence of his father and mother, that he could no more run Angelus temple than could the switchboard operator. Aimee told him other things also at the time his tears flowed, Dave testified before Superior Judge Leon Yankwich, who handed down the decree.

The divorce decree was accompanied by a secret financial agreement between the couple and by an agreement that Mrs. Hutton can resume the name McPherson. Hutton and the Rev. Aimee eloped by plane from Los Angeles to Yuma, Ariz., and were married there Sept. 13, 1931. Hutton filed suit for divorce here last July.

The court decision terminates the third marriage of the woman pastor, her first husband, Robert Semple, a missionary, dying in China in 1911, and her second husband, Harold McPherson, a grocery salesman, obtaining a divorce from her on grounds of desertion, in 1915.

PADLOCK DRIVE ON HANDBOOKS IN LAKE COUNTY

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county announced in Waukegan last night that he was beginning a padlock campaign to eliminate handbook gambling houses in the county.

Through his chief investigator, Jack Dailey, Mason has notified operators of handbooks to cease their business. There are three in Waukegan, two in North Chicago, and one in Half Day. To reinforce his drive Mr. Mason is now notifying the owners of properties where handbooks are situated that if they allow handbook tenants he will go into court and get padlock injunctions against their properties.

One of the property owners involved, Mr. Mason said, is Bob O'Farrell, manager of the Cincinnati Reds baseball team. Mr. Mason yesterday warned O'Farrell's father, Sars O'Farrell, fire chief of Waukegan, of his ultimatum, and last night mailed a registered letter to Bob O'Farrell in Cincinnati to the same effect. The state's attorney pointed out that O'Farrell does not operate a handbook, but merely owns a building in which one is situated, and obviously is not aware of its existence.

SUBURBS FILE LOCAL OPTION DRY PETITIONS

Local option petitions to declare their territories dry under the new state liquor law were completed by several suburbs yesterday in time to permit filing before the deadline at midnight.

Oak Park went through a flurry of excitement as a big drive for signatures that had been under way for twenty-four hours wound up showing a total of 18,000 names, far more than the necessary number and enough to lead the drys to predict certain victory at the election on April 10.

Other suburbs where petitions were filed during the day included Evanston, Glencoe, and River Forest. There was a question about the legality of the type of petition used in Berwyn.

In Chicago only three more precincts were covered by petitions during the day, raising the total for the April 10 vote to twenty-two. The new precincts were the 2d and 13th of the 19th ward and the 12th of the 3d ward. All of the precincts that will vote on this question are on the south side. Nineteen are in the 19th ward, lying in the southwestern part of the city.

PUSH CAMPAIGN FOR SAFE LIQUOR, LAW OBSERVANCE

Investigate Licenses; Collect Samples.

The campaign to give Chicagoans honest liquor and to compel the dispensers of it to obey the laws governing sales was carried out yesterday on several fronts:

1. Mayor Kelly's picked squad of policemen, assigned to make purchases of whisky and other spirits, delivered a number of samples to the health department for analysis.

2. Seventeen investigators from the state department of finance, acting under orders of the state liquor control commission, began visits to saloons, but were instructed to do no more than warn owners they must have state licenses and must not sell drinks over bars.

Asks Law Observance Aid.

3. The mayor, in a public statement, requested the Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective association to assist in law observance. At an evening meeting of the association in Pilsen Park pavilion, 26th street and Albany avenue, assurances to this effect were given, although speakers expressed the hope that regulations against selling over bars would be modified. Mayor Kelly did not attend the meeting for which some 1,500 dealers gathered.

4. Sixty members of the Tavern Protective association, meeting at 1361 East 47th street, were warned by Irving Solomon, president of the Illinois Brewers' association, that the danger of a return to prohibition existed and only lawful operation would please the public.

Tests Are Thorough.

In the health department tests, the liquors will be analyzed for alcoholic content, for the presence of caramel, glycerine and other flavoring or coloring extracts and for more harmful ingredients, such as fusel oil and acetaldehyde.

That isn't all. Organoplectic experiments will also be tried. This means that the effect of the beverages on the taste, smell, sight, and touch will be tried out. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said that when all the samples have been studied a Chicagoan will be able to hold up his glass and say: "Here's how," without having to wonder: "Here's—what?"

Where it is found the labels on the bottles misrepresent the contents the federal government will be asked to prosecute under the food and drugs act.

Potts Heads Group.

The investigators for the state liquor control commission are in charge of Ernest Potts, former Republican politician, who once held the post of Cook county agent. He was also chief deputy bailif of the Municipal court. His sponsor for his job under a Democratic administration is John Touhy, Democratic committeeman of the 27th ward.

His investigators were instructed by liquor commission members on how to approach the saloonkeepers. They were told that while severe measures would be taken if the law was defied, the saloon owners should be given an ample opportunity to cooperate. The commission is adamant in its stand that customers must sit down at tables while being served, and will revoke the licenses of places giving bar service.

PRESIDENT PLANS TALK ON CODES; SPEAKS MONDAY

Labor Board Attacks Weirton Steel Co.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt let it be known that he will have something to say about NRA's future on Monday. He will talk at the meeting of the code authorities, called to discuss complaints and proposed changes. Complaints continued to be heard at today's session.

Word of the President's speech came at just about the time today that the national labor board asked the department of justice to do something about the Weirton Steel company.

The charge against the steel concern at Weirton, Pa., is that it has refused to abide by section 7A of the recovery law which gives workers the right to collective bargaining through representatives of their own choosing.

"It was the unanimous decision of the board that no other course was left but to recommend action by the department of justice," Senator Robert Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the board, said.

The department of justice will consider whether to start criminal law proceedings against the company on a charge of code violation or to attempt to get an injunction restraining that company from interfering in any election which might be held by the workers.

One of the charges today was aimed at the newspaper and graphic arts codes by Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters. She said they were the only codes that permitted child labor.

Labor presented one witness after another with new protests, charging that many concerns had violated the spirit and letter of the collective bargaining provision of various codes.

DECISION NEAR IN M'KINLEY'S ELECTION SUIT

Charles F. McKinley, former Municipal court judge, yesterday completed his evidence before County Judge Jarecki in the contest he has brought against the election of Judge George V. McIntyre to the Municipal bench on Nov. 4, 1930. Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, representing Judge McIntyre, said that he may offer a defense tomorrow morning.

If Attorney Harrington does not choose to offer a defense Judge Jarecki will hear final arguments in the case and, it is expected, will announce his decision immediately. McKinley contends that votes cast in the 18th and 34th precincts of the First ward, which were included in a recount, should be excluded because of fraud, and asks that the votes in the 78th precinct of the Third ward and the 31st and 36th precincts of the Second ward, which were excluded because of alleged irregularities, should be included.

In the event Judge Jarecki rules with McKinley on these five precincts, McKinley would overcome the lead of 269 votes Judge McIntyre established in the recount and would be shown to have been the winner.

Judge Jarecki said that he understood that the mandamus suit brought by McKinley in the Illinois Supreme court to compel the judge to proceed with the hearing of the contest had been dismissed by agreemnt.

Free Hammond Theater Man of Bombing Charge

Judge William J. Murray at Crown Point yesterday freed William Kleighege, former Hammond theater owner, of a charge that he conspired to bomb the State theater in Gary in 1927. Kleighege was once convicted of the crime, but the Indiana Supreme court granted him a new trial.

NECKWEAR UNION STRIKES; CHARGE NRA VIOLATIONS

Eight hundred Chicago members of the United Neckware Makers' union went on strike yesterday, charging that their employers are violating National Recovery Act code provisions.

The strikers announced that they are seeking recognition of their union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, salary increases, and a reduction in their working hours.

According to Joseph Weiner, president of the union, the members of the organization represent 80 per cent of the total number of necktie makers in the city.

BAR CONDEMNS FEE ABUSES IN RECEIVER CASES

Suggests Guilty Attorneys Be Punished.

The Chicago Bar association last night made public two reports by its committee on receiverships and mortgage foreclosures condemning as unethical four practices by attorneys in receivership and foreclosure cases. The reports assailed the following practices:

1. Payments of large fees to attorneys for receivers.

2. Lawyers filing foreclosure suits when they represent only the holder of a single bond and note and "are acting solely on behalf of themselves or associates for the purpose of securing the appointment of a particular individual as receiver or receiver's counsel."

3. Lawyers filing stockholders' liability suits against closed banks when the deposits were obviously made by the lawyer's client shortly before the closing of the bank to authorize the filing of the suit.

4. Interventions in pending suits by attorneys for parties having no direct interest for the purpose of obtaining leases of properties in receiverships.

Fail to Mention Names.

The reports failed to mention either the names of attorneys involved in these practices or specific instances in the courts. It was not stated dennitly what the committee's action would be in these matters, although the reports recommend that the practices be investigated and express the opinion that disbarment proceedings should be brought against attorneys involved wherever warranted.

In the report concerning excessive fees the committee stated that it had found evidence also of the appointment of attorneys for receivers where the services of an attorney were not necessary and even where the receivers did not desire attorneys; the filing by attorneys for receivers of unnecessary petitions which are made the basis for the charging of excessive fees, and the "existence of a practice whereby attorneys for receivers are agreed upon by counsel in advance pursuant to an understanding whereby the attorneys so selected are expected to reciprocate when they act as solicitors for complainants."

The Rights of Receivers.

"The committee is of the opinion that leave to employ an attorney should be granted only upon application of the receiver," the report said, "and a showing by him of the necessity for the employment.

"The practice of filing petitions in behalf of the receiver asking authorization for the making of trivial expenditures of all kinds appears to be quite general. Frequently the cost of the attorney's services for the filing of such petitions is all out of proportion to the importance of the matters involved. Some chancellors insist that receivers make no expenditures and incur no obligations without first obtaining authorization from the court. The purpose of this, of course, is to protect the receivership estate, but obviously it can be carried to such an extreme that the receivership estate is subjected to legal expense far beyond that justified by the receiver's income.

"The committee is of the opinion that the course of other chancellors insisting on the receiver assuming the responsibility for incurring ordinary obligations is the better practice."

Favors Itemized Statements.

The report also commented on the inclination of attorneys to seek fees based upon some percentage of the gross receipts, regardless of the amount and value of the legal services rendered. The committee recommended that attorneys be required to file itemized statements of services rendered.

"As to understandings between law firms," the report concluded, "whereby when one is at the request of the other selected as receiver's attorney, it is expected to reciprocate in another case, the investigation of the committee discloses some evidence tending to show such understandings. Certain judges stated to the committee that situations of this sort had developed in their courts which, in their opinion, showed the existence of some such arrangement, and that they had endeavored to stop it by refusing to accept the suggestions of the counsel involved.

"One judge sought to justify his practice of selecting attorneys for receivers on this ground. The committee's attention has been called to instances where certain firms so often alternately appeared as attorneys for receivers and as complainant's solicitors as to indicate that some reciprocal arrangement existed between the firms. The practice last complained of is fraught with dangers to the administration of justice and is to be condemned as unprofessional."

For Purpose of Litigation.

In considering the practice of filing suits for the foreclosure of a single bond or note the other report stated: "It is the belief of the committee that in many cases lawyers filing such bills of complaint or intervening petitions have no real clients except themselves and that the bond supposed to be owned by the complainant is in fact the property of the lawyer, having been acquired by him not as an investment but for purposes of litigation; that in other cases the person who appears as complainant has been solicited to permit the use of his name for such purposes upon representation by the lawyer that he will be put to no expense and may obtain a price for his bond in excess of its market value; but in either case the proceedings carried on by the lawyer are primarily to attain his own ends rather than to protect or advance his client's interest."

The report stated that in many instances stockholders' liability suits against closed banks were begun by lawyers "not for the protection of depositors or creditors, but because of the cupidity of the lawyers seeking to obtain fees to be allowed to the complainant's solicitor." Many of these suits were filed very shortly after the closing of the banks and in some cases a few moments before the actual closing.

The fourth practice condemned by the committee is that of attorneys intervening in pending foreclosure proceedings in attempts to obtain leases for parties with no direct interest in the property.

"Within the last year—and particularly during the months just previous to the opening of A Century of Progress—persons having no interest intervened by petition asking for leave to lease the premises from the receiver at rentals less than the fair market value for the purpose of milking the property," the report said.

"In many such cases orders for the lease were entered over the objection of the owner, the receiver and the complainant and commissions were paid to brokers out of the first rentals deposited by the new lessees. The circumstances under which these petitions were presented constitute a strong justification for the belief that certain lawyers, brokers and property management interests worked collusively to obtain such leases over the wishes in some instances of all the parties to the litigation. The committee condemns as improper such practices as well as the action of court in entering an order over the protests of parties having a substantial interest in the subject matter of the litigation."

Report on D. E. Sullivan Jr.

Included with these reports, which were mailed out last night to all members of the bar association, was another report concerning Master in Chancery Denis E. Sullivan Jr. of the Superior court. Master Sullivan is the son of the acting chief justice of the Superior court. This report, which was adopted by the board of managers of the association, noted that from Dec. 4, 1931, when Master Sullivan was appointed until Dec. 31, 1931, cases involving a total of $10,775,000 were referred to him. Judge Sullivan referred only one case to his son on the request of all parties concerned and then reassigned the case to another judge.

The report states that Master Sullivan handled the cases satisfactorily and that his father never influenced references to him. However, the report says, "it was inherent in the situation itself that cases may have been referred to Master Sullivan in other branches of the court because his father was a member of the Superior court." The report concludes with a statement of the committee's belief that the practice should be to avoid the appointment of a son or other close relative of a judge to the office of master in chancery.

Report Unfair, Says Black.

John D. Black, president of the bar association, in a separate note included with the reports, stated that the report concerning Master Sullivan "is most unfair and I believe will not meet with the approval of the membership."

"Judge Sullivan's character, his honesty, courage, wisdom, and learning cannot be impaired," Mr. Black said, "yet I fear his standing in the public esteem, especially among those who do not know his record, may be seriously injured by this action. In my judgment there are no facts stated in the report or in the record which justify the reflection on either Judge Sullivan or his son; and I consider that it does them a grave injustice."

Senators Hear Mother Tell How Birth Data 'Saved Her'

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—When Margaret Sanger, pioneer birth control advocate marshalled her forces before a house committee last December, several congressmen complained that she had too many scientists quoting statistics; not enough mothers and fathers talking experiences.

So today, when she appeared before a senate judiciary subcommittee to urge the removal from the statute books of a 60 year old law forbidding the dissemination of birth control information, she was accompanied by some of the plain people who had come to her for advice.

The hearing was realistic and revealing.

Begged for Advice.

There was Mrs. Rose Halpern of New York. She's had seven children in eleven years; and not much to live on. Eager not to have more children than the family pocketbook could support, she said she went to a doctor; pleaded for advice.

"But the doctor, do you know what he told me?" she asked the senators, "he say to me 'What you want me to go to jail?' and he give me nothing."

Later she went to Mrs. Sanger. In a rush of words she fairly shouted: "I could decidedly say Mrs. Sanger has saved my life."

She told of Mrs. McCarthy, her neighbor to the left in her narrow, crowded street. Mrs. McCarthy was 34; and had nine children. There were five graves.

Then she faced the committee; extended her arms [her nails weren't manicured] and she pleaded:

"The doctors, they are afraid of the laws. But you gentlemen, you can change the laws. In the name of mothers, in the name of children, do something."

There was Laura Guthrie of Charlestown, W. Va.—a gentle, weary woman of 45. She has 12 children, seven of them under sixteen.

"I love my children," she declared. "I do love them. But misters, I lay awake at night and pray that the laws will be changed by the time my five daughters are old enough to have babies. Listen, I don't want them not to have any children, Oh no. But I don't want them to have more than they want or can take care of."

The door was pushed open. Hatless and breathless, an excited Italian man hurried up to the committee table.

"O, there's Vito," said Mrs. Thomas Hepburn [mother of Kathryn and one of the sponsors of the hearing].

Mrs. Sanger smiled at him; told the committee that Vito Silecchia of Brooklyn would speak.

He and "the missus" have 4 children; "3 very lively, and the last not normal."

Refused Information.

Dramatically, he told of the time he took his wife to a doctor, asking for contraceptive information. The doctor said he couldn't give it.

Later the Silecchias went to Mrs. Sanger's clinic. Today he is grateful.

Then he went on to tell that he was also speaking for ten relatives, whose total number of children were 75. Not one had been to high school—each mother had had "one, maybe two operations; maybe she needed another one, but there is no money.

"Each one of them 100 per cent Catholic. I am Catholic. Some claim it is a sin by not having children. I say it is a sin to have children, if they no go to school, and the mothers go to the hospital, and there is no money. To have too many children, it is not good."

There were others, too, who talked. A famous obstetrician; two earnest Quaker ladies; a Congregational minister and a Jewish rabbi.

But I venture to say that it is Rose, and Laura and Vito, whose words will be remembered by the senators.

CHINESE BRAND PU-YI CORONATION JAP PUPPET SHOW

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 1.—"An act of high treason against the Chinese republic," "a puppet show," and "a farcical comedy" were terms used today by Wang Ching-wei, China's premier and foreign minister, in a castigation of the coronation of Henry Pu-yi as Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo.

"Pu-yi's theatrical troupe consists of puppets controled by foreign masters," he said.

China's Attitude Unchanged.

"China's attitude toward the puppet régime is unchanged," Premier Wang declared. "The latest act at Changchun heightens the gravity of the far eastern problem. International rivalry is further increased, pointing to greater insecurity of world peace. It is a most deplorable situation, but the world knows where the responsibility lies."

Chinese newspapers exhausted the ideographic vocabulary expressing indignation and exasperation at Pu-yi's coronation. The Sin Wan Pao of Shanghai declared:

"The overthrow of the Manchu dynasty a quarter of a century ago was the result of the public opinion of 400,000,000 people. Hence the Japanese instigation in crowning this doll is a gross insult against the Chinese race. We must continue the revolutionary spirit which resulted in the Manchu dynastic overthrow in order to clear away this latest humiliation."

"Japan's Punch and Judy Stage."

The China Times contributed this description to the Changchun ceremonies:

"A monkey puts on his hat and struts across Japan's Punch and Judy stage. It is but a comic scene in the world's tragic show in which Japan makes a further step toward annexation of Manchuria, similar to Corea."

Chinese indignation reached an apex at Canton, where the republicans staged a monster parade protesting against the annexation of the northeastern provinces. Canton's protest against Pu-yi's coronation has taken the form of further rigid enforcement of the boycott on Japanese goods.

Canton's official organ, the Shih Min Jih Pao, sounded a warning to the Chinese people that the Japanese military shortly will occupy Mongolia as well as Chahar and Suiyuan provinces, since, in event of a Russo-Japanese war, Japan can thus cut all communication between China and Russia.

LENINGRAD SAFE FOR BEARDS; WOE TURNS INTO JOY

Emulating Peter the Great, who, more than 200 years ago, forced his nobles to shave off their facial adornments as a mark of their civilization, Vosko spread consternation throughout the city and caused much distress by laying violent hands on protruding beards of the Dvorniki—the house of porters—in his quarter.

During the last week he literally dragged scores of protesting elderly men to the barber shops where he personally supervised the removal of those beards.

He threatened them with the loss of their jobs and eviction from their living quarters as penalty if they resisted the onslaughts of the razor.

"Mercy, comrade," pleaded one old dvornik. "I am 70. I have had this beard forty-seven years. Children will throw stones at me if you take it off."

But the zealot Vosko answered: "We now have whitewashed the housefronts of the Nevsky prospect. That signifies you now live in a world of culture. But still you wear a dirty beard.

"Off it comes or out you go! Get rid of this disorder immediately."

In several cases he gave the bearded ones no chance to resign their jobs but held them in the barber's chair with the aid of an assistant while the proud beards were whanked off.

One old man who lost a brush aged twenty years complained that his neighbors no longer recognized him and that the dogs barked at his shame when he returned to his home.

When the news of Vosko's reign of terror reached high quarters, however, he was summarily dismissed from his job and thrown into jail.

CHEAP SOAP CHIPS PERIL TO CLOTHES

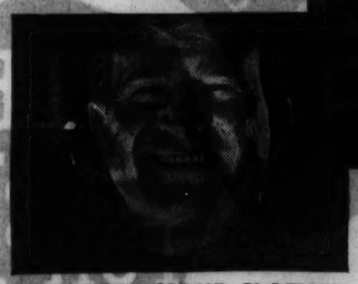
Lack of real soap makes weak suds and hard rubbing which wears out clothes . . . Weak suds "die down", cause "spotting" and "specking" . . . More chips are needed to "hold up" the suds . . . Free alkali, strong water softeners and bleaches fade colors and roughen hands...Free fatty acids slow down sudsing...Rancid fats give clothing unpleasant odors . . . Experience teaches, "It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes."

TAKE AN EXPERT'S ADVICE

Here's Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, distinguished lecturer on Home Economics, telling you to "Capture the thief in your laundry soap and you'll have more leisure and more money to spend on pretty things. For clothes 'give out' from the weakening effect of common laundry soap more often than they wear out. You'll be amazed how much less money and work it takes to keep the family and household supplied with linens when you use American Family Flakes. It never changes colors. Even sheer stockings keep their original shades when laundered in it. What a saver it is, of money and labor."

FOR THIS HARD LAKE WATER

The water of this Great Lakes region is hard. Use the flakes and soap especially created for it . . . American Family. They give double-suds . . . floating out dirt without hard rubbing; saving your clothes, energy, money and time. For more than 90 years, through good times and bad, women of this region have bought more American Family than all other laundry soaps combined.



HIS FACE—YOUR CLOTHES

The soot fall in the Chicago area is 88 tons per square mile per month, and the dust fall is almost 236 tons for the same area and period. Try to wash this mess out of your clothing with the thin, weak, frothy suds of cheap soap chips, in Lake Michigan water, with its "soap hardness" rating of 126. It's a hard-rubbing, slow-rinsing, clothes-destroying job. But give American Family a chance at it. Watch soot and dirt float away, under the magic action of its pure, rich, creamy, double-suds.

FALSE ECONOMY SCORES ANOTHER "RUN"!

How much do you pay for your stockings? For the sake of argument, say one dollar. Alright! Now! How much soap do you need to wash them? Let's be generous and say two tablespoonsful, costing you less than one cent. Figured on this basis, you gamble one dollar against the fraction of a cent, every time you launder your hosiery with cheap soap chips.

And you always lose! Why? Because cheap chips contain free alkali, strong water softeners and bleaches which devitalize threads and fade colors; because cheap chips make weak suds which demand hard, clothes-destroying rubbing. Cheap chips are false economy! Instead, use American Family Flakes. No free alkali, strong water softeners or bleaches here; nothing but real soap, giving pure, concentrated, double-suds that float out the dirt.

SLEW RASPUTIN AFTER SINGING TO HIM, PRINCE SAYS

Mad Monk Hypnotized Me, He Testifies.

LONDON, March 1.—(AP)—New details—piling horror on horror—regarding the death of the sinister monk, Rasputin, in the St. Petersburg imperial palace were recited by Prince Felix Youssoupoff today in an excited London court.

The descendant of high Russian nobility, appearing in a damage suit hearing, told how he was partly hypnotized by the mad monk, how he gave his victim poisoned cakes and wine, and shot and beat him to death before a crucifix.

Prince Youssoupoff testified in his wife's $2,000,000 suit against the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Ltd., for allegedly libeling her in a film depicting Rasputin and the Russian czarina. Passages from a book by the prince were read "to show the picture historically inaccurate."

Conclude Princess' Case.

The case for Princess Irina Youssoupoff was concluded this afternoon, and Sir William Jowitt, for the defense, told the jury it must be proved that the film referred to her.

Sir William asked the prince if, just before the slaying, he was not suffering from nervous strain, so that he hardly knew what he was doing.

"It is quite natural," replied the witness, quietly. "I am not a professional murderer. I did not, however, lose my head at the time of the killing. I sang songs to the monk for a half hour before giving him poisoned cakes and wine."

Clubbed Bleeding Form.

Then, he went on, he shot the monk and clubbed the bleeding form when a co-conspirator's final shot apparently had not finished the gruesome assassination.

Rasputin's last look, he said, was one of intense hatred. The monk frothed at the mouth and turned toward the prince, realizing he was poisoned. He fell back heavily on a rug and "roared like a wild beast."

Earlier, Youssoupoff testified, he lay on a couch while the mysterious monk stroked his chest and face, creating a powerful mesmeric influence.

Sir William elicited from the witnesses an account of several visits he made to Rasputin to cure an ailment.

"It is a fact, is it not," asked Sir William, "that his treatment did you some good?"

Wanted Throne, Prince Says.

"No, it did not," replied the prince.

The witness declared he killed Rasputin because the monk planned to betray Russia and seize the throne.

After the slaying, when the prince succumbed to his overwrought condition, some one else threw the body in a hole in the ice covering the Neva river.

An attack on an American woman lawyer retained by Princess Irina Youssoupoff was made late today by the defense attorney.

Before Prince Youssoupoff left the witness stand Sir William questioned him concerning Miss Fanny Holtzman, a New York attorney retained by the prince's wife.

"I suggest she has been exploiting your wife," Sir William remarked.

The princess previously denied on the stand that she authorized Miss Holtzman last August to "settle for money" and insisted her original aim was only to halt the presentation of the picture which, she alleges, linked her with the mysterious Rasputin.

Prince Says "No."

Sir William did not press the prince for a statement, whereupon Sir Patrick Hastings, in reëxamining the witness, asked: "Has any one suggested until now that there was anything dishonorable in bringing this action?"

To this the prince replied in the negative.

Following the prince on the stand, several witnesses testified they considered that both Prince and Princess Youssoupoff were portrayed in the film.

These witnesses included Gen. Sir John Hanbury Williams and Admiral Sir Aubrey Smith, who were high British officials in Russia during the world war, and Prince Nikita, brother of the princess.

A dress rehersal of the cast of "Step Ahead," eighth annual revue to be presented by Mirror, women's organization of the University of Chicago, was held yesterday in the Reynolds club theater. The revue is to be presented to the public tonight and tomorrow night. The subject matter of the revue contains speculation as to the future in the drama and college life.

CITY EMPLOYES GET $3,900,000 DECEMBER PAY

City Controler Upham yesterday began the payment of approximately $3,900,000 to city employés, the amount covering their salaries for the month of December, 1933. The payment, on orders of Mayor Kelly, was made possible by the sale of tax warrants, receipts of tax and license money, and a payment of $811,541 by the Illinois Bell Telephone company as called for in its franchise for use of the streets.

The pay of city employés now is only two months in arrears. Their salaries for December, 1932, were not paid until April 28, according to city records, showing that at this time they are two months ahead as compared to a year ago.

JAPAN GRABS AT LATIN AMERICAN EXPORT BUSINESS

Organized Trade Drive a Blow to U. S.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 25.—[By Mail.]—Japanese penetration into the field long held by Americans, British and Germans is the outstanding commercial development of the last few months in Central and South America. While Japan has increased her business with Mexico 115 per cent in the last six months, the figures for December in the republic of Panama show an increase of 275 per cent over November. Imports from the United States here showed only a 16 per cent gain.

This is a story American exporters will do well to heed, for the increased Japanese trade is reflected in month by month figures since the middle of last year, when an organized trade drive was begun in Japan, backed by the government, newspapers, shipping lines, banks, and commercial organizations.

Lesson for U. S. Exporters.

Its methods may hold a lesson for American exporters seeking to widen their markets in this part of the world. The same story is reported from Cuba, Haiti and the Caribbean area. Japan ignores spheres of political influence and concentrates on providing attractive wares at astonishingly low prices on the shopping streets of Hawaii, Manila, Java, and Singapore, as well as in this area.

In Costa Rica it was rumored that Japanese battleships were coming over on the peaceful mission of carrying electric light bulbs, spectacle frames, stockings, pearl buttons, and exhibits of other Japanese goods. In Peru they offer dental supplies at a 200 and 300 per cent reduction over the goods of other countries. In Brazil they are settling and intermarrying. In Ecuador they weave a "Panama hat" of any specified shape or size.

They are at work in Colombia seeking to offset the results of the recent commercial treaty with the United States, first fruit of the new foreign trade policy of the Roosevelt administration. They are thoroughly awake to the strategy of the United States, Great Britain, France and the other nations in making trade bargains, and make a big point in Latin America of holding out the hope of new markets.

May Drink More Coffee.

It is even suggested they may become a coffee drinking nation in order that they may buy more coffee from their cousins in Central America. They talk with the Argentine officials of taking frozen meat from there to feed the Japanese army in return for increased exports. They seek a new source of wool away from Australia, which bars them out and buys little from them. Brazilians are given the hope of supplying the Japanese cotton market.

The Japanese strength lies first in its ability to produce cheaply, due to depreciation of the yen and low living standards of the workers in Japan, in the active support of the government and shipping lines, and in its increased purchases from Latin America. Its weakness lies in the long distance haul and the limited market which it offers. At present the Japanese competition is formidable in an increasing number of lines. It is the opinion of competent observers that if Japan improves the quality of her manufactures the competition with the United States goods will become more general and more difficult.

Goods for Poorer Classes.

Goods being offered by Japan in the Central American markets now are largely for the poorer classes and represent unusual values to them. It is reported by one importer that Japanese goods laid down in Panama, after payment of duties, cost only 60 per cent of what must be paid for similar goods in the United States before they are shipped here. For about $1 the Indian buyer in the Central America bazar can buy an outfit in the way of shirt, trousers and canvas shoes.

The competition extends beyond this class of trade, however. It is beginning to be felt in such goods as tires and cement. The Onoda Cement company of Japan offers cement to Hawaii and to the Canal Zone. It is offered on consignment here, but no one has been willing to take it. Her tires are said to be equal to the best in the United States, with Ford and General Motors using them in their Java trade.

Japanese Traders Call.

Japanese traders visited here last November. It was noted that in a tour of the leading stores they used the official car of the Japanese consul. They pointed out American products in textiles and specialties, inquired the prices and said they could duplicate at one-half the price.

From here the mission proceeded to other Central American ports and is now said to be on the way to Mexico. These trade missionaries travel quietly and dispense with banquets and good will speeches, which is the traditional American method. They bring descriptive material and samples of everything made in Japan, and a staff of commercial experts. They hold business conferences in English, French and Spanish. They quote prices, which is their chief talking point.

The Japanese drive was organized in the middle of 1933. The Central and South American Trading company was organized under the auspices of Baron Nakajima, secretary of commerce. Members of the corporation formed the delegation to visit these countries. The O. S. K. line, which has fortnightly sailings to the east coast of South America, organized trade associations, trade missions, luncheon clubs. The Japanese newspapers gave space to the plan and propaganda began to appear in Latin American publications. Banking and communications were looked into.

In a special trade booklet which was printed in English and Spanish, it was stated that the Japanese Manufacturers and Exporters federation of Osaka and chambers of commerce and industry, under close supervision of the Japanese government, were endeavoring to develop foreign trade and enforce control over the production and sales of those commodities intended for export. The duty of the organization was to see that the foreign markets were always supplied with "superior Japanese merchandise at moderate prices," and to send trade missions out to create new markets.

"We are convinced," it was stated in the booklet, which is a weird straining of Japanese thought, through Spanish into English, "that in order to enhance trade between nations it must be deserved to maintain a fair balance and understood that the countries concerned in overseas trade, one an industrial nation and the other a raw material producer, are to be interdependent. The federation longs for not merely in selling our commodities, but in buying your products."

Catalog of Goods.

The booklet then became a catalog of Japanese goods. Cotton goods are the big offering, but the Japanese remember that there are mosquitoes and bugs here and offer powder to exterminate them. Then come jewelry, shirts, hats, handkerchiefs, radios, gramophones, bicycles, toilet articles, iron, hosiery, underwear, glass, pipes, soap, cutlery, blankets, lamps, electric goods, thermos bottles, etc.

The result of all this in Panama at least has been that Great Britain has lost second place in imports and while the United States maintains the dominant lead, her hold has been slipping. For 1933 the United States sent in goods worth $5,060,454, a loss of 1.4 per cent over 1932.

Japan exported here $693,329 worth of goods, an increase of 117 per cent over 1932. These exports consisted of articles formerly supplied in Panama by the United States, England, and Germany, and consisted chiefly of rayon products, silk, toys, and specialties. The Canal Zone commissary stores have been adversely affected by the Japanese merchandise in Panama City and Colon. The Chinese in the bazars who buy American products are unable to compete with the Syrians who import Japanese goods. Many Japanese stores have been opened.

Quake Wrecks Homes

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 1.—(AP)—A strong earthquake of two and one-half minutes' duration shook the region from Concepcion south to Valdivia late this afternoon.

The earthquake started at 5:45 p. m. and it was so severe that all telegraphic communications with the area were cut off. Government officials feared that heavy damage was caused. They were unable to find out immediately whether there were any victims.

Concepcion, the third city of the republic, is in the central-southern region, and Valdivia is an important city in the far south.

Roofs and walls tumbled into the streets in Valdivia, the director of telegraphs reported to the ministry of the interior.

Berlin Offers to Buy More Raw Materials.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 1. — A German trade delegation, headed by Dr. Hans Ernst Posse, director of the ministry of economics, will sail for the United States to negotiate a new reciprocal trade agreement as soon as Washington informs Berlin that President Roosevelt is empowered to negotiate such an accord.

The Germans hope to sail on the Europa on March 9. They are anxious to open negotiations in Washington before American bankers reach Berlin to negotiate a new flexible agreement on Germany's payments of her debts to the United States.

Seek More Raw Materials.

The Germans offer to buy more raw materials from the United States—lard, oil, and cotton—if America reduces the tariff on German finished products, increases the German wine quota, and agrees to a division of markets for manufactured goods in South America.

The Germans declare the rapid dwindling of their gold reserves makes it imperative to find new outlets for their manufactured goods if they are to continue buying American and other goods. According to the Germans, they buy three times as much from America as the United States buys from Germany, and the delegation has orders to aim at a more advantageous trade balance.

German manufacturers have been piling up a tremendous reserve of American raw materials. They declare they are taking advantage of the depreciated dollar. Some American business men believe the Germans have sufficient raw materials to last them a year. This would explain the great drop of the Reichsbank's gold and foreign currency reserves. The Germans deny this and assert they are willing to buy raw materials in the United States if a reciprocal agreement can be reached.

Five Members on Mission.

The German trade mission to the United States will be composed of five members.

Meanwhile figures indicate the Germans have succeeded in reducing their public debt by a billion gold marks [nearly $400,000,000] in the past year, while all other countries of the world are staggering under enormous new public obligations.

This fact, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, believes will enable him to continue to resist the pressure brought upon him by exporters to abandon the gold standard, which would permit them to sell cheaply in foreign countries.

Even Chancellor Hitler could not induce Dr. Schacht to accept open inflation. Consequently the government will do everything in its power to obtain an outlet for manufactured goods regardless of the cost.

ALE or BEER?
Which is the Drink of the Future?

A Statement by G. M. BLACK, President, Drewrys Limited, Winnipeg, Canada

DURING Prohibition, many of you from the States were our guests in Canada. We noticed at the time that you seemed to prefer Ale to beer or even hard liquor. Ale had a very mild, very pleasing flavor that was new to you. It had a heavier body than beer. Also, frankly, you seemed to prefer it because it was quite a bit stronger in alcohol.

For some time now, Drewrys 12% Proof Spirits Ale has been brewed in the United States—the first Canadian Ale made in your country—and having the advantage of our more than fifty years of experience, in Canada, it has naturally become by far the most popular ale in the States. (In many of your large markets, we are told, it is even more popular than beer.) Evidently your tastes haven't changed now that you can drink at home instead of in Canada. WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C.M.Co.

You want some things strong ..but when it comes to cigarettes you want them mild

But most smokers, we find, like a mild cigarette. That may be because people smoke more nowadays. Or perhaps they've found that in a milder cigarette like Chesterfield they get more of the aroma and taste.

Milder doesn't mean namby-pamby. To Chesterfield smokers it means a cigarette that's mild and yet satisfies.

PRESIDENT ASKS TARIFF POWERS AS AID TO TRADE

Congress to Get Message from Him Today.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—In a special message scheduled to be transmitted to congress tomorrow, President Roosevelt will initiate his program for reviving foreign trade through tariff bargaining with other countries.

Inasmuch as the tariff issue is always highly controversial, there is in prospect a spectacular party battle over the President's proposal that he be granted authority for three years to revise tariff rates upward or downward 50 per cent in consideration of reciprocal concessions by other nations.

See Power to Ruin Industry.

Only by such means, contend the Democrats, is it going to be possible to beat down the barriers which have been raised by all nations against foreign trade. The Republicans contend that the scheme would lodge in the hands of the administration the power to ruin American industries by removal of protection and that in any event the plan is impractical so long as the currencies of the leading commercial nations are unstable.

Neither of the minority leaders, Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.] in the senate and Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.] in the house is under any illusion that the measure can be defeated. The Democratic majority in each house will be able to bowl over all opposition. They are thanking the President, however, for giving the Republicans the first issue on which they can carry a fight to the country. Senator McNary said today that if the President were wise he would not make the move.

Provides Issue for G. O. P.

"It will give us a good issue and we will fight for the traditional treatment of tariff duties by congress," Senator McNary said.

"At the present time, under the flexible tariff provisions, tariff duties are changed on the basis of facts produced by the tariff commission," Representative Snell said.

"The duties can be changed only after the commission reports on the difference in cost production here and abroad. Under the President's plan, tariff duties would be made by only one man and not based on facts, but simply desires. Republicans do not look upon this program with favor and will do their utmost to defeat it."

Speaker Rainey described the President's proposal as "the most important yet." While he conceded that the Republicans would oppose the measure he held that this "is a change in tariff policy, not in the tariff."

Rainey Says Power Needed.

"We are not changing the tariff on any specific items—the flexible provisions have been held legal by the Supreme court," he said. "We're the only nation in the world allowing tariffs to be made by legislative bodies. If the world is going to get back on its feet we've got to reopen markets. If we are going to sell abroad we must permit other nations to sell to us. This present paralysis of world trade must be ended."

A high administration official who attended the White House conference explained that any reciprocal arrangements entered into with foreign countries would be within the limits of existing most favored nation treaties. While admitting that this limitation might detract from the effectiveness of reciprocity, he maintained that "to do otherwise would tie the world up in a knot."

Exceptions of Treaties.

Recognition of the most favored nation principle will require that trade advantages extended to any individual country must also be allowed any other countries with which the United States has such treaties. Thus, if the United States entered into a reciprocal agreement for lowering the tariff on specific imports from France the same arrangement would follow with Germany and other countries with which the United States has conditional or unconditional most favored nation treaties.

In the case of conditional treaties, however, advantages extended to a contracting country would go to a treaty country only if the latter agreed to extend to the United States the same advantages, and vice versa, as were involved in the reciprocal contract.

What took place at the conference left no doubt of the President's intention to obtain eventually a complete balance between exports and imports of merchandise to and from the United States. This balance would be exclusive of influences tending to offset a favorable balance of trade in goods such as remittances to foreign countries on investments and tourist expenditures.

President's Views Given.

While this marks a radical departure in commercial policy, the President was represented by an administration official as feeling that international economic peace is impossible so long as individual nations seek through large favorable trade balances to increase their own prosperity at the expense of the purchasing power in other nations.

The President, according to this official, would eliminate "favorable balance and unfavorable balances" of trade as such. He feels favorable balances of trade in goods can be enjoyed only at the cost of unfavorable balances for other countries.

This principle would not be applied to the foreign trade of the United States with individual nations but to its total foreign trade. The administration accepts that some countries are necessarily surplus or deficit countries in regard to exports to other individual countries.

WINS WRIT

MRS. HALLY COLVIN.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke yesterday issued an injunction restraining Willard Otis Colvin, sportsman and heir to a million dollar estate, from hiding his assets during the pendency of a suit for separate maintenance filed by his wife, Mrs. Hally McLeod Colvin, 28 years old, 100 East Chicago avenue. The injunction was granted after a brief hearing during which the judge continued the case until next Monday.

Both Colvin and his wife appeared in the court of Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Colvin's attorney, Samuel A. Rinella, announced that he was seeking the injunction and asking for temporary alimony. Colvin, through his lawyer, David K. Tone, announced that he wanted a change of venue. Judge La Buy asked why Colvin believed that he could not get a fair trial in the court, but Colvin refused to give a reason.

Judge La Buy then sent the case to Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Circuit court for reassignment, and it was placed on the calendar of Judge Burke. When Attorney Rinella renewed his motion for temporary alimony before Judge Burke he was told to present his petition again on Monday.

EXPECT DAIRIES' OFFER TO SETTLE WAGE DISPUTE

Commission Plan Before Meeting Today.

A compromise offer by which the wage dispute between the Chicago milk companies and the Milk Wagon Drivers' union is expected to be settled is to be considered by both sides this morning.

The dairy group and drivers' union each expects to have a committee of six officials present at the meeting, which will be the third wage conference this week. It is to be held at the Stevens hotel. The wages of about 6,500 milk route drivers are involved.

According to information available last night, the offer is to be a decided departure from any ever made by employers to union labor in Chicago. It is to provide, in lieu of a flat minimum wage scale for all drivers, no matter how much business they produce, that the companies shall pay a fixed commission on every unit of sale made by the drivers.

Offer Commission on Sales.

Under the companies' proposal outlined, those drivers whose routes support a business of 1,800 units of sale [a unit being a quart of milk, a pound of butter, two pints of milk, a bottle of cream, or a dozen eggs] for a seven day week would still receive the same amount provided in the fixed wage scale now in effect. The commission per unit, it was reported, would be slightly more than 2 cents.

The present scale provides for a minimum sale of 1,333 units in a six day week, and a commission for sales above that amount. Few milk wagons are now carrying a full load of dairy products. The companies are seeking a means of making each milk wagon profitable alike to themselves and the efficient drivers.

In effect the new commission or "merit" system would obviate the need of cutting several hundred drivers off the companies' pay rolls, as was provided in arrangements made this week. It would also make each driver his own dealer, and the companies would know the exact sales cost on every bottle of milk.

Operative in Other Cities.

The plan, while a departure from the practice for milkmen, bakery drivers, and other food salesmen belonging to unions in Chicago, is in operation now in somewhat different form in many eastern cities, including Boston, Philadelphia, and New York, and Milwaukee. In some cities the milkmen are guaranteed a minimum wage of about $25 a week, with higher commissions than are paid above the existing Chicago minimum of $40 a week.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

37 Hogs to Market

February 28.

CLARENCE THUROW, manager of the experimental farm, heard this morning about the 37 hogs which he sent to the Chicago market. They sold at $4.25 per hundred [weight 143 pounds], with the lighter weights going at $3.25 per hundred. Shortage of feed is making it necessary to market these hogs at this time.

Rawlings discovered a new tenant in the barn this morning—a bird that is helping to decimate the mouse population around the place. He had occasion to go up into the haymow, and there was one of those funny faced barn owls trying to get in a little nap before his evening mouse hunting expeditions. [This owl is a great mouser, feeding almost exclusively on small rodents. Sleeps all day and then makes life miserable for the mice most of the night].

Lots of odd jobs to be done these days around the place. Guenther rearranged all the hog pens and put clean bedding around the stock. Then there was a cistern to be cleaned and prepared for plastering. That's been done in spite of unfavorable weather for such work.

The water fountains in the barn are being repaired. [That cold weather froze many of them.] Johnson and Sleezer continue to haul fertilizer out to the pastures, which are going to be improved by a new seeding this spring.

The neighbors out here in the Fox valley have just had their "signing up" days on the corn-hog program. [This signing up business is part of the government's program calling for a 20 per cent reduction in the acreage used to grow corn and also a reduction in the number of hogs marketed. Instead of getting paid to grow corn and produce hogs the farmer gets a bonus for NOT doing these things.]

Rawlings has set up the brooder to be ready for the young chicks which are being purchased and will be delivered soon. The walls and floor of the chicken house are pretty damp and frosty, so he's going to have to dry out the place for a couple of days. Then it will be all right for the chicks.

Rawlings now is feeding laying mash to the Barred Rocks. He has it in the self-feeders.

The chickens are getting 20 pounds of mixed feed in the morning [oats, corn and wheat]. Then around 10 o'clock he gives them beet pulp soaked over night. Late in the afternoon the poultry are fed another 20 pounds of mixed feed.

Rawlings' daily record shows that egg production is climbing. Forty-seven eggs yesterday. Today 51. He's sold 60 eggs for hatching. The price was $1.80, on the basis of $3 per hundred. This is an experiment on early eggs. The price will be higher later.

The twin lambs are coming along fine. All the ewes are being fed plenty of food consisting of mixed hay in the morning, corn fodder at noon and clover hay at night.

The little pigs have been something of a problem. They have been so cold during the days of low temperatures that they crowded together and even piled on top of each other to keep warm. To keep them from smothering each other Clarence had to divide them up in small lots.

TAX SPECIALIST IS INDICTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

George P. Witter, 1400 Lake Shore drive, an accountant and tax expert, was indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on the charge that he defrauded the government of approximately $4,000 in income tax for the years of 1930 and 1931. The indictment was returned before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

E. Riley Campbell, special assistant United States attorney, said that Witter, who used the alias J. G. Williams, got approximately $100,000 in fees for successful tax suits against the government before the bureau of internal revenue. Witter is alleged to have won tax refunds totaling $200,000 for the F. D. Stout estate, accepted half as his fee, and failed to pay tax upon the sum.

The government charged that Witter had an income of $48,043 for 1930 on which he should have paid a tax of $2,807. During 1931, according to the indictment, Witter should have paid a tax of $1,089 on an income of $27,096.

WOMAN FREED IN SHOOTING.

Although wounded in the arm in a shooting during a drinking party in her home recently, Mrs. Walter Lutz, 30 years old, 2517 North Clark street, refused to tell police who fired the shot and she was freed yesterday when arraigned for disorderly conduct.

FARMERS WANT LAW COMPELLING CROP REDUCTION

Would Strengthen Powers of the AAA.

Recommendations that the Agricultural Adjustment act be so strengthened that the secretary of agriculture will have the power to force farmers into compulsory coöperation were formulated yesterday by the directors of the American Farm Bureau federation, meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

It was further recommended that the secretary of agriculture, under the AAA, be granted the power to issue injunctions to require the fulfilment of marketing agreements and the observance of licensing provisions.

Text of Amendment.

"To permit the secretary of agriculture to put into operation whatever control or marketing plan is agreed on by the producers of two-thirds of the acreage of any commodity, and to make such plan apply to the entire commodity and all producers thereof."

Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the federation, said that the two recommendations would establish the solicitor for the department of agriculture as "a sort of court from which there would be no appeal."

It was further explained at the meeting that if two-thirds of the producers of any commodity, under the proposed plan, formed a coöperative this group should receive all the federal aid granted, but that the others remaining outside would be compelled to observe the trade agreement while sharing none of the benefits.

Wants U. S. to Buy Excess Land.

Another point taken up by the federation was land utilization. It was urged that the federal government set up machinery to buy, with bonds bearing low interest, lands which for various reasons farmers may wish to rid themselves of.

"Such lands," said Mr. Gray, "would be returned to the public domain and permanently retired from production. Presumably the lands that farmers would sell would be those with low production."

The federation directorate also considered a legislative report recommending specific marketing plans for various types of live stock and farm crops.

The session, which is presided over by Edward A. O'Neal of Montgomery, Ala., head of the federation, will end this afternoon.

NOW LET'S SEE WHAT HAPPENS
when HYDROX starts its own CWA

WE have told you that any scientifically planned expenditure which puts men to work now must also provide means for more men for more work later on. Today we are going to tell you how our own planned expenditure is intended to work out.

A new type of ice cream freezer has been developed. And a new scientific method of freezing the finished product in the so-called "hardening room" has been worked out. These new methods have been through all of their experimental stages. They produce the most delicious ice cream that has ever been made.

Ordinarily, they would not be introduced into Hydrox at this time.

But, imbued with the idea of the Presidential plan for industries to adopt their own CWA programs, it seemed to the Hydrox Company, as leader of its industry, that it could, with value now to its community and with future values to itself, undertake this work at once.

The job itself calls for labor in almost every branch of construction, because virtually the whole inside of the Hydrox plant had to be changed.

Immediately, work has therefore been provided for steam-fitters, plumbers, cement workers, iron workers, carpenters, tile setters, electricians, painters, decorators, and so on. All of these men are on the job now. Therefore, our own CWA program is now going on.

Even new types of trucks for delivering this new cream had to be developed, and new trucks with special bodies have been ordered. (Detroit and Flint, Michigan, please take notice. More of your men also have gone to work.)

Now for the future of this work. What we have done is to produce an ice cream of such fineness and delicacy that we will find more workers necessary in our own plant, and will also inspire the changing of many other ice cream plants throughout the country.

Next week we shall tell you how these new freezers and this new hardening process operates to produce such wonderful ice cream. And as shortly thereafter as possible, we shall invite quite a few thousands of you to come as our guests and pass judgment on what we have done.

SENATE TO VOTE ON ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY MAR. 14

Lewis and Others Hope to Defeat Treaty.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Opponents of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada today finally won an end to the long delay imposed by administration strategists and obtained an agreement to vote on ratification of the treaty not later than 6 p. m. March 14.

The agreement for a showdown was gained through the persistent efforts of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Democratic whip and leader of the opposition to the treaty. Until today the treaty's friends, obedient to the wishes of President Roosevelt, had followed a policy of delay to give presidential influence time to work on senators reluctant to cast favorable votes.

Foes Seek Early Votes.

The efforts of Senator Lewis and other treaty foes, on the other hand, have sought as early a vote as possible so an opposition, admittedly large enough to block the treaty, might not be lost little by little through pressure and promises from the White House.

Neither side tonight was ready to claim a sure victory. Senator Lewis believed the opposition had sufficient votes to beat the treaty, but admitted that the two weeks between now and the final balloting might see some defections.

Unofficial polls to date have shown the treaty beaten. One report was that the treaty could command only 41 votes instead of the necessary two-thirds of those voting if it is to be ratified.

The willingness of the proponents of the treaty to come to a vote at all, however, placed predictions of defeat in a different light. It is believed that the President would not allow one of his pet projects to come to a test unless he thought he had sufficient votes lined up to put it over.

Roosevelt Foresees Success.

It is known that as recently as a few days ago he told senate leaders that he was particularly anxious not to suffer a defeat on the treaty issue. Such a defeat would be all the harder to take because of the leadership on the opposition side of Democratic loyalists like Senator Lewis and Senatbr Robert F. Wagner of New York, both of whom have been active in supporting other New Deal measures.

The agreement for the final vote, while negotiated by Senator Lewis, was proposed according to senate precedent by Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], in charge of the treaty by virtue of his chairmanship of the foreign relations committee. Under the agreement the treaty is to be formally taken up at noon, March 13, under rules limiting debate upon the treaty itself to twenty minutes for each senator and to ten minutes per senator on any amendment or reservation. The final vote is to be taken at 6 o'clock the following evening.

May Help Chicago.

Should opponents of the treaty be able to hold their line there is an excellent chance that the administration will be forced to concede reservations affecting Lake Michigan and the water diversions by the Chicago sanitary district.

Reservations protecting American sovereignty over Lake Michigan and the use of lake water for navigation purposes in the Illinois-Mississippi waterway have been proposed, notably by Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.].

Anthony H. Fokker, noted airplane designer, passed through Chicago via United Air Lines yesterday en route from Los Angeles to New York after having negotiated the purchase of the European manufacturing rights for the new Douglas air liner. He is sailing for Holland tomorrow, where he will test a new thirty-six passenger plane of his design that is being completed for the Amsterdam-Java 8,000 mile air route. This plane has sixteen Pullman berths and four cabins.

SENATOR'S WIDOW IS INVOLVED IN A MARITAL TANGLE

Says Husband Rewed, but Didn't Divorce Her

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The widow of a United States senator, an aviator, a Chicago divorcée and Reno were well scrambled in a divorce suit filed in New York Supreme court today.

Mrs. Lillian Platt Atwater, widow of Tom Platt, former Republican senator, asked the court to free her of all marital bonds to Lieut. William Atwater, 10 years her junior, whom she married a year after Platt died, 23 years ago.

Atwater found himself in a tailspin today for the reason that, about a year ago, he took a Reno divorce court's word for it that he was divorced from Mrs. Atwater, and on the same day became the husband of Mabel H. Shedd of Chicago.

The plaintiff's complaint sets forth, however, that Atwater made the faux pas of failing to serve papers on the mate he sought freedom from in the Reno action with the result that Mrs. Atwater made no appearance in the suit. Such a slip-up, New York courts have held repeatedly, was a vital legal mistake. In short, the Atwaters were never divorced according to New York laws.

Thus the plaintiff claims that she was the only genuine Mrs. Atwater all the time Atwater was living with Mabel on Long Island. Furthermore, she claims she clinched her case when she found Atwater asleep in Mabel's honeymoon apartment here.

So Mabel was named co-respondent. She might be Atwater's wife in Reno, but not in New York.

Along with her divorce demand Mrs. Atwater asks for $500 a month alimony and $7,500 counsel fees.

SENATOR FESS' SON LINKED TO AIR MAIL DEALS

Hanshue Tells of Dicker for Contracts.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—Lehr Fess, Julius Kahn and William H. Philp today were added to the list of younger members of families well known in Washington officialdom who had part in the dickering of airline companies for contracts to carry the mails.

Harris M. Hanshue, president of Western Air Express, told a senate committee that Fess and Philp represented National Air Transport at an air operators conference and that Kahn had done political work in Washington for Western Air.

Fess is a son of the senator from Ohio; Philp a son of a former fourth assistant postmaster general, and Kahn a son of Representative Florence P. Kahn of California.

Tells of Smoot's Efforts.

The hearing already had brought out the dealings of Ernest W. Smoot, son of the former senator from Utah, with government departments for airline and other concerns.

Hanshue said Kahn did traffic work in San Francisco for Western Air and was in Washington a relatively short time doing political work.

More testimony went into the record today about young Smoot. Hanshue said Smoot had sold the company the idea that he could expedite a decision from Controler General McCarl which would release government payments to the company.

Hanshue said Smoot told him his father, the former Utah senator, would write a letter to McCarl.

"You knew the chief object of his employment was to get a favorable decision from the controler general?" Chairman Black asked.

Mentions Brown's Name.

"To assist in expediting," Hanshue replied. "I don't think anybody could do much with the controler general.

The airline official said he had been forced to make an unfavorable contract with American Airways.

"Why did you make such a contract?" asked Black.

"Had you been told you had to agree with them to get the mail contract?"

"Yes."

"Who told you that?"

"Postmaster General Brown."

Hanshue said the agreement with American Airways forbade his company from seeking extensions that would be competitive.

"The postmaster general approved this contract?" asked Black.

JAIL 2 OFFICIALS OF COAL COMPANY FOR CONTEMPT

Thomas H. Cochran, president, and John H. Evans, treasurer, of the Ender Coal and Coke company, 80 East Jackson boulevard, were arrested and placed in the county jail last evening to serve 30 day sentences for contempt of court. The sentences, imposed in June, 1932, by Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, were upheld two days ago by the Illinois Supreme court. Judge Sullivan also fined each defendant $1,000.

Cochran and Evans were arrested at the office of their attorney, W. A. Rogan, 111 West Washington street, by Deputy Sheriffs George Hellmann and Edward Regan.

They were found guilty of contempt by Judge Sullivan for destroying records of their company after the records had been ordered into court. The suit out of which the contempt proceedings arose was brought by Attorney J. B. Martineau in behalf of the Harrisburg Coal Mining company, seeking an accounting of the records of the Ender company.

AVIATION NOTES

Air express shipments, which last year amounted to 1,660,000 pounds, grew from the first merchandise ever carried in an airplane, between Dayton and Columbus, O., on Nov. 17, 1910. Five bolts of silk weighing 30 pounds comprised the shipment, which was made in the tenth airplane built by the Wright brothers. Phillip Parmalee flew the plane.

United Air Lines' pay roll of 1,430 employés is 30 per cent greater than the company's pay roll a year ago, officials said yesterday. Not one employé has been discharged since the cancelation of all domestic air mail contracts.

REVEAL ARMY AIR MAIL FLYERS ARE WITHOUT FUNDS

Hotels Provide Money for Necessities.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, assistant chief of the air corps in charge of the army's air mail operations, landed at Chicago airport yesterday on a survey flight of the air mail routes. He praised the operation of the central zone, under command of Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam, and the morale of the officers and men, who have been without funds since they took over their new jobs ten days ago.

Gen. Westover revealed that as yet no pay, or allowance money of any kind, has been received by the officers and enlisted men of the air corps who are flying the mail. They were ordered to posts away from their home stations at military flying fields and no provision has been made to meet their increased living costs, he said.

Hotel Advances Funds.

Forty officers in charge of operations and maintenance work, forty officers on flight duty, 231 enlisted men, and 70 civilian employés have been working at Chicago airport under these conditions, Gen. Westover said. The army personnel has been living at the Hotel Halwood, 740 Englewood avenue, on credit. The hotel management has even advanced some of the officers and men money to pay for laundry, barber work, and other necessities.

"I find the morale of the personnel to be extremely high, even though funds are lacking to pay our officers and enlisted men, some of whom draw as little as $21 a month," Gen. Westover said. "They are being quartered in hotels, with no provision for their expenses.

Help Keep up Morale.

"I understand the people of Chicago have been exceptionally kind to our men. The hotels, realizing their predicament, are giving them money to meet personal expenses in addition to board and lodging on credit. This has helped materially to maintain the morale of the corps."

Gen. Westover said he felt that as soon as the army mail organizations has had time to accustom itself to its new duties it will do as good a job as the commercial air lines, from whom the air mail contracts were taken away on Feb. 19. He flew into Chicago from Memphis, Tenn., yesterday in an army observation plane, and plans to leave later for Washington today.

NEW YORK CITY TAX RATE TOPS SIX YEAR PERIOD

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Following a loud outcry from Democratic and Recovery aldermen, endeavoring to fasten the onus for the increase of 23 points in the rate on the fusion administration, the board of aldermen today fixed the basic rate for the city at $2.56 for each $100.

Borough assessments, however, will increase the rate the average taxpayer has to pay. In Manhattan it will total $2.72 a $100; in Brooklyn, $2.81; in the Bronx, $2.71; in Queens [the highest], $2.83, and in Richmond, $2.80.

The rate is the highest since 1928, when the basic rate reached $2.66.

WAR SECRETARY FIGHTS SPECIAL FLYING FORCES

Rejects New Bill for 4,000 Airplanes.

appear partisan and even prompted by self-interest. They sacrifice and ignore sound national defense preparedness as a whole, for the aggrandizement of a special group.

"The first of the two bills would provide an air force so far beyond any sane estimate of our defensive needs, and so costly, that its passage could be construed by the world only as evidence either of ardent militarism or immediate war.

"The other, while as unsound as the former, has the additional defect of being built through a process of tearing down other vital elements of the balanced framework of defense. Both of these bills exhibit complete lack of consideration for the essential modernization of those other vital defense agencies in which the average, humble citizen must play his part if called to war. These two bills contain other definite proposals so fundamentally unsound as to jeopardize the safety of our country in any serious war.

Sees Risk of Disaster.

"They violate principles so basic to sound national defense organization and system as to risk defeat and disaster in war. The war department cannot give its approval to any legislation which embodies such false and dangerous doctrines."

Going then into a specific discussion of the value of airplanes in war, Secretary Dern wrote:

"Due to an unremitting, though distorted publicity, many Americans are predisposed to the belief that the airplane will dominate future war, and that the possession of a powerful air force, alone, will make our country safe. Such a belief, no doubt, provides the incentive for these bills which, at an annual increase in cost of a quarter of a billion dollars, would provide us with nearly as many modern military airplanes as the combined military aviation strength of any other two nations on earth. Such a belief is romantic.

"The military airplane is a valuable weapon, but it has now, and will have as far into the future as can be foreseen, too many limitations to enable it to be decisive alone. It can act only when in the air. On the ground it is helpless. Yet it is vitally dependent upon the ground. It requires an extensive, complicated, and extremely vulnerable ground organization, which comprises about 80 per cent of the total aviation personnel of an army.

Spectacular, Brief Results.

"Such an organization will sustain the airplane in but limited ventures into the air, during which it is capable of spectacular but momentary achievement. It is deficient in power of sustained fire, which alone can shake determined resistance. It completely lacks ability to close with an opponent. As demonstrated in the American battles of the world war and frequently since, its ventures are at the mercy of weather. It could no more stand alone than could artillery.

"Unless its ground organization is adequately protected against hostile ground forces, a large air force would have little decisive and no lasting effect. A disproportionate air force, supported by deficient ground forces would fall easy prey to an enemy who has created a unified team, with a uniformly developed balance of forces.

"An air force can attack only by fire, or by dropping of projectiles. Fire is an important agency of combat, but not alone a decisive one. The destruction of armies or populations by projectiles and gas alone is a fantasy of the dreamer. Actual capture of the enemy or the occupation of vital areas is essential before a determined foe can be defeated."

Secretary Dern said an air force "is too costly, in view of its limitations, to be considered an agency for general destruction," and he called it "a weapon of opportunity," saying that its greatest use toward success in war "is to aid our armies or navies to win victories."

Going into the question of the granting of special rank and pay to aviators, Mr. Dern said this was "un-American," and would set up caste prejudices in the army. He wrote feelingly of the "humble lieutenant of infantry" who works just as hard as his brother officer in the air corps, yet is paid less, gets none of the plaudits of the crowd, sees his fighting units grow smaller every year to make up for expansion of the air corps.

For More Army Funds.

Then, making a strong demand for appropriations for the ground armies, Mr. Dern wrote:

"The army knows that the ground forces need new machines just as desperately as does the air forces. Modern infantry will need semi-automatic rifles, light machine guns, and modern tanks in considerable numbers. Artillery must have improved weapons and transport and efficient anti-aircraft weapons. Cavalry must keep some of its horses, yet also obtain armored cars and combat vehicles, yet, because of the lack of public interest in the less spectacular forces of war, practically none of these are in sight.

"A land based air force, without effective ground forces would be little more than a provocation for a well prepared and balanced hostile force. The only sane policy of defense is to insure a balanced progress for all essential elements.

Would Modernize All Forces.

"Before proceeding with an unmeasured development of the air corps there is urgent need for consideration of a program which would modernize the ground forces to the degree already reached by our air forces.

"Such a program would necessitate the provision of modernized primary weapons for the combat arms, which we do not now have. It would necessitate the creation of effective nuclei for mechanized forces which could be expanded in war. Such a nucleus for the infantry must include great numbers of tanks and cross country cars; and for the cavalry combat cars, armored cars, scout cars, and reconnaissance cars. These effective nuclei are now lacking."

Secretary Dern declared there is no justification for removal of the air corps from the coördinating influence of the general staf, and he said the air corps has greater freedom in respect to its own development than any other arm of the service.

MR. CHAN, OXFORD MAN, QUESTIONED IN RACKET TRIAL

Tells Refusal to Organize Chinese Laundries.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

A Chinese scholar demonstrated on the witness stand in the racket conspiracy trial yesterday that the fabulously devious "ways of the heathen Chinee" were not so devious, perhaps, as some of the organization methods in the Chicago laundry industry, which led to the indictments in the case on trial.

Attorney Aaron Sapiro, who became counselor of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association in 1932, is charged in the case, together with trade association heads and union officers, with a conspiracy to foment illegal strikes and procure sabotage against independent laundry operators who refused to subscribe to the Sapiro plan to "stabilize the industry." Other defendants, eighteen in all, are charged with similar practices in the cleaning and dyeing and carbonated beverage industries.

Head of Family Order.

The Chinese witness was Fung Chee Chan, 924 Lawrence avenue. A wispy man with a huge forehead, he identified himself merely as the secretary of the Gee How Oak Tin, a Chinese family association.

When he took the usual oath, "By the ever living God," that his testimony was the truth, Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, counsel for Ald. Oscar Nelson, who was named in the case because of his position as attorney for the Laundry Drivers' union, raised an objection.

The witness gravely assured Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, the trial judge, that he did understand and subscribe to such a belief.

$50,000 a Year Oxford Man.

It was not brought out to the jury, but it was learned later, that Fung Chee Chan was educated at Oxford in England. He is a native of Ireland, it was learned, and, according to courtroom gossip, is paid in the neighborhood of $50,000 a year as secretary of his racial association.

The witness testified that in September or October, 1932, following conversations with members of the Gee How Oak Tin association who ran laundries, he went to the headquarters of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association and inquired for Marshall Rose, a defendant in the case, who was field secretary of the Cook County Hand Laundry association.

He was told, he said, that Rose had no connection with the Laundry Owners' association, but had headquarters at 1608 West Madison street. He visited Rose there two weeks later, he said, and Rose told him that it was time that the Chinese laundrymen joined the Hand Laundry association.

Chan demurred, he testified, and then Rose offered him a job organizing his countrymen. This Chan refused.

"I told him," said the witness, "that no Chinaman would go to another Chinaman and ask him to give money to foreigners."

Letters About Chan Revealed.

Assistant Prosecutor Healy then introduced and read to the jury two letters, written about a month after Chan's visit to Rose, which disclosed that while the Chicago Laundry Owners association had denied to the witness any connection with Rose, Attorney Aaron Sapiro, father of the "stabilization" plan for the industry, was nevertheless deeply interested both in Chan and in the organization of Chinese laundries.

The first letter was written by the defendant's brother, Attorney Milton D. Sapiro of San Francisco, in reply to a query about Fung Chee Chan. The brother wrote:

"The Gee How Oak Tin association is a strong association, inasmuch as it is composed of representatives of three families, including the Chan family. . . . I asked him (a San Francisco Chinese) about the control of the hand laundries through the Hip Sings and the On Leongs. The On Leongs control the laundry situation, as that is a laundry association. The Hip Sings, however, are merely a tong, and it is one of the tough ones, i.e., Chinese gangsters.

"That tong is not in any way a laundry organization, but it may be used, I presume, from time to time to settle laundry disputes."

Classifies Chinese Groups.

To that letter Attorney Aaron Sapiro replied, in part:

"That is very interesting data on Fung Chee Chan. . . . We want to make certain that we are dealing with the right person, and we cannot afford to blunder. . . . I think your interpretation of the Chicago situation is right—that the On Leongs probably do the work and the Hip Sings act as the alleged 'protectors.'

"We are at the point where we must make a contact with the hand laundries. If you could get the information at an early date, I will be deeply grateful."

Alleged Plot Bared.

Most of the remainder of yesterday's testimony concerned an alleged plot to wreck the shop of Morris Millman, who had a hand laundry at 3355 North Clark street, where he specialized, using special machinery, in pressing shirts for other hand laundry operators, and the plant of the Nordic laundry, 2629 Sheffield avenue, which washed for Millman's customers.

M'KINLAY VOICES HIS OPTIMISM ON TRADE OUTLOOK

Traces Recovery Gains at Dinner.

John McKinlay, president of Marshall Feld & Co., expressed optimism toward the present business outlook and eventual economic recovery in a speech at a dinner of the Traffic club last night in the Palmer House. The subject of Mr. McKinlay's talk was "A Business Man's Philosophy." He explained that he used the word philosophy to express a combination of intelligence, knowledge of history, reasonable faith in humanity, sense of proportion, and a considerable admixture of sense of humor "that preserves the business man who has it from those nerve racking fits of worry that mark the man who hasn't it."

Mr. McKinlay referred to his topic as "the kind of philosophy that makes us realize that a wonderful period in the world's history we are living in today." It produces, he declared, that peace of mind which comes to those conscious of having done their best, leaving the final outcome to Providence or fate.

Heralds Return to Normalcy.

"I think a healthier philosophy prevails today than five years ago," Mr. McKinlay asserted. "A lot of things have been deflated to their proper proportion; supermen have become just ordinary men; careless, reckless methods have been changed to carefully planned methods; we are feeling solid ground under our feet once more.

"In other words, as always, we are better for our troubles. We are able to look at events much more sanely than five years ago, and if we have any sense of humor at all, we will find many good things to laugh at, even in the midst of our troubles."

He discussed the results of business operation under the supervision of government, which, he said, is a part of the socializing movement that has been going on for hundreds of years. Regarding theorists and the so-called practical man, he said that the practical man was in control in 1929 and now, perhaps, "theorists" are entitled to their day.

Expresses Faith in People.

After discussing the national constitution and the changes in its interpretation, he said that biennially the power of government goes back to the people and that any one who thinks that the presidential office can be made a dictator's has a much lower appreciation of the political genius of the American people than he has. Mr. McKinlay concluded by saying:

"It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly, who errs and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and short coming; who does not actually try to do the deed, who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotion."

House Leaders Find Old Rule to Pigeonhole Vets' Benefits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's henchmen in the house were forced today to resort to extreme tactics in an effort to preserve the administration's economy program.

In what was described as an unprecedented parliamentary maneuver, Speaker Henry T. Rainey and the majority leadership succeeded in sending the independent offices appropriation bill, to which the senate has added some 350 million dollars in veterans' benefits and government employés' pay, back to the house appropriations committee, where it can be pigeonholed until the temper of the congress changes.

Ordinarily, the bill having passed both houses, it would have been sent to conference, where differences in the senate and house versions would be reconciled, and the house would have been given an opportunity of voting on the amendments adopted by the senate. The leadership in the lower body, however, admitted that the house, if permitted to vote now, would probably agree with the senate's addition of money to the measure.

Dig Up Old Rule.

Final passage of the bill with the 350 millions voted by the senate still intact, it was pointed out, would seriously disrupt the administration's budget balancing program. So house leaders dug up an old rule, unused and unremembered for many years, under which the measure could be referred to the appropriations committee, which originally drafted it.

President Roosevelt, it was understood, importuned house leaders to save the measure from being loaded down with veterans amendments if possible, and the strategy adopted by Rainey and Democratic Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee today is the outcome of taht request from the White House. Mr. Roosevelt had threatened to veto the measure if sent to him in the form in which it passed the senate.

Byrns Defends Action.

As justification for the exceptional lengths to which the majority leadership resorted, Mr. Byrns emphasized today that the amendments of the senate, adding 350 millions to the bill, are in conflict with fundamental policies of the administration, that they would impair the administration's economy plans, and that they involve legislative matters which could not be settled in conference with the senate.

Republican Floor Leader Bertrand H. Snell of New York charged Mr. Byrns and the Democratic leadership with "bandying" the bill about in a manner which made the house look incompetent to legislate. He asked whether the Democrats intended to "stall for time," and in the last few days of the session, pass a continuing resolution to supply the independent offices with funds without enacting the controverted bill.

Exchange Oratory on Floor.

"I cannot be responsible for press reports of the administration's policy," answered Chairman Clifton A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.], of the appropriations sub-committee in charge of the measure.

"Then you in no way approve of such a course and will have no part in aiding or abetting it, and thus making the house look more incompetent than it does already?" Mr. Snell persisted.

"I do not recognize that the house looks incompetent," the committee chairman retorted.

"O, day by day, this house is abrogating its rights," said Mr. Snell, "thus acknowledging its own inability to legislate."

HOLC ANNOUNCES RESIGNATIONS OF 3 MORE OFFICIALS

Further results in the shakeup started by Henry G. Zander Jr., when he was appointed Illinois state manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, were reported yesterday from Washington, where three more resignations were accepted.

Those who resigned are: Victor L. Schlaeger, tenth ward politician, as assistant state manager; Thomas P. Grant, as assistant attorney, and Raymond J. Budinger, as attorney. Schlaeger received an annual salary of $4,200; Grant, $3,600 and Budinger, $2,400.

It was learned yesterday that nearly 100 employés who served under William G. Donne, former state manager, have been released during the last few weeks.

Grants Bessie Opas Right to Amend Divorce Action

Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday granted permission to Mrs. Bessie Opas, serving a one to five year sentence in the Illinois women's prison at Dwight for conspiring to murder her husband, Marion Opas, to amend a cross bill for a divorce so that she may receive a decree in two weeks.

SCHOOL BOARD UNDER ATTACK IN WASHINGTON

Chicago Teacher Fights Economy Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The school economy program put into effect by the Chicago board of education came in for sharp criticism today before a congressional committee.

Testifying in support of legislation to provide federal loans to school districts, Robert C. Keenan, member of the board of directors of the Chicago division, Illinois State Teachers' association, told the house education committee that the Chicago board of education was not qualified to work out an effective retrenchment program for the city's schools.

Says Board Acted in Haste.

"The board of education," he declared, "decided what would be thrown out of the school program after it had been in office only seven days. The superintendent of schools was not consulted."

In response to a question as to the makeup of the board, Mr. Keenan stated:

"They were appointed by the mayor; three of them are coal men."

"Were most of them educators at all?" asked a committee member.

"I beg to be excused," Keenan replied. "I still am an employé of the board of education."

Pressed for answer, however, he declared he "did not know the qualifications of the school board."

Asks 22 Millions for Pay.

"I would say that if you want to pay the back salaries of our school teachers it would take 22 million dollars," he told the committee. "If you want to lend us that amount on the best resources in the country, we will be able to pay it back in rather short order."

Mr. Keenan said that would be "calculated to bring about prosperity in Chicago" and tax warrants "much better security for a federal loan than the Insull stocks and bonds the banks are holding.

"Children have been thrown out of industry by the depression and there is no place for them to go but the streets or the schools," Mr. Keenan added, starting a detailed explanation of the city's school situation. Chairman Douglas of the committee interposed:

"Let's discuss federal aid to the schools, without dabbling in Chicago politics."

Champion Weight Lifter Held as a Counterfeiter

Monroe Spearman, 32 years old, who under the name of James Laird was once a champion weight lifter, and Herbert Tsai, a Chinese, yesterday waived examination before United States Commissioner Walker and were held to the grand jury on bond of $3,500 each on charges of possessing counterfeiting equipment.

APRIL PRIMARY CASTS SHADOW ON LEGISLATURE

Illinoisans to Ask for Recess.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—If plans materialize as they were discussed today, the Illinois general assembly will take a recess next week until after the April 10 primaries.

As things stand now, the third session has made rapid progress with Chicago legislation. The World's Fair enabling act has been passed and signed by Gov. Horner. So have most of the bills sent down by the Chicago board of education which wishes to obtain funds for teachers' salaries as rapidly as possible. But the downstate school program rests virtually where it was when introduced.

May Tax Grain Futures.

A host of bills are included in the program, the most sensational being the suggestions for income, corporation, and grain future sales taxes. These have not been brought to the floor of either chamber in such a fashion as to provide a test of sentiment.

The senate will have the lion's share of work next week. It will be asked to pass the Devine beer bill, which would allow malt beverages to flow freely over bars without restriction; the chattel mortgage and housing commission bills.

Left for consideration after the primaries, providing the recess is voted, would be any legislation to straighten out the grand jury tangle in Chicago, resulting from the Supreme court's decision last week; the school and mortgage moratorium legislation, and any regulation of trucks and buses desired by the commerce commission.

For Chicago Dry Zones.

Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] believes that local option territory in the city should not be less than a section, instead of the precinct or group of precincts restriction placed in the liquor bill a month ago. His bill to allow a section of territory—one mile square—to declare itself dry at a referendum if 25 per cent of the voters signed a petition for such election, was advanced without opposition.

The Chicago school board's "pegged levy" bill was advanced to third reading without amendment in the senate today. The bill was passed by the house yesterday.

Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] said this final bill in the program probably would be passed there next Tuesday.

Horner Signs Other Bills.

Gov. Horner signed six other Chicago school bills last night. These measures will help toward selling the $40,000,000 school board issue to the federal government, according to Mayor Kelly's plan.

Another part of Chicago's legislative program moved ahead during the day. Four bills of the Chicago sanitary district, requested by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, federal public works administrator, in connection with the $42,000,000 grant to the district for sewage disposal construction, were advanced to second reading in the house without reference. These measures have passed the senate.

A bill providing for the payment of expenditures on Chicago's park consolidation referendum April 10 was passed by the senate.

TOUHY AND 2 AIDS TO BE SEPARATED IN PRISON CELLS

Roger Touhy, Albert Kator, and Gus Schaefer, the three Touhy gangsters sentenced to serve 99 years in the Joliet penitentiary for the kidnaping of John Factor, are not to be allowed even the doubtful satisfaction of remaining together in prison, Warden Frank D. Whipp announced yesterday.

Although they still are in cells at the old prison in Joliet, Touhy is to be sent to the new Stateville prison before the end of the week, the warden said. This is done because Touhy, as a first offender, is eligible for all the special accommodations possible and these are found at Stateville. Kator probably will be kept in the old penitentiary, the warden said, and Schaefer probably will be sent to the Southern Illinois penitentiary at Menard.

The treatment of the gang is routine procedure, the warden said. Gangs, when convicted en masse, always are separated, he explained.

JAILED AFTER STABBING.

Adam Kwiecinski, 42 years old, 1283 Augusta boulevard, was sentenced to 5 months in the Bridwell yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli for stabbing John Serbia, 56 years old, 1518 Augusta boulevard, during a quarrel on Feb. 13.

JUVENILE AID GROUP REPORTS INCREASED WORK

The annual report of the Juvenile Protective association of Chicago was presented yesterday at the 33d annual meeting of the organization at the Chicago Woman's club. The report said that increased demands on the organization, brought about by depression conditions, were met through enthusiastic coöperation on the part of individuals and clubs.

There were 2,242 applications to the organization, an increase of 354 over 1932, the report showed. It pointed out that services rendered are not offered by other private or public agencies. The aid of officials, individuals, and clubs became necessary, according to the report, because of the decreased appropriation available to the organization.

"For the coming year we presented a budget of $26,240," the report said, "and hope to raise $16,000, which will be supplemented by the Community Fund-Allied Chicago Charities with $10,456."

DIES IN THREE STORY FALL.

Constantine Tompary, 8 years old, 4429 Congress street, was killed yesterday when he fell from a third floor porch next door to his home.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."
—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

ANOTHER ARMY OF REGULATORS.

Hearings have been resumed by the senate committee on commerce upon the Copeland-Tugwell bill for the regulation of foods, drugs and cosmetics. Before the committee are the Copeland-Tugwell bill, its modifications arising from the previous hearings, and certain proposed substitutes for the Copeland-Tugwell measure. The Copeland-Tugwell bill has, however, the right of way and as formulated by the administration and representing its theories of government calls for special consideration.

The central object of the Copeland-Tugwell bill is to bring under the supervision and regulation of the federal government, specifically the secretary of agriculture, the manufacture, shipment and sale of foods, drugs, and cosmetics. Food includes all substances and preparations used for or entering into the composition of food, drink, confectionery or condiments for man or other animals. This supervision and regulation include the censorship of advertisment of these commodities.

To effectuate this purpose throughout the United States the secretary of agriculture is authorized to prescribe regulations and tests and to make exceptions or exemptions in his discretion under certain provisos of the law. The bill designates a list of narcotic or hypnotic substances which must bear on the label the warning, "May be habit forming," and the secretary is authorized to add to this list and also to the list of stimulant-depressant substances.

"To aid and advise" the secretary a committee on food and a committee on drugs are constituted. As a check upon the powers of the secretary it seems to us clearly inadequate. In the Jenckes-McCarran bill also before the committee a board of review is provided for. This feature of the proposed legislation will be discussed in another editorial.

Whenever the secretary finds that the distribution in interstate commerce of any class of food, drugs, or cosmetics may be [not is] injurious to the public health by reason of conditions surrounding their manufacture, processing, or packing, and such injurious nature cannot be adequately determined after they have entered into interstate commerce, he is authorized to promulgate regulations and require manufacturers, processors, and packers to hold a permit, which the secretary is authorized to suspend if the regulations have been violated, and to reinstate when adequate measures of correction have been taken to comply with and maintain the conditions required. Access to the factory or establishment of any permit holder for any designated officer or employé of the secretary is required, and a system of factory inspection is provided. The District courts of the United States are empowered to enjoin shipment or delivery of any food, drug, or cosmetic from any factory, warehouse, establishment, or vehicle if the owner, operator, or custodian has refused entrance for inspection. Violation of the injunction is punishable as contempt.

Provisions of the bill cover hearings by the secretary, prosecution and injunctions in aid of enforcement in the District courts, and penalties and seizure of offending articles.

Space does not permit anything like an adequate summary of the measure, but the foregoing may give some idea of the sweeping powers to be vested in the secretary. The bill declares as its purpose, supported by a highly colored and not very scrupulous propaganda, "to prevent the manufacture, shipment, and sale of adulterated or misbranded food, drink, drugs, and cosmetics, and to regulate traffic therein; to prevent the false advertisment of food, drink, drugs, and cosmetics; and for other purposes." But, under cover of this commendable purpose, presumably under the vague and comprehensive phrase "and for other purposes," it sets up a system of federal prohibition and regulation of acts and products which has nothing to do with the protection of health. For example, a food is penalized as misbranded "if any valuable constituent has been abstracted therefrom," "if any substance has been substituted wholly or in part," whether wholesome or not, "or if any substance has been added thereto or mixed or packed therewith so as to increase its bulk or weight in a deceptive manner, or reduce its quality or strength, or create a deceptive appearance." From these wrongs we are to be protected, not by our own intelligence or the processes of competition but by a costly army of government job holders.

Another concern of this army will be our protection from confectionery which "bears or contains any alcohol, resinous glaze or nonnutritive substance except mastitory substances in chewing gum, coloring, and flavoring." Other duties of the army will be to protect us from any food the label of which does not bear the common or usual name of the food, if any there be, and the common or usual name of each ingredient in order of predominance of weight, or if it is for special dietary use if its label fails to bear "statements concerning its vitamins mineral, and other dietary properties which fully inform the purchaser as to its nutritional value." Still another concern of the army will be to determine whether the container of a food is so made, formed or filled as to mislead the purchaser.

The protection of the public from poisonous and otherwise deleterious substances the public will deem worth the cost. Where existing law has been demonstrated by experience to be inadequate to this end it should be amended. But the folly of creating a huge army of job holders under the direction of a political official or federal burocrat to prohibit or regulate matters which have nothing to do with the public health or the protection of citizens from serious evils will be recognized now or later. We have just got rid of one system of federal regulation, and the public, which will have to pay the bill, will want to know as to the Copeland-Tugwell bill whether it is going to get its money's worth. We think, if it is to be adopted in any form, in place of amendments of the existing acts it should be reduced to reasonable scope. The subcommittee amendments to the bill as written by its authors dodge the most important issues raised by the measure. They leave the army of regulators intact and the inordinate powers of the secretary of agriculture without adequate reduction or restraint.

A DEFEAT FOR THE NEW DEAL.

The refusal of the house of representatives to approve the federal project for a furniture factory at Reedsville, W. Va., is the first legislative balk at a development in the administration recovery program. The item in itself could have been regarded as a detail of small importance, but the doctrines which this detail made tangible were of comprehensive meaning. To the promoters of the enterprise the Reedsville plan was an experiment in giving a community an opportunity to combine subsistence land cultivation with part time industrial employment. The people to be benefited were unemployed West Virginia coal miners who can't support themselves at their own trade. They were to be given homesteads on which they could raise as much as possible of their food and the government would build a furniture factory in which they could be taught to make office furnishings. It was planned to have the postoffice department take the product.

The senate approved the project but the house bolted, although under considerable administrative pressure to put the thing through. Business men throughout the country viewed this proposal for a government factory with alarm and indignation. They saw in the probable extension of the idea direct government competition in many lines of industry. There might have been seen also a tentative step in the direction of communism. There have been more impressive steps in this direction, but the house of representatives took alarm at this particular one, stirred, no doubt, by the protests of many private industries.

The subsistence farm to be combined with a small industry has been planned on a large scale by advocates who believe that even after recovery has reached its expected maximum there will be several million people who cannot be absorbed into ordinary productive places, either in the factories or on the farms. Therefore new places must be made for them by combining part time farming and part time industry, in neither of which would the return be much, but in combination the two would produce at least subsistence. Their efforts would reduce the agricultural market to the extent that they produced their own food, and would compete with industrial products to the extent that they made anything salable.

The success of the insurgents in the house in putting the first check upon an administrative measure is not yet final, but the spirit disclosed by the opposition would indicate that it probably will be persisted in and that the road will remain blocked. This incident may not mark the turning point and establish new relations between the administration and congress, but it is at least the first assertion on Capitol hill that recovery plans will be examined, criticized, and may be rejected. The legislative interference with the administration's normal budget economy plans had a different explanation. The Reedsville project was the materialization of a New Deal theory and the opposition defeating it touches the whole doctrine of the planned society. It does so only on the margin and at a small point, but nevertheless it is the first impression which ideas of private initiative and individualism have made upon a phase of social planning backed by the recovery administrators. What its actual importance to the comprehensive plans may be will be seen more clearly in the future.

Editorial of the Day

THE NEWSPAPER CODE.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

There is an undertone of resentment against the President's comment made when he signed the newspaper NRA code. He remarked that all the argument about "freedom of the press" was idle chatter, that it was not necessary to insist upon the inclusion in the code of a clause providing for this "freedom," as the constitution guaranteed it. He commented that obscenity, libel, and lewdness must be guarded against, and touched upon the child labor problem.

Responsible newspapers do not have to be warned against obscenity, libel, and lewdness. The American family will take care of the first and third dangers and no publisher will willingly invite libel suits. American newspapers employ the highest paid workers in this industry of any country in the world. The child labor menace has never entered this field. There remains yet to be worked out a satisfactory agreement with the government on the employment of boys and girls as carriers. Many of the biggest men in the country boast of having been carrier boys in their youth. The training in this field has been of great value to many men in their business and professional careers.

If insistence upon the inclusion of the "freedom of the press" clause was just so much waste effort, the attempt to force this clause out must have been waste effort also. It would be interesting at this time to speculate upon how far the administration's program, in all its varied interests, would have traveled with the American public had it not been for the information on this program furnished by newspapers to their readers. The administration needs the support of the newspapers, and if that support involves some constructive criticism and friendly warnings, the administration leaders should feel grateful, for the brain trust has no monopoly upon the gray matter in the country.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MID-VICTORIAN!

And the greeting they gave her was much less than hearty;
She tried to be gay in tones loud and impassioned,
But I heard some one say: "Oh, she's awful old fashioned!"

But two years ago this girl was the rage,
People thought her as witty and wise as a sage;
She was called smart and cunning and clever and chic,

That she's changed to a Dodo; that she's just simply nil.
"But now come?" I queried. "Wake me out of my slumber, Slip me the lowdown why she's now a back number."

And then I was told why the girl was thought slow,
She's a victim of habit that now makes folks grin,

IT'S GREAT to be an artist! Real estate people at vacation places will pick you out a cute little shack or a fisherman's cottage at very low rental if you say you are an artist. But if you're just an ordinary, everyday white collar worker trying to get along through these days of somewhat slow and reluctant returning prosperity (if any) and write to some vacation real estator he will send you the picture of what looks like a baronial castle on a hill with seventy-five rooms and a banquet hall which will be let cheap for five thousand dollars for the month of June.

ADD SIGNS OF SPRING—Hi-pressure auto salesmen offering you a new car for twenty-five hundred, twenty-eight hundred, or three thousand dollars and snootily and gloomily admitting they might possibly allow you a dollar and thirty-five cents for your old car on a trade-in.

WINDOW PHILOSOPHY.

They tell me that the world is breaking down,
That we are at the crisis of an age;
That kingdoms, over night, are vanishing;
That history is but a dismal page.

No morning comes without its news of blood,
No sunset but leaves terror in its wake.
We go about our tasks, and yet each day
Some revolution causes thrones to shake.

But let the monarchs pass and empires crash!
Here, at my window, beauty reigns supreme;
From some high realm the snow comes softly down,
And peace and joy are born, as in a dream.

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

THE DISPATCHES from Manchukuo say that under the new organic law of that very new country over which Henry Pu-yi was crowned emperor yesterday: "The sovereign is theoretically placed above the law and is responsible only to Heaven." The same as Gen. Johnson.

AND A LOT OF KILLJOYS wrote in exultantly yesterday to the general effect that since March came in like a lamb it would go out like what the crossword puzzlers call "very large quadruped in four letters." March didn't come in like a lamb. It came in more like a superannuated bear with a sore head and its leg in a trap. Not roaring and clawing like a lion and not meek like a dear little baa baa. No; March this time was like the superannuated bear with a sore head and its leg in a trap. When March comes in like that, then how does it go out? Probably like a South African gnu suffering from indigestion and winter itch. But not like a lion; no, positively not like a lion.

THE CRITICS are certainly tearing into NRA at Gen. Johnson's convention down at Washington and no one can say who will win the victory. "But what good came of it at last?" quoth little Peterkin. "Why, that I cannot tell," said he. "But 'twas a famous victory."

GRATITUDE.

There is a debt we cannot pay,
Nor ever laws can reach;
It runs forever and a day,
Is shared by all and each.
It is not evidenced by name,
Nor bill nor promise made,
Yet 'tis existent just the same,
By solemn judgments laid.
No obligation in the law,
No tenure and no seal,
Impressed with all to bind in awe,
Nor pledged by those who kneel.
Yet an engagement far above
Of things that bind below,
The lasting debt of Gratitude
Is the solemn debt we owe.

CLARENCE MILLIGAN.

FROM THE TESTIMONY of injured persons and other witnesses it would now seem that we have all been too much agitated over ladies at the bar. The real trouble is not when they're at the bar, but when they come out and try to drive their car home.

WHO SHOULD RUN FROM COLD WEATHER?

CERTAIN groups of people would gain materially in health and comfort if they could and would go south or to the far southwest each year for a long winter vacation. One of the first of these groups is that of the senile people. Probably to this group should be added the larger part of the senescence group.

The rare judgment of John D. Rockefeller caused that wise old gentleman to adopt the long winter vacation habit years ago. He has passed 90 and is headed for a round century—and has hopes. Old people generally have one or more organs that represent their weak spots. Easy life in a soft climate offers them a chance to nurse these weak organs along until the entire machine collapses according to the way of Dr. Holmes' "one-hoss shay."

Persons subject to pneumonia, bronchitis, and bronchial asthma find it advisable to take long winter vacations. If one attack of pneumonia develops any immunity it is not great and it is short-lived. There is some evidence that a person who has had one attack of pneumonia may expect another. At least he is not immune. He improves the chance of escaping another infection by taking a long winter vacation. Some people with obstinate bronchial coughs find their symptoms less troublesome within three days after they reach a softer climate. Some cases of bronchial asthma are much more comfortable when they winter where the climate is not hard.

Ability to stay in the sunlight and open air several times a day is of service in warding off some of the infections that prevail in cold climates in the late winter and spring. For infected sinus the climate cure is superior to operation.

Persons with Raynaud's disease or a tendency thereto are in danger in cold weather. This danger is lessened if they take a long winter vacation. Substitute the words "are uncomfortable" for "are in danger" and the advice applies also to people who are subject to chilblains and frostbite. Perhaps living in winter where the weather is mild may be of service to the diabetic in warding off gangrene and to the person subject to Buerger's disease in preventing leg cramps.

Investigation has shown a relationship between arthritis and rheumatism and climate. There is rheumatism in the warm winter regions, it is true, but statistics show it to be only moderately prevalent there—much less so than in cold, damp climates.

Persons suffering from some kinds of Bright's disease need to keep the skin warm in order to take some of the load from the crippled kidneys. Exposure to cold lessens secretion of the sweat glands and further burdens the kidneys.

A fair proportion of the children in northern cities are in some measure rickety. Cod liver oil is a partial but not a complete substitute for sunshine. Porto Rico children are undernourished, but they are not rickety. A long winter vacation in a warm climate is very good insurance against rickets in childhood.

SETTLING ESTATE.

Hoopeston, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A young lady who has just reached the age of 18 has appointed me her legal agent to settle with her guardian in his final account of [1] her estate. The estate consists of 50 acres of land subject to her father's dower and homestead interest. Said father lives on the farm and rents it from the guardian. When this estate was left to the minor 17 years ago the guardian and the father borrowed a sum of money and gave a first mortgage on this land which they both signed. The money was all spent by the guardian in clearing up claims and in buying out a life interest of the minor's grandfather. 2. Should the guardian have paid all of the taxes on the entire farm for the entire 17 years out of funds belonging to the minor, when the father claims one-third interest in the farm plus his homestead right? 3. Should the guardian have paid all interest on the mortgage from funds belonging to the minor? G. J.

1. You do not say how the estate was created. If by will, rights would depend on its wording.

2. It is the general rule that "a life tenant, in possession, enjoying the rents and profits, and those succeeding to his estate, must pay all the ordinary taxes on the property during the continuance of his estate, unless there is some agreement, or some provision in the instrument creating the estate relieving him of this liability." Under this rule, we would say that the father was chargeable with one-third of the taxes.

3. A similar rule applies: "A life tenant of property subject to encumbrances must keep down the interest accruing on such encumbrances during the continuance of his estate, at least to the extent of the income or rental value of the property, unless other provision is made for its payment by the grantor." We advise the employment of an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me how I can collect a bill for nursing, telegrams, replacing pillows and mattresses, etc., from the son of a man who lived at our house. This man died last April and his son inherited everything. I have sent him a bill, but he ignores it. The father was too sick to be approached about money and the son informed us that when everything was over he would settle.

C. K.

If the father left assets here, we suggest that you notify the son that unless he pays you at once you will report the estate to the public administrator and will file your claim in the probate proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO.—Japan's pledge to keep Manchuria's door open may soon become a legend.

Not only are industries financed by Japanese capital, many of them of a monopolistic character, sprouting up like mushrooms in Manchukuo, but charges have been substantiated that positive steps have been taken to enable the inhabitants of Manchukuo to purchase Japanese products cheaper than they are sold in Japan proper and thus make it doubly certain that foreign goods will be kept out.

Many people are beginning to suspect, and not without excellent reasons, that Japan intends to make Manchuria a closed shop.

So plain is it that Japan is flaunting the world in this respect that the matter has been brought up in the diet here. On Jan. 30 Kumeshiro Kato of the Seiyukai, the majority party, charged in the lower house that Japan is monopolizing the markets in Manchuria. He wanted to know whether this was not against the principles laid down in the nine power pact.

Foreign Minister Hirota attempted to evade the issue by declaring that the matter was one primarily concerning Manchukuo, and it was, therefore, incumbent on the respective foreign nations to deal with Hsinking direct. He intimated by this that they should recognize the new state if they wanted to trade with it.

This answer was unsatisfactory to Kato. He said that while Hirota's explanation was interesting, it was, in point of fact, wrong. He sardonically reminded the foreign minister that Japan had assured the world that Manchukuo's doors would be kept open. He also recalled that the new state's foreign minister had done likewise.

Accordingly, Kato asked, was it not incumbent on Manchukuo to open its doors and accord equal opportunity to all nations whether they recognized the new state or not?

Hirota made a sorry spectacle of himself as he endeavored to evade the question by promising to do whatever he could to persuade Manchukuo to respect the open door principle. This, naturally, made matters worse, for it enabled the interpellant to ask whether this was an admission that the open door principle was not being heeded at present.

Kato then went on to show how the Kwantung leased territory, which is under Japanese jurisdiction, is producing salt at 35 sen [about 10 cents] a hundred pounds, but is obliged to sell this to Manchukuo for 30 sen a hundred pounds, or at a loss. The same salt is sold in Japan for ten times this price, he charged. Moreover, Japan is buying Italian salt for 75 sen a hundred pounds, he declared.

What sort of policy, Kato inquired, is the government pursuing in making such an irregularity possible? Although he did not say so, it is conceivable, observers declare, that it was in his mind to ask whether it is not to keep foreign products out of Manchukuo, while Japan speedily develops salt fields in the new state with her own capital, that such a policy is being fostered.

Naturally the question arises whether this is not the case also with other products. Be this as it may, it is pointed out that Japan has already established, or will establish during the next few months, at least ten important new industries and about twice this number of companies, not including commercial establishments capitalized at less than $1,000,000.

REDUCE THE FEE.

Chicago, March 1.—For a number of years the people of this state have paid a high automobile license—from $12 to $40 a year—and in addition thereto $10 for a city license. The moneys derived from such fees were expended in building public roads and keeping the same in repair. I understand that no new public roads are now being built, and there is sufficient money left for repairing the roads. Therefore, why not reduce the license fees?

In prosperous days the people paid this money cheerfully, but in these depression times, where the majority of our people have lost their homes, securities, and their jobs, the only thing left behind is a car that was purchased by them in the good old days. There are ten thousand and more automobile owners who are using their cars for a livelihood and again ten thousand and more for business and pleasure, whose cars are not worth the price of the license, yet they are burdened with the payment of a state and city license on cars that are worth in the market from $25 to $50. This seems unjust and unreasonable.

The insurance companies on theft, fire, and liability reduce their risks on the car every year and deduct for wear and tear each year, but the license fees go on just the same, without any reduction. Other states have only $3 state license fees. The state of California charges only $3 for city and state. No wonder the police are kept busy arresting thousands of people for not renewing their licenses. It is not because they don't want to pay. They apparently have no money, and some resent paying $25 or more for a license on cars that have a market value of from $25 to $100.

The legislature ought to give this matter due consideration, and the city council of Chicago as well.

MOTOR LICENSES IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Analyzing your editorial, "Motor Licenses in Illinois," we deduce that the editorial writer either just had his weekly stipend increased or that he just arrived in Cook county. The "undisciplined citizenry" should most cheerfully "dig down" in the old patched pantaloons and deliver up to the "powers that be" $12.50 or $20.50 [there are no small cars] with a smile.

Would it be any information to the aforementioned writer that there is a gasoline tax that mulcts approximately $35 per year from the average pleasure driver? The average toga wearer in our dear old collection office at Springfield very likely forgot this little item also. In return for this tax the motorist is provided with road separations somewhere near Podunkville or Farmer Brown gets a concrete road so that his cattle will not be mired going to pasture.

Our own great metropolis gets in on the racket to the extent of ten and twenty dollars per each undisciplined citizen. The collective sum thus raised helps to pay off the election bets of our modern aristocracy, the politicians.

We could go on ad infinitum, but why? We paid ours. HUGH DURKIN.

AN AMUSED OUTSIDER.

Newark, O., Feb. 27.—The letters to this column relating experiences in securing auto licenses are amusing to an Ohioan. It is, at least, fifteen years since Ohio discarded the Illinois method of sending to the state capital for auto licenses.

Here in our county adjoining the capital city, are four towns where the license can be secured without any more delay than is necessary in reaching the town. In the larger cities are several places where licenses can be secured.

The price of licenses is graduated—7, 10, 15, 20, and 25 dollars, with a 25 per cent reduction every three months.

Ohio is also far ahead of Illinois in enforcing its license law. No last year's Ohio license plates were seen on Ohio roads after midnight of Dec. 31. Only recently we saw two Illinois cars on our road with 1933 plates.

Another feature very noticeable to an Ohioan in Chicago is the large number of cars without any license plates. Why are they permitted on the streets? If all Chicago law enforcement is on a par with those concerning autos, what are outsiders to think of it?

Before you complete your Century of Progress, why not exemplify your progress in law enforcement? Why inclose all the progress within the fence on the lake front? O. E. C.

THE CONFERENCE ON MAJOR PROBLEMS.

Horicon, Wis., Feb. 23.—Through THE TRIBUNE'S Conference on Major Problems I think you have started something quite epoch making. The women of the five states you invited have so many interests in common that such an interchange of thought will lead us to a better acquaintance and a fine mutual understanding. You selected outstanding speakers for each topic discussed and I cannot compliment you too highly on the whole character of your program. The music was also a particular delight to me—really a superb program, and the artists so charming to meet personally.

DURING THE PUSH.

The two days of the big license "push" business was off 50 per cent. As soon as the ban was lifted it jumped right back to normal.

It seems to me the gasoline tax collection from each individual looks better than the paltry $10 license fee.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

HOUSE DUMPS DOLE MARCHERS OUT AFTER 'RIOT'

Eject British Idle After Uproar in Chamber.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 1.—British "hunger marchers" today got inside the house of commons for the second consecutive day, and this time they caused such an uproar that about 20 of them had to be dumped out on their necks.

The unemployed marchers—who are congregated here to protest the government's relief measures—made their entry today by the same device which enabled them to enter the house yesterday, take tea, and look at the sights. This device was to accept invitations issued by sympathetic Labor members of parliament.

"Down with Government!"

Suddenly some of the marchers stood up and megaphoned through cupped hands:

"Down with starvation government! Down with baby starvers!"

This precipitated a general pandemomium as police and ushers swooped down on the offenders and eventually ejected seven of them.

Shortly there was another outburst from the gallery:

"We demand that you receive our deputation," was the cry.

There was another scuffle and two more men were helped out of the gallery, kicking and howling.

Soon, however, there was another outbreak and this time it looked like a riot. As police and ushers pounced on the man who started yelling abuse at members of parliament below, his companions sought to obstruct efforts of police to oust him. One group began to sing the "Internationale." Above the uproar was heard the shrill voice of a woman marcher.

"We've waited patiently," she said. "We are fed up on consititutionalism. If we are not received at the bar of this house we will go back to arouse the people."

Small Riot in Lobby.

Meanwhile, in the outer lobby another miniature riot was in progress. Owing to the circumstances inside the chamber, authorities decided it was advisable to clear out the marchers who were lounging about the hallways.

The marchers at first resisted, but the police were firm. After several were bounced out, most of the others decided it might be better to walk out and did so as rapidly as possible, with the exception of two more who landed on the frosty sidewalks on their necks.

Marchers Stare.

Police anxiety increased as the groups of marchers arrived and soon it was decided to shut and lock the great iron gates leading to the quadrangle of the palace.

Shortly afterward a truckload of police drew up at the palace gates. These patroled the front of the palace in pairs. The marchers, however, were quite peaceful. They simply stood about and gazed at the royal residence, packs on their backs and tin mugs dangling from their hips.

The ragged horde said nothing and did not even raise a catcall. The police said nothing and did not even tell them, "Move on, please." Presently the marchers drifted off. It was just a silent protest, that was all.

GETS YEAR AND $18,000 FINE FOR HIDING TRUCKS

Edward J. Moeller, 42 years old, 6258 Stewart avenue, yesterday was fined $18,000 and sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Municipal Judge Frederick W. Elliott on a charge of concealing mortgaged property.

The case had been pending since May 15, 1933, when Miss Clara Andler, 35 year sold, 6645 North Talman avenue, former fiancée of Moeller, caused his arrest. She charged that Moeller had borrowed $9,000 from her and had given as security first and second mortgages on trucks used by Moeller in his trucking business.

Moeller refused to reveal the whereabouts of the trucks, Miss Andler charged, when she sought to collect the mortgages. Moeller persisted in his refusal to produce the trucks and yesterday received the sentence and fine, one of the most severe in the history of the Municipal court. Judge Elliott pointed out that under the law he was empowered to impose a fine double the amount of the value of the property involved.

After Moeller has served his sentence he will be required to pay or work out the fine, court attachés said.

ICKES 'ON SPOT'; MAY HAVE TO LET NASH BID STAND

His Benefactor's Case Brings Crisis.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today found himself so bewilderingly snarled up in politics that he may be forced to spank a politician who helped elevate him to the cabinet or allow a Chicago public works contract to go to Pat Nash, Illinois national committeeman, in defiance of President Roosevelt's rules of conduct.

Arthur Mullen, Democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, Secretary Ickes admited today, helped to get him into the cabinet. Since then Mr. Mullen has drawn legal fees from two Nebraska power projects financed by 15 million dollars of federal easy money, and Secretary Ickes, despite protests from Gov. Charles Bryan, has not admonished Mr. Mullen or held up the projects.

Nash Bid Opposed.

Now President Roosevelt has hinted that Secretary Ickes ought to throw out the low bid of Mr. Nash's construction company for an easy money contract in the Chicago sanitary district because to have a national committeeman benefiting from federal money might not be a pleasing spectacle.

Asked today if he could spank Committeeman Nash without also spanking his benefactor, Committeeman Mullen, Secretary Ickes grinned, shook his head and admitted that he was in a tough spot.

While he wrestled with the political nightmares besetting him as public works administrator, Secretary Ickes also announced a board of four engineers to pass on the technical aspects of all contracts which the Chicago sanitary district lets and which are to be paid for out of the 42 million dollars of easy money turned over to the district.

The committee consists of William B. Storey, former president of the Santa Fé railroad; Prof. Daniel W. Mead of the University of Wisconsin, Brig. Gen. Charles W. Kutz, retired army engineer of Washington, and Joshua D'Esposito, state PWA engineer.

Crusade Turns to Crisis.

The question of the Nash bid and the Mullen fees is producing a crisis in what started out to be a crusade by the White House to clean up political connections with easy money funds.

The question up to Secretary Ickes is whether he will let Committeeman Nash proceed in defiance of the President's order just as Committeeman Mullen does.

"I haven't said that Mr. Nash would get the contract," was Secretary Ickes' only comment today beyond admitting that he hadn't made up his mind.

CIRCUIT JUDGES RE-ELECT IGOE TO SO. PARK BOARD

Circuit court judges in meeting yesterday unanimously reelected Michael L. Igoe as a south park commissioner. His five year term had expired on Wednesday. The election was considered further proof that Igoe, who defied Democratic party chieftains to run independently as a candidate for nomination for governor in the April primary election of 1932, was once more within the fold.

SUBMIT MERGER PLAN FOR SOCIAL SERVICE GROUPS

Permanent Welfare Service Hope of Author.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A comprehensive plan for a permanent welfare federation in Chicago is being studied this month by executives and boards of directors of practically all existing social service agencies. The plan was "prepared by a special committee for consideration of the board of directors of the Council of Social agencies," and was distributed among the city's welfare agencies by the council.

When the authorship of the plan was sought, Miss Elizabeth H. Webster, acting director of the council, explained that not only is the plan without active sponsors but also that its author or authors must remain anonymous.

Seek Helpful Discussion.

"The plan for the proposed welfare federation of Chicago was distributed solely for the purpose of arousing constructive discussion," said Miss Webster. "If Chicago is to have a well thought out permanent welfare organization, the discussion must begin in a carefully evolved plan. Throughout March, the various social service agencies will study the plan developed for our directors. In April we shall be receiving reports as to conclusions reached."

Purpose of the proposed federation, as outlined in its by-laws, are planning and coördinating social welfare activities, operating joint welfare services, and raising adequate funds for necessary social programs and organizations. Provisions for membership provide for the inclusion of public and private social agencies as well as existing financial federations which accept the plan and which meet qualifications "established by a membership committee appointed by the board of directors of the council of social agencies, together with such agencies as may from time to time be elected by the board of directors of the welfare federation."

Limits Fund Campaigns.

The plan provides that public agencies, such as the County hospital, or those so endowed as not to need annual financing, could participate only in the joint services and planning functions of the proposed federation, but not in financing programs. Member agencies, however, would be prevented from raising separate maintenance funds. It was also explained that the federation would replace the council of social agencies as well as the fund raising organization of the Community Fund for Allied Chicago Charities. The present framework of the council of social agencies would be retained for the social planning function of the federation.

Adoption of the plan virtually would mean the merger of the Community fund and the Council of Social Agencies. In leading to this conclusion the author of the plan points to the need of simultaneous consideration of socal planning and finance.

Separate Functions in Past.

Until the present time consideration of fund raising has been separate from planning. The latter function, developed by the council since its organization in 1914, was paralleled by largely independent financing efforts of its constituents until the creation of the Governor's Relief commission in 1930. Since that time, four successive joint fund gathering agencies have raised in excess of $23,000,000 from private contributions. The agency now at work is the Community fund.

The alternative offered by the author of the council-community fund merger, if that proposal is turned down, is "to retain the Council of Social Agencies and to return to individual financing efforts by individual agencies." It is said that "no intermediate plan is submitted because none has been suggested that appears feasible."

A committee of Protestant laymen headed by Frank J. Loesch, organized under Chicago Church federation leadership, has been developing a plan for an Associated Church charities organization. Walter R. Mee, secretary of the federation, announced yesterday that the plan is not ready for announcement. It is understood, however, that such an organization will put Protestant social welfare on a comparable footing with agencies cooperating in Catholic and Jewish charities in the event the proposed federation is organized or a community chest set up.

CAN'T FIND GOLD TO PAY WITH, COURT BACKS HIM

Fort Morgan, Colo., March 1.—(AP)—District Judge Arlington Taylor ruled today inability to obtain gold, because of the government's monopoly, constitutes a defense against payment of mortgage principal and interest in gold coin.

Furthermore, said the judge, makers of the mortgage may not be charged any additional amount because of the rise in the value of gold.

L. L. Conrad and J. O. Conrad of Yuma, Ariz., refused to pay interest on a mortgage note held by Howard Kennedy as trustee contending the note required payment in gold. Judge Taylor ruled that Kennedy must "accept the tendered payment of interest in whatever now remains as legal tender."

BOARD TO GET PLAN OF RELIEF REFORM TODAY

Ratio for Employes to Be Proposed.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, is expected to present to the commission at its weekly meeting today a proposal for a ratio of social service employés to families on the relief rolls. This plan is intended to correct the inefficiences of administration which have existed in the unemployment relief service in Cook county for the last 16 months.

Employés Increase 44 Per Cent.

Between October, 1932, and January, 1934, the number of employés in the district relief stations of the unemployment relief service increased 44 per cent, while the number of families on the relief rolls decreased 56.5 per cent. The ratio of families to workers decreased 70 per cent. At no time during this period was the ratio of families to workers above 62 to 1, nor was the ratio of families per professional worker above 152 to 1, despite statements by relief officials that the ratio was more than 300 to 1 for many months.

Mr. Reynolds' plan is to change the system so that the number of relief employés will bear a direct relation to the number of families on the relief rolls. He refused to disclose whether he was basing his plan on recent ratios, in effect when the relief load was very low, or on previous ratios.

Figures on Relief Workers.

Following is a tabulation giving the number of employés in the district stations of the unemployment relief service, the number of active relief cases, and the cases per worker for each of the 16 months:

Month.	Employés.	Relief cases.	Cases per worker.
October, 1932	1,614	100,005	62
November	1,907	105,484	55
December	2,049	114,201	56
January, 1933	2,086	121,079	58
February	2,169	125,397	58
March	2,343	130,493	55
April	2,504	127,549	51
May	2,596	120,734	46.5
June	2,707	104,370	38.5
July	2,790	90,226	32
August	2,762	76,883	28
September	2,623	67,657	26
October	2,539	64,633	26
November	2,488	66,249	26.5
December	2,521	67,396	26.5
January, 1934	2,325	43,405	18.5

This table shows a 70 per cent decrease in the relief workers' efficiency during the period given. Mr. Reynolds' plan is designed to eliminate such inefficiency.

committee as having considerable potential importance. In substance, it would wrest currency issuing powers from the federal reserve and vest it in a national monetary authority to be created by the act.

"The study this committee is making is worthwhile and important," Mr. Morgenthau asserted. "The country is coming through one of the most difficult banking experiences it ever had and we are just beginning to see daylight a little. What the future monetary policy of the country will be, I doubt any one is sufficiently wise to tell, because we have not yet had enough experience.

Points to Price Changes.

"In a few weeks we have changed the gold price to $35 an ounce, and we have the use of a two billion dollar fund to stabilize the currency," he went on, pointing out to the committee that government statistics show that since February, 1933, the world price of gold has risen 68 per cent and farm commodities' prices 57 per cent.

Referring to the legislation under consideration by the committee, Mr. Morgenthau declared.

"The administration is not yet ready for such legislation. We want the benefit of at least a year on our present policy. I believe we need more experience and more time to tell the best way to handle the monetary situation before we reach a fixed program."

The treasury secretary would not disclose whether the administration has additional plans in mind for raising commodity prices, but stated that he was unable to see how anything more could be done "to improve domestic prices."

Says U. S. Aids Britain.

Great Britain's improved price level, he said, was due not so much to the balancing of the British budget as to the boosting of gold prices by the United States. With reference to the treasury's silver purchase program Mr. Morgenthau explained:

"The trend has been to increase the output of silver and I think this will be beneficial all around if the nations of the world ratify by April the Pittman silver agreement of the London economic conference.

"China ratified the agreement yesterday and that helped measurably. We have studied silver in relation to commodities and exchange and we are unable to say that due to the increased price of silver this thing or that thing has happened."

The house committee later today approved the Fletcher-Steagall bill extending until March 3, 1935, the period during which government securities can be used as collateral for federal reserve notes.

COMPANY MANAGER ROBBED.

Three robbers yesterday took $300 from Edward Sternstein, manager of the Sternstein Brothers Clothing Manufacturing company at 2124 West 21st place. The holdup occurred at 21st and Rockwell streets as Sternstein was returning to his office from a bank.

INVENTOR WOLF, DENIED WRIT, GOES BACK TO ASYLUM

Fred W. Wolf, 52 years old, wealthy Chicago inventor, was recommitted to the Elgin state hospital yesterday after Judge Frank W. Shepherd in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva denied him a writ of habeas corpus. The court held that Wolf has not yet recovered his sanity.

Wolf was sent to the hospital first in July, 1933. He was released after a brief confinement, but was recommitted last December. In January he began the habeas corpus proceedings, contending that he was sane, and that his wife, Jessie, had tricked him into the asylum. From January until yesterday when he was returned to the hospital he had been on parole to a family friend.

In court yesterday medical testimony was introduced alleging that Wolf was still insane. Wolf, on the stand, denied this, and in addition made a number of charges against his wife. After hearing the evidence, Judge Shepherd said that he was convinced from the medical testimony and Wolf's own testimony that Wolf still required medical care.

"WHY SHOULD I GO TO FLORIDA when we've got Gas Heat!"

"No work, nothing to worry about—why should I go to Florida when we've got gas heat," says Mr. Gorey. "The fuel is always there, and it never runs out. The house is always cozy and warm. If a blizzard comes along you're never caught short, and that means a lot to a fellow's peace of mind."

"And gas heat is absolutely clean. I actually don't think we'll have to do any decorating this spring."

Thousands switching to gas heat as rates go down

Imagine your home free from soot, dust, dirt, and furnace drudgery! Imagine getting just the temperatures you want, night and day, by adjusting a little thermostat on the wall. Why put up with furnace worries any longer, when rates for gas heat are so low? Think of it—gas heating rates are now only half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season.

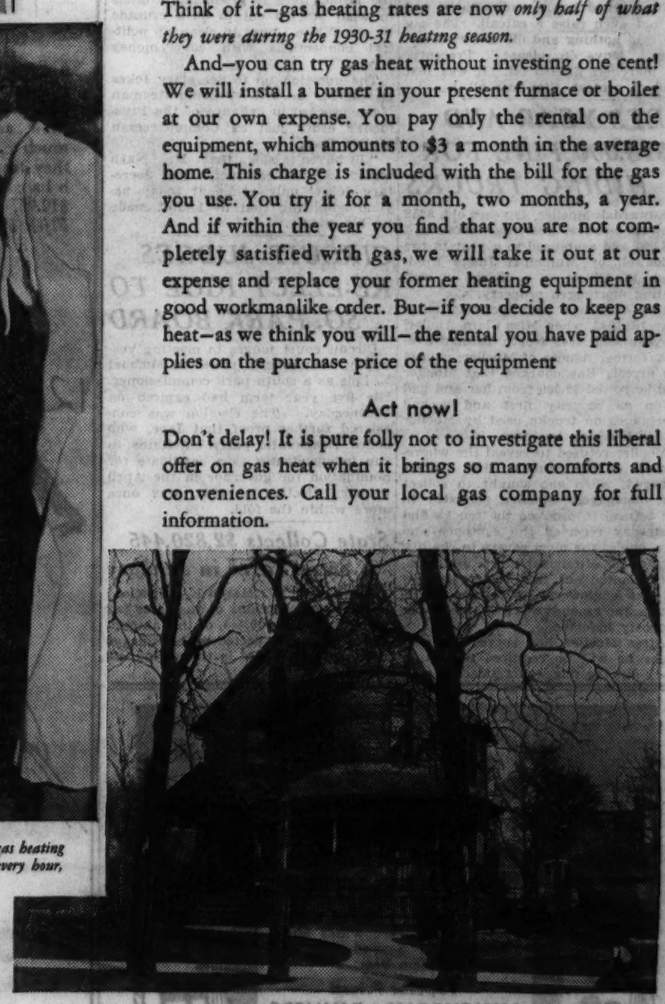
And—you can try gas heat without investing one cent! We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our own expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But—if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment

Act now!

Don't delay! It is pure folly not to investigate this liberal offer on gas heat when it brings so many comforts and conveniences. Call your local gas company for full information.

Mr. Gorey shows his daughter May the marvelous simplicity of the gas heating unit. It automatically maintains the exact temperature you want—every hour, day and night.



The Gorey home at 504 Herkimer Street, Joliet, Illinois. Over 20,000 homes in the Chicago area have switched to gas heat because of the new low rates and marvelous conveniences.

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER!

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

HIGH ACCURACY IN GAS METERS

The meter which measures your monthly consumption of gas is an accurate measuring device, with a proved record of faithful operation.

Your meter was manufactured to pass accuracy tests specified by the United States Bureau of Standards. Before it was installed in your home, it was tested by an inspector for the City of Chicago, who placed his seal of approval on it.

One reason for its accuracy is its simplicity of construction. A hermetically sealed mechanism which may be compared to a pump in action, it can register only when gas is actually passing through it, because the pressure of the gas provides the small amount of power necessary to operate it.

To maintain its high standard of accuracy, your meter is periodically removed for testing and repairing, which is done whether or not it is found to be strictly necessary.

NEW ROOSEVELT BILL BOLSTERS HAND OF LABOR

Answers NRA Critics on Bargaining Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's intention to strengthen the hand of organized labor was seen in the bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the President's national labor board.

The bill enunciates a federal policy even more favorable to labor than those expressed in the now famous and controversial section 7-A of the National Recovery act.

In a section in the nature of a preamble the bill says:

"The tendency of modern economic life toward integration and centralized control has long since destroyed the balance of bargaining power between the individual employer and the individual employé and has rendered the individual, unorganized worker helpless to exercise actual liberty of contract, to secure a just reward for his services and to preserve a decent standard of living, with consequent detriment to the general welfare and the free flow of commerce.

Provides Dispute Agencies.

"Inadequate recognition of the right of employés to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing has been one of the causes of strikes, lockouts, and similar manifestations of industrial strife, obstructing interstate commerce and imperiling the general welfare.

"It is hereby declared to be the policy of congress to remove obstructions to the free flow of interstate commerce, to encourage the establishment of uniform labor standards, and to provide for the general welfare by removing the obstacles which prevent the organization of labor for the purpose of coöperative action in maintaining its standards of living by encouraging the equalization of the bargaining power of employers and employés and by providing agencies for the peaceful settlement of disputes."

The measure was believed timed to meet complaints now being heard in the NRA critics' forum that the recovery policy has not lived up to its promise to give the workers organized bargaining power.

Defines Workers' Rights.

"Employés shall have the right to organize and join labor organizations and to engage in concerted activities, either in labor organizations or otherwise, for the purposes of organizing and bargaining collectively through representatives of their own choosing or for other purposes of mutual aid or protection."

It then goes on to define specifically six "unfair labor practices." Among the results would be to allow company unions, to clarify the present NRA provisions in favor of closed union shops, and to require employers to recognize representatives chosen by their employés.

As a body created to enforce these policies, the bill creates a new national labor board, to be a permanent body composed of seven members, two representing labor, two representing employers, and three chosen to represent the public. The board would have power to initiate investigations of unfair labor practices and to order compliance with its findings; it would act as arbitrator on the application of one party to a labor dispute and its decision would be binding upon both parties. In all cases, however, appeal from its findings and orders could be taken to the courts.

SEEK DILLINGER TESTIMONY AT TRIAL OF PALS

Lima, O., March 1.—(AP)—John Dillinger's version of the jail raid last October that resulted in the killing of Sherif Jess Sarber and the freeing of Dillinger will be a part of the defense testimony in the trial of Fred Pierpont.

Dillinger will not appear to give the story, but Pierpont's attorneys today petitioned Judge E. E. Everett for permission to obtain the information by deposition.

Pierpont goes on trial Tuesday charged with first degree murder in the Sarber slaying. Dillinger's deposition will be sought in an effort to establish an alibi for Pierpont, who is alleged by the state to have fired the shot that killed Sarber.

Rob Woman of Fur Coat, Return Purse and Key

Mrs. Katherine Brin, wife of a loop sandwich shop owner, encountered a couple of accommodating bandits early today. She was about to enter her home at 831 East 49th street when the bandits, driving up in a car, stopped her. They took her purse containing $2 and her house key and then robbed her of her $500 fur coat. As they were about to flee Mrs. Brin protested they were taking her key and she could not enter her house. One of the bandits opened the purse, took out the $2, and then tossed the purse, with the key in it, back to her.

PLAN NEW ADDITION FOR STATEVILLE TO END PRISON CROWDING

Preliminary plans for the addition of a new unit to the Stateville penitentiary are now being made in Springfield, it was announced there yesterday by A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare. The new unit will be designed to accommodate a maximum of 2,500 prisoners and it is needed, the director said, to relieve serious overcrowding of the old Joliet and newer Stateville prisons.

These two prisons at present house 5,530 men, although their capacity when built was set at 4,000. Of that number the old prison was intended to hold 1,000 prisoners and Stateville was planned for a maximum of 3,000. There are actually 3,742 prisoners in Stateville and 1,788 in the Joliet prison.

"These figures indicate the imperative necessity for an early program of expansion at Stateville," said Director Bowen. "The new unit should be erected there to accommodate at least 1,500 prisoners at the start with provision for taking care of an additional thousand when required."

Although the plans at present are vague, it was estimated that the new unit would cost between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

There are no funds available for the construction at present, according to Warden Frank D. Whipp of Stateville, but an effort probably will be made to finance the new prison through a loan from the Federal Public Works administration.

RAILWAY UNIONS ASK 6 HOUR DAY, NO CUT IN PAY

Senators Hear Plea of A. F. Whitney.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Organized railroad labor today made a plea before the senate interstate commerce committee for enactment of legislation establishing a six hour day on the railroads to increase railroad employment.

The committee began consideration of a bill introduced by Senator Black [Dem., Ala.], which would amend the Adamson eight hour railroad act, passed in 1916, by making six hours the measure of a day's time extending the benefits of the law to all railroad employés.

Asserting that the increased cost of operating the railroads if the bill were passed would not reach 600 million dollars, as had been estimated, A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association and chief spokesman for railroad labor, admitted it might run as high as $250,000,000 a year.

Claims 800,000 Idle.

"There are about 800,000 former railroad workers wholly unemployed today and another 400,000 partially unemployed and not receiving a sufficient income to maintain themselves and families in decency," he said.

Nothing has been done to meet the railroad unemployment situation, he asserted. Other industries have been placed under the National Recovery Administration program, but the railroads, he pointed out, were not subject to that legislation.

Mr. Whitney contended that hundreds of thousands of skilled railroad workers of years of training in the safe and efficient transportation of persons and property have been forced into breadlines.

"Lines Can Afford It."

The railroad employés are asking for the six hour day without any decrease in pay. Mr. Whitney said the railroads would tell the committee they could not afford to meet the extra expense that would be caused by the change but that the railroad industry was a rich industry and could well afford to take this step in the interest of increasing purchasing power. A cut of 2 per cent in interest on railroad obligations would save 220 million a year, he said. Holders of railroad securities, however, he said, are asking a reduction in railroad wages.

The interstate commerce commission investigated the effect of a six hour day on the railroads and reported to congress in December, 1932, that, based on the year 1930, the initial effect of its application would be to add about 630 million annually to the expenses of the railroads.

SECOND ALCOHOL BOOTLEGGER IS SLAIN IN GARY

Robert Trexler, 25 years old, alcohol peddler and operator of a beer flat at 436 Pennsylvania street, Gary, was found shot to death yesterday in a little used road in West Gary.

The killing was the second liquor murder of the last month in that area and police expressed the belief that both resulted from a battle between South Chicago and Chicago Heights interests for the bootleg alcohol privilege in Gary. The other victim was Steve Kadaglis, known to police as a bootlegger.

NAZIS ORGANIZE "GERMAN FRONT" IN SAAR DISTRICT

Act to Insure Favorable Outcome to Plebiscite.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 1.—The formation of a "German front" in the Saar territory was hailed today with enthusiasm in the Nazi press. The movement is designed to insure victory in the plebiscite which in 1935 will decide whether the Saar returns to Germany, goes to France, or continues under the league of nations.

The organization was declared open to all Germans of the Saar who wish the territory returned to Germany, but all members must divorce themselves from Socialist or communist affiliations.

Application for Membership.

The application for membership reads:

"I am German and want to belong to the community of people of the Saar German front. Simultaneously I relinquish membership in political parties and know only one slogan, 'Our Germany.'"

The Nazi press sees the formation of the front as "the removal of the last obstacle in the way of the return of the Saar to Germany." The papers attacked the league of nations government of the Saar, accusing it of showing partiality.

The Berlin Lokalanzeiger hopes that so many will enroll in the front, as a kind of preliminary straw vote, that "France will remember Chancellor Hitler's assurance that the Saar is the last territorial obstacle to a perfect understanding between Germany and France."

Another Nazi organization declared the Saar was so overjoyed at the foundation of the German front that it hoisted flags and rang church bells to celebrate "the day of glorious fraternization."

Fail to Pardon Pastors.

The new Protestant church cabinet met today, but didn't pardon pastors who belonged to the Pastors' Emergency league. Protests from Protestant organizations all over the world, particularly the United States, about the German church fight, have poured into the German foreign office.

Feeling that the trade future of Germany hinges on the forthcoming trade negotiations with the United States, the foreign office appealed to the church ministry to remember that forgiveness and generosity are the greatest qualities of Christians. It fears that Protestant resentment, coming on top of the Jewish restrictions and American labor resentment against Nazi Germany, will create an unfavorable atmosphere.

The church dissensions, however, continued all day. The bishop of Hamburg, Dr. Schoeffel, announced his resignation from his pulpit, and many of his assistants also resigned. The Rev. Mr. Jordan, church superintendent for the district of Jerichow, near Magdeburg, was arrested "for insulting the government from the pulpit."

COMPLETE PLEA FOR REHEARING IN GRAND JURY CASE

State's Attorney Courtney and his assistants yesterday completed the petition for a rehearing in the Lieber case in which the State Supreme court declared illegal the Cook county grand jury system. Assistant State's Attorneys Wilbert Crowley and Albert Woll immediately presented the petition to Attorney General Kerner, who was in Chicago.

As soon as the petition has been approved by the attorney general it will be filed with the clerk of the Supreme court in Springfield. The state's attorney refused to divulge the contents of the petition until it has been filed.

Necessity for haste in filing the petition was eliminated earlier this week when Chief Justice Warren H. Orr of the Supreme court granted a stay of mandate which prevented the decision from becoming effective until the petition for a rehearing is considered by the court. The ruling cast doubt on the legality of 700 indictments in cases pending in the Criminal court and made possible reversals in recent important convictions.

A TRUE STORY
By A MOTHER
who found the "only thing" good enough for her children

A MOTHER will go to any length to get something which her children need. She will go without food to feed them if they are hungry. To her, their welfare is the only thing that matters. That's why this letter from Mrs. Ralph W. Michael, of Lakeville, Indiana, is worth reading. But let her tell her own story.

"Six years ago, before my daughter Marilyn was born, I was a very sick woman. I suffered terribly, and I was sure an operation was the only way out to end my suffering.

"Then my doctor prescribed Nujol. I used it daily for over a year, and from the start found improvement from the constipation which was the main source of my trouble. Because Nujol is a 'natural regulator' and not a 'habit former,' I found I could gradually decrease the amount taken, and at the beginning of my second year I needed only a little every other day. Now I am so perfectly regulated that I only need to take Nujol every now and then.

"You may be sure, however, that I keep nothing but Nujol in my home for this purpose. Its splendid results speak for themselves.

"My two lovely little daughters, Marilyn, six, and Prudence, who is four, are being brought up on this same safe Nujol which was such a godsend to me. I would not think of trusting their delicate little organs to anything but Nujol. I have had them on Nujol since they were tiny babies, and just as in my own case, I find that it has trained them to daily regularity, and that now they only need this outside help occasionally.

"Yes, indeed, I am always glad to say a good word for my dear old friend, Nujol, and you may publish this letter. It may help Nujol to do for other people the same good that it has done for me."

This fine letter from a devoted mother speaks for itself. Follow Mrs. Michael's example. Use Nujol yourself—bring up your children on it to be regular as clockwork. It cannot hurt them; it is perfectly harmless; it forms no habit; and it is the standby that keeps millions of people healthy all over the world. You can get Nujol at any drug store—now in two forms—plain, and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

NAZIS MASS AT BORDER; AUSTRIA BOLSTERS GUARD

Tyrol Is Flooded with German Guns.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 1.—Austrian Nazi exiles, backed by their German comrades, were centered along the Bavarian border tonight, giving the Dollfuss government increasing cause for anxiety. The concentration was especially marked at Simbach on the Bavarian side between Linz and Munich.

The Tyrol, it is said, is going more and more Nazi and guns and propaganda are being poured over the frontier. Patrols have been increased along the Bavarian border.

For the moment at least, however, the situation is held well in hand and it looks as if Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and his Fascist vice chancellor, Maj. Emil Fey, have a month or more ahead to maneuver their government into a better position.

Dollfuss to See Duce.

These negotiations will begin ten days hence when Dollfuss goes to Rome to confer with Premier Mussolini and Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary over the formation of an Italo-Austrian-Hungarian consultative pact.

Apparently the Austrian protests to the league of nations on German interference in Austrian affairs has been shelved. It is possible, though, that Dollfuss will bring it up when he sees his adviser Mussolini next week.

The government announced today that the 24 members of the executive committee of the Socialist party, including such prominent persons as Karl Seitz, former Vienna burgomaster, and Dr. Karl Renner, first chancellor of the Austrian republic, would be tried for high treason.

Socialist Paper Appears.

Meanwhile the Socialist organ, Arbeiter Zeitung, made its appearance in Vienna. It was published in Czechoslovakia and delivered by government mail carriers. The editors issued a call to Socialists to prepare for a resumption of the fight some time in the future.

A government program of patriotic training will be launched soon for boys and girls between 14 and 18, it was learned today. They will undergo training similar to that of the Italian balilla organization. About 80,000 will be enrolled.

The Nazi uprising scheduled for yesterday by Theodor Habicht, Nazi inspector general for Austria, also failed to materialize in any semblance today. It is understood that Habicht exceeded his authority in issuing an ultimatum demanding Nazi participation in the Austrian government and that he has been accordingly disciplined by Chancellor Hitler.

CONFESSES PLOT TO ROB GIRL AS HE ESCORTS HER

CRIMINAL COURT.

Harry Brown, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

A youth who plotted a robbery against his employer and two other young men who committed the robbery were under arrest at the Gresham police station last night. They were John Harrington, 19 years old, of 8844 Bishop street; George Mustes, 17, of 8936 South Ashland avenue, and Mauro Nicoletti, 17, of 1526 West 89th street.

Harrington, police say, was the plotter. He was employed as a clerk in the grocery of S. N. Fischer at 8927 Loomis street. On the night of Feb. 17 Harrington left the store with Fischer's daughter to escort her home. She was carrying $200 in receipts. In front of her home at 449 West 79th street two bandits held them up and took her money.

Detectives Patrick Carney and Ray Sherhart, assigned to the case, believed it was an inside job. They questioned Harrington and he confessed, they said, implicating Mustes and Nicoletti. These two also confessed, the police said.

W. H. Woodin, ex-Secretary of Treasury, on Way Home

Tucson, Ariz., March 1.—(AP)—William H. Woodin, former secretary of the treasury, left today for his home in New York after spending several months here recuperating from a throat ailment. Mr. Woodin came here early in the winter, his condition forcing him to take a leave of absence from his duties. Several weeks after his arrival he resigned his cabinet post because of ill health.

THE subdebutantes and their young beaux will forget the Lenten dullness tonight to dance and have a good time at the next to the last Fortnightly dance of the winter. This is to be the only costume party of the series and all the young people—about 64 of them—will wear hard times costumes. Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, Mrs. Stanley Rickcords, and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf are some of the mothers on the committee on arrangements. The last Fortnightly will be on St. Patrick's day.

The young marrieds who are friends of the Louis C. Sudlers and the W. Press Hodgkinses will make merry tonight, too, at a small dinner these two young couples are giving to celebrate Mr. Sudler's and Mr. Hodgkins' birthdays. The party is being given in the apartment of Mrs. Hodgkins' father—Robert F. Carr—at 209 Lake Shore drive. Bridge and games will be the order of the evening.

The cocktail hour at the Tavern always was a cheerful, jolly time, but now that the new president, William C. Boyden, has inaugurated weekly cocktail parties for visiting notables it's even more jolly at the club on those particular days. This afternoon the theatrical stars who are in the city are to be the especial guests and it is anticipated that a large crowd of members and their guests will assemble in the lounge after five to meet the theater folk.

Annual Party of H-Y-P Club Tonight.

Because the first annual dinner and get-together of the members of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club was such a success last year, the club is repeating the evening tonight, with John W. Valentine as chairman of the event . . . which will be stag, naturally! Just under a hundred members are expected to be present at the squash match between the professionals of the H-Y-P and the Racquet club and of the cocktail party which will precede the dinner, and the songfest that will follow it. Others on the committee are Talcott Griswold, William A. Humphreys Jr., and Otis Hubbard.

The Arts club has cards out for a lecture by Clemence Dane next Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock. Miss Dane's subject will be "Writer and Reader," and there is certain to be a large audience to hear her speak, for she was well liked when she was here about a year and a half ago. Miss Dane is expected to arrive in Chicago this week-end and the lecture at the Arts club will be her only one in Chicago, although she is scheduled to speak in Oak Park while she is here.

The P. E. N. club, which makes it a point to entertain visiting authors of note, has planned a dinner for Miss Dane on Monday night at the Casino.

Club Will Hold Arts, Crafts Day.

A drama of the homely arts is to be enacted for north shore residents and their Chicago friends the afternoon of March 20 in the low roofed house of the Winnetka Woman's club in Winnetka. On this occasion the club is to have its annual arts and crafts day, but instead of a "still life" exhibit the event this year is to be a dramatic portrayal of the evolution of spinning, weaving, pottery making, and the various other arts in which the club members interest themselves during their leisure hours.

A spinning wheel will be in action, also a loom and a pottery wheel. Then by way of contrast there will be exhibits of blankets, table linens, and pottery as they are made by the quicker and more scientific processes of this modern day. The only problem that concerns Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, the club president, and Mrs. Montague Ferry, the arts and crafts chairman, just now is to where to find women skilled in operating the old fashioned machines.

The exhibit is anticipated annually by the club members and their friends as one of the gala days of the year. In fact, most of the "artistic minded" who bring their paintings, china and glass, woodwork and needlework for display devote months, sometimes years, to its preparation.

Mrs. Ferry to Show Decorative Screen.

Mrs. Ferry is always one of the contributors. This time she is planning to show a decorative screen which she has made from unusual papers she has gathered here and abroad, a stunning piece of work. Of course Mrs. James Waller Marshall will be an exhibitor again . . . last year she set a lovely table of her luster ware . . . and Alfred Freeman will bring some of his woodwork.

After a committee meeting today invitations are to be addressed to friends outside the club . . . in Lake Forest, Evanston, Glencoe, Kenilworth . . . asking them to bring examples of their hobbies. One of these invitations will go to A. Ballard Bradley and it will invite him to bring his miniature sloop, 54½ inches long, named the Byce, after one of his sons. Except for its 940 square inches of sail, made to order by one of the country's finest sailmakers, the whole boat has been built by Mr. Bradley. He started it in September, 1931, and finished it last year.

The arts and crafts day is to open at 11 o'clock and continue with a luncheon at noon, after which Miss Lucy Driscoll of the Art institute is to give an informal talk. Miss Driscoll's subject will be "Color in Visual Art."

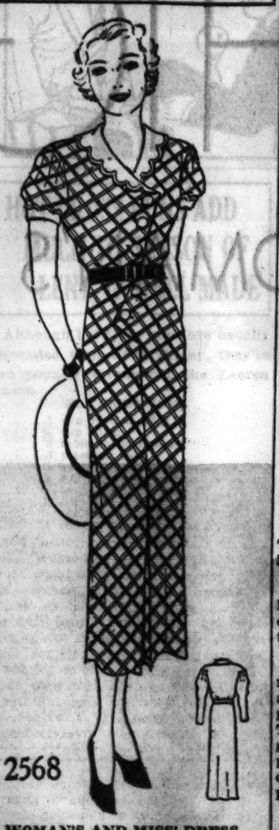
Blue Necktie Silk and Pique Details Make Tasty Dress



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A sporty necktie silk, in a medium shade of blue, with the collar and cuffs of white piqué, and the belt of blue patent leather, will make a smart dress that can be worn all summer. Light weight woolens and printed silk crêpes are other suggestions, while for summer there are many lovely cottons from which to choose.

The pattern, No. 2568, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure.

Lighter Shades Feature Spring Hosiery Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Proper stockings that solve the perennial problem of your daily life are arriving in all the new spring shades. They all look like they have been spending a vacation under an ardent tropic sun, for undoubtedly smart women and all knowing shoppers will wear them lighter this season than ever before.

And this means that all the Orphan Annie dark socks are banned, and even though you have always worn the darker ones these new light beauties will make you change your mind.

The new arrivals are mere films of color, surprisingly fashioned to withstand lots of wear. They are tremendously successful and most effective. Some of the best buys are . . . all suntan shades to wear with beige and gray, the real tawny tans labeled "sunny," "sunkist," and "suntan." They are perfect understudies in gray and beige tones to accompany every possible beige and gray shade of all new fabrics and materials.

With navy blue . . . "putty beige," a fascinating smoky gray shade called "shadow" and the always good old favorite "Peter Pan" . . . all of them more than a shade lighter than last year's best sellers.

With all the colorful new prints and all the gay green shad of this new season wear a new shade called "putty beige" that is a cross between a gray and old fashioned beige, an obligingly neutral tone that will accent and harmonize with every known green or printed combination, especially the high floral prints and patterns.

Since black is still quite the smartest costume color you can wear the new lighter shades for hosiery will keep you busy trying them out, but the same new rule covers the black costumes . . . wear them lighter. Ask for a charming sun tanned skin shade called "peach tan," or the same "sunny" color that is being featured for beige or gray, or the old friend and companion of last year, "Peter Pan," slightly lighter in hue than before.

Picking your stocking stocks this spring will be a new and interesting game if you want something new and different.

Bachelor Pal Keeps Quarters at Grant Home

Scott, Newlyweds Share Rambling House.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 1.—While they were two of the favorite bachelors in Hollywood, Cary Grant and Randolph Scott roomed together. Now that Cary and Virginia Cherrill have been married, it's just the same; the pals have made it a threesome in the rambling house in Hollywood Land that Scott clung to while Cherry and Cary went to Europe.

Executives at Radio-RKO are kicking themselves for their neglect of the film, "Lost Patrol," while it was in the preleminary stages of exploitation and release. This adventure story without a woman, which has been one of the big hits of the current film releases, caught the studio flatfooted, same as Mae West's first film, "She Done Him Wrong," at Paramount. The studio could have sold its releasing rights for far more money.

Greta Garbo was in Santa Monica hospital for four days last week, recovering from a cold. She was registered under the name "Smith."

Metro is searching for a very skinny man, over 6 feet 1, who bites his nails and wears an unusual mustache, to play in the detective thriller, "The Thin Man." Two of the feminine rôles go to Maureen O'Sullivan, who has postponed her trip to Ireland to accept the rôle, and Isabel Jewel, who is postponing a New York trip.

Paul Muni, just back from a trip to Russia, says: "Russia is developing its own screen technique. I watched them make several films in Moscow. They don't care the least about Hollywood methods of film making; they don't even seem to care too much about the financial success of their films; what does concern them is how interesting and artistic they can make them."

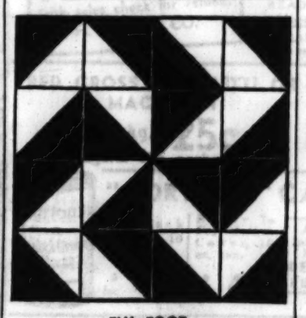
Equipped with her newly won divorce, Doris Kenyon announces she will hereafter be known as Doris Kenyon Sills, for the sake of her little son, Kenyon Sills. She discarded the name Hopkins with her divorce yesterday.

The Los Angeles courts decided with Warner studio and against George Brent in the actor's lawsuit seeking to have his contract with the studio declared void, while at the same time asking for $1,475 claimed as back salary. The litigation arose out of Brent's declination to play in the film, "Mandalay," and the studio's subsequent notice that he was suspended from the pay roll but still on contract.

Greek Theme and Easy Piecing Make Quilt Popular One



FLY FOOT.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is an extremely old pieced block which has a reputation of being pieced so rapidly that any housewife may produce a whole quilt without any tax on her other interests. "Fly Foot" was first pieced between 1785 and 1800 and called "Swastika." Colonial America followed Greek architecture in principles of decoration and "fly foot" was most popular, thus the name "Fly Foot" had its origin.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Chicago Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower.

THE second of Cornelia Otis Skinner's diverting series, "The Loves of Charles II.," deals with "The Dutch Trollop," the wench in a tavern who treated her royal lover with derision, stealing his valuables and making light of him. Miss Skinner says that when she opened in New York Ben Ray Redman [author and publisher and husband of Frieda Inescourt], who was in the audience, overheard a discussion as to what a trollop was.

Trollop—Contract—Argument—

"What is a Dutch trollop?" the woman behind him asked her companion.

"O, I don't know. Some kind of a Dutch fishing boat, I guess," he informed her.

MRS. EDWARD HINES is taking lessons in contract during her stay in Palm Beach. [Diving lessons, too, a friend reports.] One day when a bridge instructor was at the home of Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick giving a lesson to Mrs. Chadwick, to Count Serge Fleury, and her other guests one of them asked:

"When do we get to roughing and sloughing?"

"Soon," he replied. "As Mrs. Hines said the other day, 'I'll rough, and I'll slough, and I'll blow your cards down.'"

THE following story illustrates the "hidden balance"—to use a financial phrase. A man in search of certain information found a book containing it in an old bookshop. He sat down with the book and spent a half hour copying what he wanted. Finally the proprietor of the shop came over to him and fussed about his using the book so long.

"You ought to buy that book, as long as you have taken so much material out of it," he complained.

"Why, you're no worse off than if I hadn't copied anything out of the book," argued the reader.

"It isn't how much worse off I am but how much better off you are that counts," said the old proprietor.

Miss Belle Casey Celebrates 20 Years in Court Post

Miss Belle V. Casey, 6577 North Lakewood avenue, yesterday celebrated her twentieth anniversary as senior clerk of the adult probation department, which is associated with the Criminal and Municipal courts of Chicago. Friends in the department presented her with a walnut occasional table, twenty roses and many personal gifts. Miss Casey is past supreme grand lady of the Ladies of Isabelle and is well known for her interest in charity activities.

Civil War Veteran and Wife of Waukegan Married 61 Years

Silas Nichols, commander of the Waukegan post of the G. A. R., and his wife, Elizabeth, will celebrate today the sixty-first anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Nichols, who is one of the few persons still living who spoke with Abraham Lincoln, was 86 years old on Feb. 22. Mrs. Nichols will be 78 years old on May 18.

The couple married in Milan, O. They have been residents of Waukegan for 40 years, residing now at 506 Poplar street. Their celebration will consist largely of visits from friends. Mr. Nichols will visit the G. A. R. headquarters during the day to greet the three other members who reside in Waukegan.

Ganz Declares Modern Music Is Era of Feet

With the ovation recently accorded the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe well in mind, Rudolph Ganz, conductor-pianist, yesterday styled the modern musical world "a century of feet." As proof he made reference to the enthusiasm for dancing in general, ballet in particular.

Mr. Ganz, a Swiss who prefers only a piano to a mountain, was delivering a convincing defense of modern music before 400 members of the Woman's Athletic club gathered in the club's silver-blue ballroom. In his lecture he was assisted by Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano, who sang a repertory of modern songs which Mr. Ganz himself admitted might be "pleasant music three decades hence."

"The world war destroyed the mind and the heart in music," Mr. Ganz explained. "Now we are in the century of the feet but the feet tire too easily. They will not last as the mind during the 18th century or the heart during the 19th. What we have before us is an era of melody and harmony, not of tunes but of melody. Melody is the most satisfactory expression of music."

Mr. Ganz went on to explain that melody, harmony, and rhythm have always been the three great fundamentals of music. "To these now has been added a fourth," he said. "This is color, the most powerful element in modern music. For example, music doesn't weep any more. It produces color that inspires sadness. The ladies of the 18th century court wept at Mozart's music. Today they would say, 'It's historically interesting, but let's have some life.'"

Mr. Ganz didn't expect the members of his audience to say they were "crazy" about modern music. "I only ask you to have tolerance, to keep your ears open to it," he explained. "Remember that when Lizst played his first all-Chopin program, a great critic of Berlin said, 'Of all the nonsense in music, this man writes the most successful'."

Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman Jr. and Miss Mildred Lawrence hung over the balcony rail yesterday morning to hear Mr. Ganz and Miss Kaufman. Mrs. Ganz was another member of the audience.

After the lecture Mrs. Ganz remained for luncheon to be the guest of Mrs. Raymond L. Redheffer with Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mrs. Charles A. Burkhart of Denver, Mrs. Frank B. Mulford, Mme. Joanna de Higersberger, Mrs. John Bellinger, and Mrs. Preston Vance.

Mrs. John C. McShane was hostess to another large luncheon party after the lecture. And still others who moved from the ballroom to the dining room were Mrs. Henry E. Veeder, Mrs. Alfred L. Tyler, Mrs. Clarence T. Seipp, Mrs. Thomas Condon, Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson, Mrs. LeRoy Kramer, Mrs. Charles Wrigley, Mrs. Edward R. Adams, Mrs. George J. Jaeger Jr., Miss Theresa Rew, Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mrs. Sewell L. Avery, Miss Florence Sargent, and Mrs. Welch Dickinson.

P. Hal Sims, Bridge Expert, Will Give Demonstration

P. Hal Sims, noted bridge expert and conductor of THE TRIBUNE'S "Conquering Contract" column, will give an exhibition of the bidding and play of typical hands in the Palmer house at 8 p. m. next Tuesday. The appearance of Mr. Sims is under the sponsorship of the Kenwood chapter of the Infant Welfare society, which is now engaged in its annual campaign for funds. Tickets for the exhibition may be obtained at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower.

Marriage Key Is Personality, Not Sex, Claim

Cottrell Believes Clinics Will Replace Divorce.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Reasons why he believes marriage clinics and not the divorce courts will in the future solve the marital problems which now end in divorce were advanced last night by Leonard S. Cottrell Jr., of the University of Chicago at a lecture sponsored by the university in the Art institute.

Speaking on "Personality and Compatibility in Marriage," Dr. Cottrell described divorce as "a poor solution, if ever a solution," for problems of marriage. While it is the general opinion, he said, that 90 to 95 per cent of the divorces are caused by sexual incompatibility, studies reveal the basic cause to be the emotional or personality maladjustment.

These personality problems can be solved in a more fundamental way than the divorce court, principally through the reeducation of emotional attitudes in clinics established in churches, communities and colleges, Dr. Cottrell said. As important, he added, will be the premarital clinics designed to aid couples planning marriage to gain an insight into their own emotional structure.

Following Dr. Cottrell's lecture in which he discussed half humorously at times the marriage problems of clinic cases, many young and middle aged couples and individuals rushed forward to obtain questionnaires which are being distributed by the social science committee of the university [signed by Dr. Ernest W. Burgess and Dr. Cottrell] to obtain material for a study on married life. This study is expected to throw light on the factors making for happy or unhappy marriages.

Defining personality as "the most significant aspects of set traits or characteristics which result from the sorts of rôles one plays in group life, especially during the earliest years." Dr. Cottrell described cases of couples whose marital maladjustments were aired in the marriage clinic and were traced to personal maladjustments in earlier life.

"Mrs. Brown, who had been married two years, made a most interesting complaint." Dr. Cottrell related. "'If my husband says to me again, "You decide that for yourself," I think I will simply scream.' I found the couple had started out marriage on an equality basis, where both were pledged to make decisions.

"'If Mr. Brown came home and his wife wanted to go to a movie he would say, "Now, you decide,"' Dr. Cottrell continued. "It was like the perpetual drop of water wearing away the stone. The wife was from a family where the father was a tyrant not only in his family but over the community. She was devoted to him. In a moment of anger at her father she married Mr. Brown, who was quiet and unobtrusive. She later began to regret her husband's lack of aggressiveness.

"After we talked to both Mr. Brown assumed authority. He ceased saying, 'You decide, dear.' He said, 'We're doing thus and so.' Mrs. Brown, elated, told us later she hadn't realized what a wonderful husband she had and she couldn't possibly see how she could have considered divorce.

"Thus, interviewing allows couples to get their grievances off their chests and, through insight and understanding, learn that their trouble is not due entirely to the cussedness of their emotional partners but in good part to themselves."

MOST VARIETIES OF CHEESE NOW AMERICAN MADE

How much do you know about cheese?

The common American cheese is cheddar cheese, which takes its name from the town of Cheddar, in England, where it was first made. Cream cheese and great quantities of cottage chees or schmierkase also are turned out by dairy and cheese factories in this country. In addition several kinds of cheese which once were imported only from Europe now are made in the United States. These include limburger, brick, Swiss, or schweitzer, Roquefort, and Stilton.

Some Made of Whole Milk.

Some cheeses are made from whole milk, including Cheddar, Limburger, Stilton, Neufchatel, Roquefort, Gorgonzola, and sometimes Edam, Swiss, Camembert, and Brie. The kinds of cheese in the latter group frequently are made from skimmed milk, or partly skimmed milk. When this is the case the law requires that they must be labeled as being made from skimmed milk.

Cottage cheese is perhaps the most common cheese in which skimmed milk is used. It contains all the food value of the milk except the fat, and so it is a good food for those who are trying to keep down the waist line.

How to Cook Cheese.

Most cheese is made of cow's milk. Imported Roquefort is made of sheep's or goat's milk, whole domestic Roquefort is made from cow's milk. The different flavors in cheese are produced by different methods of manufacture and different molds which take part in the ripening process.

In cooking cheese the housewife should use a very low heat, and if possible she should cook it over water. It is a very concentrated food and so not too much should be eaten at one time. Cheese may be added to cabbage, spaghetti, tomatoes, corn, or potatoes to add flavor and color.

SCRAPPLE GOOD FOR DINNER AS FOR BREAKFAST

In Philadelphia, the native home of scrapple, it is served as a breakfast dish, but other states enjoy this nutritious and inexpensive dish at luncheon or dinner.

Enriched Scrapple.

Select and wash two pounds of fresh pork. Cover it with about two quarts of cold water and bring it to the boiling point. Simmer until the meat drops from the bone. Remove the bone carefully to get out all the little pieces; chop the meat finely and put it back into the liquid.

For each cup of meat and liquid, add one-half cup of uncooked cereal. Cook the mixture until it is a thick mush, and stir it almost constantly. Season it well with salt and, if desired, onion juice, sage and thyme. Pack the hot mixture into bread tins and allow to cool. When this mixture is cold and firm, slice it and brown in a hot skillet. If the pork is fat, no more fat will be needed for frying.

Senator-Doctor Is Assailed for His Talks on Health

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.] — Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] sat up at the senate commerce committee table for two hours this afternoon listening to Arthur Kallett condemn his dual role: Of senator who drew up the new pure food drug and cosmetic bill; of doctor who gives health talks on radio programs sponsored by two products [yeast and mineral oil] which come within the jurisdiction of the pending legislation.

Mr. Kallett, who is secretary of the Consumers' Research, Inc., thinks it's all wrong to have the senator-doctor in these two simultaneous roles. He said so at an earlier hearing on the original bill [termed the Tugwell bill].

Witness Twice Warned.

Mr. Kallett said so again today; said it so definitly that Senator Hubert D. Stephens [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the committee, twice interrupted him with a warning that he must not level personal criticism at a senator.

When Senator Felix Hebert [Rep., R. I.] took exceptions to some of Kallett's objections to advertisments of drugs, he said: "You're not a physician, are you?"

"No, sir," shot back Kallett, "I am an engineer. We would have preferred to have had a physician give this testimony, but some of them are so busy," with a long look at Copeland, "testimonializing that they have no time to testify."

The present bill, he insisted, "does more to protect the dividends of the manufacturer than the health and pocketbook of the consumer."

Then he picked up a handful of ads; false ads, he called them. He read one for a certain laxative salts, and added, "for which I understand Senator Copeland is to broadcast next week."

Copeland Denies Writing Ads.

"Indeed, that's the first I've heard of that broadcast," said the senator. "Thank you very much for the information."

Going to another ad, for another laxative, Mr. Kallett read the fulsome promises of the ad, declaring them to be greatly exaggerated.

"But I didn't write the ads," protested Dr. Copeland. "I merely spoke on health on the program."

A third ad, for a mineral salts, Mr. Kallett pointed out that certain dangers lay in the use of this oil after a meal. Senator Copeland interrupted: "That's why, in my radio talks, I always advise that it be taken on an empty stomach."

20 TAX RECEIVER PETITIONS FILED BY M'DONOUGH

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $405,070, making a total of $106,608,569 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

March 1 .....$	13,229 $	31,063
Uncollected	15,104,386	40,497,770
	1930.	1931.
March 1 .....$	63,480 $	297,296
Uncollected	64,113,551	61,161,140

County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough yesterday filed petitions for tax receivership against twenty properties owing $40,275 in delinquent taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Among the properties listed is a building at 1430-34 North La Salle street, on which $9,372 is owed the county.

Hearings on the Chicago Real Estate board's suit for a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 assessments on 433,000 small homes and apartment buildings in Cook county will be resumed today before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

OPEN BIDS FOR PART OF W. SIDE SEWER PROJECT

Bids for the construction of another part of the west side intercepting sewer system were opened yesterday at a meeting of the sanitary district trustees. The project is part of the district's sewage disposal program which is being financed by the recent $42,000,000 grant of public works administration funds.

The contract calls for the extending of the main west side sewer from Fulton and Jefferson streets to Elston avenue and Augusta street. The low bid of $772,090 was submitted by the Michael Pontarelli company.

Chow Mein

SUBGUM CHOP SUEY OR CHOW MEIN.

3 tablespoons vegetable fat.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ cup water.
½ cup fine cut onions.
1 cup diced raw pork or fowl.
2 cups celery cut into small pieces.
1 can Chinese vegetables, drained.
3 level tablespoons cornstarch.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
1 teaspoon brown seasoning sauce.
2 tablespoons soy sauce.

Heat fat in covered saucepan or skillet over brisk fire constantly stirring and cook rapidly until meat is well seared [4 minutes]. Add celery and water. Cover and boil until celery is done [4 minutes]. Place water and cornstarch in bowl and mix well. Add Chinese vegetables, drained, to contents of skillet, mix while heating thoroughly. Add thickening to chop suey, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Remove from fire and serve piping hot.

SEES GYPSY WOMEN ROB FIRM.

While Miss Helen Krause, 18 years old, 4956 Hoyne avenue, stood by too frightened to protest, two Gypsy women took $50 from the cash drawer in the office of the Edward Piper Coal company, 4131 North Western avenue, yesterday and fled.

BEEF A LA MODE BETTER WITH NO ICE CREAM ON IT

Was it a shock to you, after "à-la-moding" pie and cake with ice cream for years, to run across a recipe for Beef à la mode? The phrase, à la mode, however, had no connection with ice cream, for translated it means "according to the fashion." The new fashion of serving beef is this:

Beef à la Mode.

¼ cup vinegar.
4 level teaspoons salt.
2 2-3 cups water.
1 teaspoon allspice.
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning.
1 small onion, minced.
1-3 cup sliced carrot.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Make a marinade of the water, vinegar, seasonings, and lemon juice. Add the vegetables and boil 3 minutes. Pour over the beef round, cover, and let stand in a cool place for 24 hours. Drain the beef from the marinade, dredge with flour, and brown in drippings. Now place the meat in a kettle with the marinade and vegetables and add water to half cover the round. Simmer over low heat until tender—about three and one-half hours.

HOW TO MAKE SURE YOUR FISH WILL TASTE DELICIOUS

Ocean fish are caught by fishing fleets which bring them into the great fish market of Boston. This market grades all the fish. It grades them number 1, 2 and 3 grade, according to quality and according to how old the fish are.

All three grades are sold to you as being of fine quality, but at all kinds of prices. It is hard for you to tell whether you are buying number 1, 2 or 3 grade. But you can be sure of better than number 1 grade if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish and get them in the 40-Fathom wrapper.

For 40-Fathom Fish are caught by the 40-Fathom fleet, cleaned, boned and rushed to your dealer. They fairly fly from the 40-Fathom sea-nets to your dealer with the fresh-sea flavor of the sea all through them. They are like Grade A Milk or a choice cut of meat—the tenderloin of the sea—ready for the fire—easy to cook as bacon.

You can make sure you are buying better than number 1 grade and you can make sure your fish will taste delicious, if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish by name and see to it that the fish come to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name 40-Fathom Fish printed on the wrapper. But if the fish are not in the 40-Fathom wrapper, they are not 40-Fathom Fish.

1 cup apple sauce
½ teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, and salt
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream butter, then add sugar gradually. Add the beaten egg, then the apple sauce to which the soda has been added. Sift the cloves, nutmeg, salt, cinnamon, and flour together before adding them. Add the raisins and nuts. Drop from a spoon onto a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderately hot over [375 degrees F.].

FRENCH FRIED SWEET POTATOES.

4 large sweet potatoes
Deep fat
Powdered sugar.

Peel, wash, and dry potatoes thoroughly. Cut into lengthwise pieces about one-half inch wide and deep. Wipe pieces dry with a towel. Heat fat to 375 degrees F. Put only a few potatoes into the frying basket at a time. Fry until golden brown, drain on unglazed paper, and dust with powdered sugar. Serve hot.

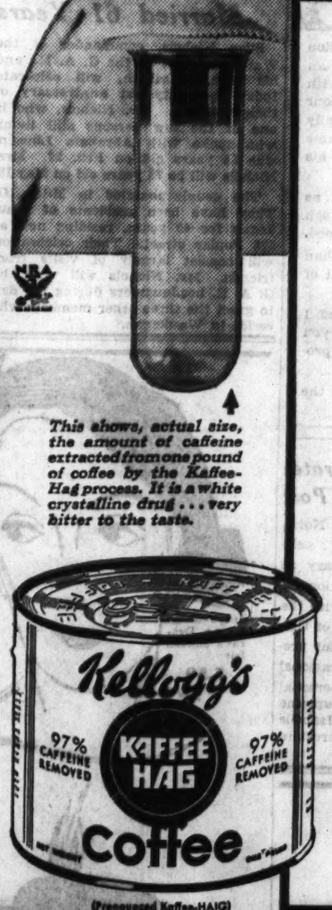
This shows, actual size, the amount of caffeine extracted from one pound of coffee by the Kaffee-Hag process. It is a white crystalline drug . . . very bitter to the taste.



(Pronounced Kaffee-HAIG)

LIKE IT? . . . YOU'LL LOVE IT!

Mellow Coffee!

Marvelous new flavor revealed as improved process gets out 97% caffeine

You can't help liking this new Kaffee-Hag Coffee! Kellogg chemists set out to take bitter caffeine out of coffee . . . without disturbing its natural flavor. And they discovered . . . this coffee had a new mellowness! All bitterness gone!

Taste it and see! So smooth . . . so mellow . . . marvelous.

One more surprise! You can make this coffee strong . . . bring out its full, rich flavor . . . still it won't turn bitter!

Why? Every pound of ordinary coffee contains nearly five grams of caffeine. Remove it, and you remove bitterness. Only pure, rich, full-bodied flavor remains.

Blended from finest Brazilian and Colombian coffees. Ground or in the bean. Vacuum packed. Satisfaction guaranteed, or money returned. At your grocer's, or send 15c for trial can. Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CHICAGO COFFEE LOVERS CHEER FOR NEW MELLOW FLAVOR

Battle Creek, Mich., March 1.—More than 500 letters have been received here recently from coffee lovers who have become enthusiasts for the new mellow flavor of Kaffee-Hag, the famous 97% caffeine-free coffee. People from all walks of life pronounced it as fine a flavored coffee as they had ever tasted.

Here's a long, long friend, Mrs. W. R. Samuel, 1424 Lunt Ave., Chicago. "I have been using Kaffee-Hag Coffee for over fifteen years, and cannot say enough in my praise for it. The doctors told me that I must give up coffee. I began using Kaffee-Hag Coffee and cannot be without it in the house."

"I discussed Kaffee-Hag Coffee with a few friends and the opinion of one impressed me. He said that drinking coffee is to a great extent a habit. Drinking Kaffee-Hag Coffee satisfies this habit and desire with no harmful after-effects." So writes Mr. Edward A. Greenblatt, 6842 Paxton Avenue, Chicago.

"Kaffee-Hag is the 'last word'. After an ailment last year I went to my doctor who told me to use Kaffee-Hag Coffee and discontinue all other coffees. I enjoyed it, but hesitated to serve it to guests, 'til one night I had no other coffee. That night four out of six guests asked for a second cup. Now we wouldn't think of serving any coffee but Kaffee-Hag to either our guests or ourselves." That's the verdict of Mrs. V. Hanson, 4301 W. Monroe Street, Chicago.

Mrs. W. Kahl of 2801 South Kildare Avenue, Chicago, is a constant user. "I want you to know how satisfied I am with Kaffee-Hag Coffee. It has a wonderful flavor—and the best part is I can drink as many cups as I desire, with no after-effects. I also tried a few other brands of coffee with the caffeine removed but never liked any half so well as Kaffee-Hag. I have recommended it to all my friends. They also think it's great. It's Kaffee-Hag for me from now on."

Letters Pour in From Other Cities.

"My son and I like Kaffee-Hag Coffee very much," says Mrs. Minnie O. Seichrest, 22 3rd Street, N. E., Washington, D. C. "He has never been able to drink ordinary coffee, but found Kaffee-Hag Coffee most delicious without any of the usual bad after-effects."

"You have surely struck the right blend," says Mrs. Charles L. Thurber of 303 East Gay Street, Columbus. "The new Kaffee-Hag is delicious! I know I shall continue to buy it."

"At last we can sleep well," writes Mrs. H. Comer, 614 Jasper Street, Kalamazoo, Michigan. "Kaffee-Hag Coffee is the best coffee there is. We all like it."

"Tried my first cup of Kaffee-Hag Coffee this morning," writes Mrs. F. H. Hubbard, 601 West 156th Street, New York. "We found the taste delicious . . . almost mocha in flavor. I shall continue to use Kaffee-Hag Coffee because we like it, and I find it on sale at any grocer."

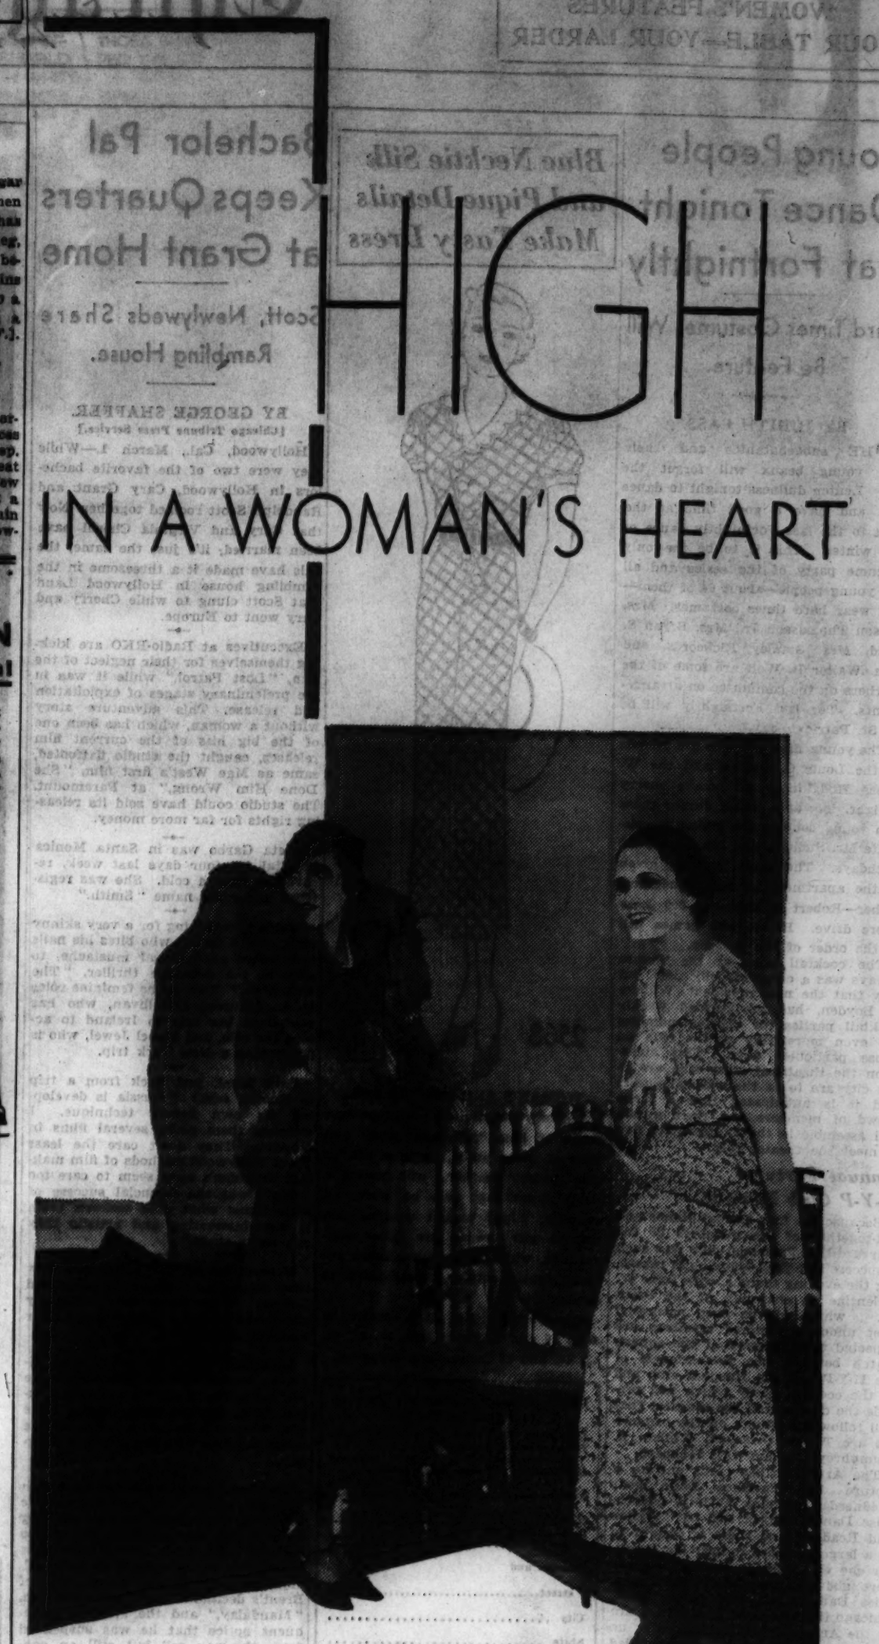
HIGH IN A WOMAN'S HEART



High in a woman's heart is the wish for a beautiful home—one which she can show proudly to friends, one which will help knit her family together.

Whether it is modest or pretentious makes little real difference. Planning right can give a home such beauty that it will be the envy of visitors, and such appeal that no member of the family will willingly stay away from it. But to create such a home you must first have something to work with.

If you live in an apartment which falls short of your ideal, now is the time to find the kind you have always wanted. No matter what section of the city you prefer, no matter what rent you want to pay, you will find a most attractive selection of desirable apartments listed in the Tribune want ad section. Why not look them over today and tomorrow?

It's no fun ringing doorbells! And it's less fun climbing stairs! Save yourself bother and fatigue! Use the Tribune want ad section. When you make up a list of apartments from those advertised in the Tribune you know in advance that the apartments at which you will look are the kind in which you are really interested.

MARKET PRICES REFLECT EFFECTS OF BAD WEATHER

Potatoes Go Higher; Variety of Fruit.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Stormy weather in the northwest and severe blizzards and zero temperatures along the Atlantic seaboard during the last week have had their repercussions in Chicago food stores, it will be found today by thousands of family providers.

The main compensation will be the discovery that in the south and southwest the weather has been ideal for harvesting a wide range of perishables for this week's market basket.

Storms Restrict Supply.

Potatoes, butter and fish are the main items either higher in cost or restricted in choice of supplies by the storms. Farmers in New England who still have potatoes to sell were unable to get them into the cities, and these in turn drew upon stocks from such points as Chicago.

The result has been an increase of 10 to 15 cents a bushel in wholesale prices here this week. Reserve stocks still are being held back in Minnesota and the far west by those who believe housewives will not find their families' potato appetites fully satisfied with the limited amounts of new potatoes now on the way from the south.

Dairy production has been curtailed by winter weather also, causing the price of butter to rise to the point where some families are replacing it with other products, especially for cooking.

Unusual Fish Market Turn.

Fishermen have been hampered by storms in securing the normal supplies for the Lenten season, although prices have not advanced appreciably. Perch, pike and trout are especially scarce. A strike in the fish markets of New York City also has been a factor in this unusual turn in the fish market during the normal peak season of the industry.

The good news of the hour, however, is to be found in the fresh fruit and vegetable departments of local grocery stores. Even during the late summer when fresh vegetables are coming to market in quantities there is seldom so wide a variety, nor as large a supply on hand as is now available in Chicago.

The wholesale markets visited yesterday disclosed remarkably large stocks of fine cauliflower, celery, cabbage, carrots, spinach and head lettuce. Citrus friuts, strawberries, the new crop of rhubarb, tomatoes from hothouses, broccoli and mushrooms also are plentiful at prices unusually low in comparison with food trends.

Regulate Fruit Shipments.

The citrus fruit industry once again has started out to regulate the flow of fruit to market from Florida—this time attempting to see that we northerners get only top grades of fruit. No restrictions are being made on size, however.

The new effort, effective yesterday, is being carried on under governmental supervision. A similar attempt to curtail shipments of head lettuce from the west ended last week in a failure, however. The stocks of citrus fruit that grade too poor for northern shipments will be turned over to the federal surplus relief corporation.

Another move toward boosting both farm and consumer prices to be noted this week in Chicago stores is the raising of the amount of processing tax on pork by the federal government. The order, signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, became effective yesterday, requiring meat packers to pay the government 2¼ cents a pound on all hogs bought for conversion into meat.

This means a tax of at least 4½ cents a pound on the edible pork, and is expected to cause many consumers to turn to cheese, poultry, lamb or beef cuts for entree purchases. The government anticipates this purchasing change, and contemplates placing a tax on beef also. The shortage of young lambs this winter has kept lamb prices above those for beef and pork in local markets.

Best Bargains in Beef.

The best bargains in meat markets this week, then, are to be found in some of the roasts of beef, spareribs, hams or picnics [from the shoulders, like hams, but smaller], eggs, and roasting chickens. Cheese is attractively priced in many stores, also.

The keen competition among fruit growers for a place for their product on the dining table is to be noted in Chicago this week, as well as in the fruit growing areas. Out in California a movement is under way to consolidate the selling agencies for all types of tree fruits: oranges, grapefruit, lemons, prunes, peaches, apricots, pears, apples, plums and even the vine-borne grapes and raisins.

Canned Juices Popular.

The reason for this is seen on the store shelves here, where both fresh and canned fruits are vying for cocktail and salad use, as the main ingredients of sauces, jellies, or for their juice. Prunes, grapefruit, pineapple, tomatoes, sauerkraut, grapes, oranges, and apples are now yielding their juices preserved, without appreciable change in taste or food value, to be used for drinks, or to introduce the morning or evening meal.

These products in turn are competing with the shipments of whole oranges, grapefruit, lemons, plums, apples, strawberries and other fruits and have given the consumers the advantage both in variety and price. Growers of most of these products are finding little profit, if any, left after paying the harvesting and shipping costs.

HOT CROSS BUNS ADD MUCH TO SEASON OF LENT, IF WELL MADE

HOT CROSS BUNS.

1 cup scalded milk
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1-3 teaspoon salt
1 yeast cake, dissolved in
¼ cup lukewarm water
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups flour
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup raisins or currants

Add butter, sugar, and salt to the milk. Warm slightly and add the dissolved yeast cake, cinnamon, flour and egg. When thoroughly mixed add raisins or currants. Cover and let rise until light. Shape into large biscuits, place in a pan about an inch apart, let rise again and cut a cross on the top of each with a sharp knife. Brush over with beaten egg and bake 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.]. Garnish with a cross of confectioners' sugar icing.

Spaghetti a la Caruso

SPAGHETTI A LA CARUSO

½ pound spaghetti
½ pound fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups strained tomatoes
1 medium sized onion
1 clove garlic
1 teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper

Cook spaghetti until tender in boiling salted water. Then drain and cool the spaghetti in a kettle of cold water. Melt butter in a saucepan, and add the sliced mushrooms and salt. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Boil the tomatoes, onion and garlic together until the mixture is reduced to one-half of the original volume. Strain and add to the mushrooms, add drained spaghetti and season to taste. Serve hot.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1 cup medium thick white sauce [made with half milk and half cream]
1 cup cooked chicken, cut in thin strips
¾ cup cooked spaghetti, cut in ½ inch pieces
½ cup sliced mushrooms [sauteed in butter]
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup buttered cracker crumbs
Celery salt and paprika to taste

Add chicken, spaghetti, seasoning and mushrooms to the hot white sauce. Fill a buttered baking dish with the mixture, sprinkle with the cheese and crums, and bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.] until the crums are brown.

RAISIN PUFFS.

¼ cup butter
2 teaspoons sugar
2 eggs
1 cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups flour
1 cup chopped raisins.

Cream the butter, add the sugar, and cream together. Add the well beaten eggs to the mixture. Sift the baking powder with the flour and add the raisins. Add alternately with the milk to the sugar mixture. Steam for thirty minutes in greased baking cups. Serve with vanilla sauce.

MARKET SURVEY SHOWS NATION'S TASTE IN FOODS

Chicago Good Buyer of New Products.

A survey of market trends made recently by a large food company has disclosed the following points:

1. Chicago is an excellent market in which to introduce new products.

2. New England consumes more fish, potatoes, and corned beef per capita than any other section of the United States. New Englanders desire yellow corn and fat bacon.

3. New York's tastes are cosmopolitan. There is a strong preference in this market for well known brands.

The Philadelphia Market.

4. Philadelphia consumes more ice cream, scrapple, prunes, and pepper pot soup per capita than any other market.

5. In Richmond, Va., there is a wide sale of special succotash, a mixture of lima beans, corn, and potatoes. This also is a good market for water-ground white corn meal.

6. New Orleans and portions of the gulf coast demand their own blend of coffee, roasted black with chicory added.

7. Texas offers a large market for chili con carne, hot tamales, pinto beans, and other Mexican dishes.

8. The southwest is a strong market for sirup.

Greater Demand for Fruit.

9. Dallas has the largest consumption per capita of bulk sirup.

10. The Pacific coast demands a blacker roasted coffee.

11. There is a growing demand for fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as an increased demand for most prepared foods.

12. Among recent developments is a growing market for tomato juice, sauerkraut juice, strained fruits, and vegetables for babies, canned cooked hams and chicken, and chop suey and other Chinese foods.

13. There is a trend toward increased use of package butter. Consumers desire a lighter colored butter than formerly.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

VEGETABLE PLATE WITH BANANAS.

Broil, bake or saute bananas. Serve with poached egg on toast and two vegetables such as buttered beets or carrots and string beans. Or serve with grilled tomatoes, buttered carrots and string beans.

To fry bananas—Peel bananas, cut in halves crosswise or in quarters, and roll in salted dry bread crumbs or in rolled corn flake crumbs. Fry in very hot deep fat, 395 degrees F., until light brown. Drain on soft paper and serve hot.

CHEESE AND CABBAGE ROLLS.

12 large cabbage leaves.
1½ cups cold boiled rice.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.

Mix rice, cheese and seasonings together. Parboil the cabbage leaves in boiling salted water. Remove and fill each leaf with cheese mixture. Roll up, tie each roll with a clean string and place in a buttered baking dish. Dot with butter, cover and bake in a slow oven 325 degrees F. until tender.

IT PAYS BUYER TO WATCH SIZE OF FOOD CANS

Some Differ Greatly in Capacity.

Do you read the labels before buying canned goods to see what you are getting? And having read the label, do you keep track of the size you bought last week at 10 cents a can and compare it with the cans you got today at three for a quarter?

There are cans and cans. Unless you examine the size closely you may not realize how much they vary. Even standing in a row the difference may not be noticeable. But measure them. Try putting one in the other, and measure the content.

One size when empty may just slip inside the next larger size, and with even this small difference in capacity, it has been found that the smaller one will contain a fourth of a pound less. These differences in sizes of cans are not uncommon. One is known as the No. 2 can which holds 20 ounces net. The other is a little smaller and holds an even 16 ounces—it is known to the trade as No. 303. The weight of its contents is about the same as a No. 1 tall can—16 ounces. The No. 303, however, is a different shape. It has the appearance of a No. 2 can, but is actually about an eighth of an inch shorter and a quarter inch less in diameter than the No. 2 can.

The answer, of course, is—never forget to read the label on canned goods. It is the basis which helps you to get your money's worth.

Apple Cake

APPLE CAKE [GERMAN].

2 cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
1-3 cup shortening.
2 egg yolks.
¾ cup milk.
2 apples.
¾ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
1 grated lemond rind.
Mixed together.

Mix and sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Cut in shortening and add egg yolks which have been mixed with milk. Pour into shallow cake pan and top with apples which have been cut into eighths. Sprinkle top with sugar, cinnamon, and lemon rind. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with whipped cream.

FAMILY BUDGET SHOULD HAVE 5 POUNDS OF FRUIT

Dried, Canned and Fresh Suggested.

Lafayette, Ind., March 1.—In making up the food budget for a family of five for one week plans should be made to include among other foods 1½ pounds of dried fruit and 2½ pounds of either fresh or canned fruit, according to Miss Aneta Beadle, extension nutritionist of Purdue university.

She points out that apples are cheap and are more or less in season all year, especially in the fall and winter. Dried fruits are usually the cheapest fruits of all, including prunes, raisins, peaches, apricots and apples.

Best Prunes to Buy.

The best "buy" in prunes, she declares, are the 30 to 40's. A half-pound will make 6 to 8 prunes for each member of the family if stewed for dessert. Other ways of serving them which people find interesting are as spiced prunes, jellied prunes, or prune whip. They may also be used in a salad, stuffed with cottage cheese.

Canned peaches are good just "so," but they may also be served as peach short cake, peach tapioca, pie, or cobbler, or served in a salad with cottage cheese. Dried peaches may be used the same as the canned. They are also nice for fried pies.

How to Serve Apples.

Apples may be served in any number of ways, as pies, dumpling, brown betty, apple cake, scalloped, baked, fried with bacon, sauce, and raw in a salad combined with cabbage and peanuts.

Stewed prunes and dried apricots make a pleasing dish or this combination may be used as pie.

HERE'S RECIPE FOR BISCUITS OF HAM AND SWEET POTATO

HAM AND SWEET POTATO BISCUITS.

¼ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
¾ cup chopped, cooked ham.
¾ cup flour.
1 tablespoon melted shortening.
¼ cup cream.
1 teaspoon baking powder.

Mix potato, salt, sugar, shortening, and cream. Add ham and mix well. Mix and sift the flour and baking powder and knead with the first mixture. Roll out on a lightly floured board to one-half inch in thickness and cut in rounds. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] until brown.

NEW WAYS TO USE CREAM CHEESE IN SANDWICHES

PARTY SANDWICH.

1 apple, finely diced.
¼ cup nut meats, chopped.

Soften cream cheese with fork. Add finely diced apple and chopped nut meats. Spread thin slices of buttered bread with mixture. Add leaf of crisp lettuce, if desired. Cover with another slice of bread.

These pastry sticks are especially recommended as an accompaniment for cream of spinach soup or fruit salads:

Cheese Sticks.

Roll pastry out of ¼ inch thickness. Sprinkle one-half with cheese which has been softened at room temperature and forced through a coarse sieve. Fold over, roll again. Spread one-half with grated cheese, fold over and roll. Repeat until grated cheese is spread throughout pastry. Roll ¾ inch thick and cut in very narrow strips about 3½ inches long. Bake until brown in very hot oven 500 degrees [Fahrenheit].

Prune Pie

CALIFORNIA PRUNE PIE.

2 cups cooked prunes.
1 orange, peel grated, and juice.
½ cup brown sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup liquid from prunes.
2 tablespoons cornstarch.
Baked pastry shell, 1 inch thick.
Meringue, flavored with few drops lemon extract.

Pit prunes and cut in half. Grate orange peel. Combine prunes, orange peel, sugar, salt, butter, prune liquid, and bring to a boil. Dissolve cornstarch in two tablespoons cold water, add to boiling mixture and cook until thick. Pour into baked pastry shell, cover with meringue and brown in a moderate oven 300 degrees F.

At a recent luncheon 1495 well-to-do club-women were served Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup. 1491 said, "The best cream of mushroom soup we've ever tasted." Four said "Sorry! we don't like mushrooms." Because the taste is the test, Heinz Soups are made your way—the home made way—to be sure you'll like them.

THOUSANDS of expert home-cooks prefer

HEINZ CREAM of MUSHROOM SOUP

All 16 of Heinz soups have the kind of flavor and quality that stop good housewives making soup at home. Even kitchen experts who used to scoff at canned foods, save labor and money by serving Heinz soups—because they find that Heinz soups actually taste better!

This is a fact. There is no catch in it. No kitchen trickery or magic formula is used to make these soups appeal to lovers of home-cooked food. On the contrary the success-story of Heinz soups is a plain and simple one. Old-fashioned home recipes that have stood the test of time in many kitchens; sound, homey ingredients; thorough, unhurried cooking in small batches—these beget for our soups the lively approval of particular people.

No bother to the housewife, Heinz soups come to your kitchen ready to eat, ready to heat and enjoy. Nothing to add. No blending or stirring to do. They are whole soups, finished, complete like yours.

And because we go the whole way and give you each soup fully made we can make sure of their good quality and flavor. When each batch of each soup is made we test and taste a sample to be certain that it is just right. We know our soups are as good as we say they are, and so we can sell them to you with this unique straightforward guarantee:

He Overlooked HEINZ OVEN-BAKED BEANS!

Napoleon said, "An army marches on its stomach." He had the right idea. But he might have done better to feed his armies baked beans.

Oven-baked beans had an aroma that welcomed our forefathers hiking home from Indian-fighting. Oven-baked beans were mealy and savory and sweet, and it was comforting to munch them.

Well now, Heinz has perpetuated the ancestral practice of oven-baking beans. Heinz secures only "choice hand-picked" beans, sorts from these the most perfect ones, soaks them long, bakes them slow in hot dry ovens, and cooks into them rich savory sauces.

So today you can enjoy this food at its best. But please look for the name

How to Welcome A PRINCE

If the Prince of Wales should drop in you might serve Heinz Tomato Ketchup. He and it are globe trotters, well-known and well-liked the world around. Probably have knocked into each other in Port Said, Capetown, Buenos Aires. Our idea is that it is always good sense to have Heinz Ketchup on the table, because, it being the largest selling ketchup in the world, the chances are better than even that this beckoning red, red bottle will be a familiar, well-loved sight to all who come to dine at your home.

SUCCESS NOTE:

We spent years in developing our own tomato seed and our farmers use this pedigreed seed or tomato plants we grow especially for them to use. We prepare the tomatoes and set them to slow simmering the day they are picked—for freshness. We blend in spices which we know are pure and fine because we go clear round the world to select them in person. We seal the Ketchup while still hot, to keep its flavor fresh. . . That's the way we make the largest selling ketchup in the world.

BRITISH RALLY TO DEFENSE OF THEIR CUISINE

Really Fine Cookery Comes from England.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

"O, to be in England"—now that the English Folk Cookery association has taken arms against a sea of jests and risen up to show the islands and the world just how good British cooking may be when a chef puts his mind to it!

This crusading organization came into being in 1926 when a group of epicurean patriots decided that they'd heard about enough of this "awful English cooking" talk and that it was high time things were done to squelch it. Their aim is "to create an interest and loyal belief in really good English cookery, which is in danger of dying out because of the neglect and misrepresentation it has suffered during the last eighty years."

So if you are English—or wish you were at least for one night—here is the bill of fare which was served at one of these pleasant occasions designed to help Britishers properly to perform their own cooking:

AN ENGLISH DINNER.

Cream of Celery Soup
Fried Smelts
Kentish Chicken Pudding
Vegetable Bubble and Squeak
Tossed Carrots
Port Wine Jelly Solid Syllabubs

And lest you are not quite up on all these jolly dishes we've borrowed also the English recipes to direct you. The celery soup is not so different from our own, although they watch much more closely the matter of seasoning:

CREAM OF CELERY SOUP.

2 heads celery
1 medium onion
1 blade mace
12 peppercorns
3 cups white meat stock
1 egg yolk
½ cup cream
Salt and sugar to taste

Wash the celery and cut it in pieces. Boil it in slightly salted water with the cut up onion, the mace, and peppercorns. When the vegetables are soft drain and add them to the stock. Boil up and then stir in the egg yolk and cream, beaten together. This binds the soup. Best add a little of the hot soup to the egg and cream and blend well before stirring it into the rest of the soup. Add a very little sugar and salt to taste.

FRIED SMELTS.

When smelts are good and in season they have a fine silvery hue, are very firm, and have a refreshing smell like cucumbers newly cut. They should not be washed more than is necessary merely to clean them. Dry them in a cloth, lightly flour, and shake them off. Dip in plenty of beaten egg, then in fine bread crums. Plunge into hot fat until they become a bright yellow brown. Take care not to bump off the slight roughness of the crum in serving or their beauty will be lost.

KENTISH CHICKEN PUDDING.

Line a greased baking dish with a good light pastry crust. Prepare a stewing chicken by cutting it up into convenient pieces and flouring them. Remove the main portions of the bone carcass and boil them with a little carrot, onion, blade of mace, pepper, and salt. Have ready some thick (three-quarter inch) slices of uncooked, mild pickled pork and cut it into strips three-quarters inch wide and 1½ inches long. Combine the pork and chicken in the baking dish, scattering among the pieces minced parsley, button mushrooms, salt, and pepper. Add a cup of cold water and cover with more crust, pinching the edges together. Cover with a piece of buttered paper, then with a cloth, and tie securely. Bake in a moderate oven in a pan of hot water for 1½ hours. Before serving lift the paper from the pudding, remove a square piece of the top crust, pour in some of the boiling stock, and replace the crust. Serve it in the baking dish with a folded damask napkin pinned about it.

VEGETABLE BUBBLE AND SQUEAK.

This is simply fresh young cabbage boiled for ten minutes, strained, chopped, and mixed with mashed potatoes. Season with pepper and salt and fry into a nicely browned cake.

TOSSED CARROTS.

Scrape the carrots, cut into dice, and boil in slightly salted, boiling water, but don't overcook. Drain, then toss them in butter and serve sprinkled with chopped parsley.

PORT WINE JELLY.

1¼ ounces granulated gelatin
¼ pound lump sugar
2 cups port wine
1½ cups water
½ inch stick cinnamon
½ lemon peel, grated
Nutmeg

Place all the ingredients except one cup of the wine in a saucepan and heat until well blended. Strain and add the rest of the wine. Turn into well wetted molds and let chill until firm. (Best soak the gelatin five minutes in a tablespoon of cold water before combining.)

SOLID SYLLABUBS.

Turn one-half cup of combined orange juice, lemon juice, and sherry (equal parts) into a big bowl and add considerable sugar. Add one cup of heavy cream and beat until fluffy, but not in the least buttery. Whisk the white of an egg to a stiff froth and fold it in.

CHICKEN ROLLS ARE SATISFYING ON DINNER MENU

Whole Wheat Chicken Rolls.

1½ cups medium white sauce.
1½ cup white flour.
½ cup whole wheat flour.
1 pimento, chopped.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
¾ teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons hard fat.

Prepare a biscuit dough by sifting thoroughly the flour, baking powder, and salt. Add the fat and chop or crumble it into the flour mixture until the texture is like that of coarsely ground meal. Add the milk, mix lightly, and spread the mixture upon a floured board. Roll or pat the dough into a rectangle about 6 inches by 12 inches.

Mix one cup of the chopped chicken with three tablespoons of the white sauce and about half the pimento. Spread this mixture quickly upon the dough. Cut into three fourths inch strips, roll the strips, place in a shallow biscuit pan, and bake for about twenty minutes in a hot oven, or 460 degrees Fahrenheit. Combine the remaining chicken, pimento, and white sauce and heat in a double boiler while the rolls bake. When the rolls are baked serve them with the creamed chicken.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

TOMATO LAMB CHOPS.

Dredge the chops with flour and season with salt and pepper. Arrange in a baking pan and slice over them onions, green peppers, and a whole lemon. Cover with tomato juice and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 2 hours.

"YOU CAN PROVE TO YOURSELF HOW LONG OLD DUTCH WILL LAST BY PUTTING THE DATE ON THE NEXT PACKAGE YOU BUY."

"THAT'S AN IDEA, AND I'LL DO IT. I'VE NOTICED ALREADY HOW MANY MORE THINGS YOU CAN CLEAN WITH OLD DUTCH."

"Seismotite" (pronounced sis'-mo-tite) is a fine, scratchless cleaning and polishing material of volcanic origin. It cleans more things, cleans quicker and doesn't scratch. Seismotite particles cover more surface because they are flaky and flat-shaped like this That's why Old Dutch goes further and does more cleaning per penny of cost. Avoid cleansers containing destructive grit.

Old Dutch is ideal for cleaning any surface on which water may be used—floors, woodwork, painted walls, kitchen utensils, glassware, etc. And it polishes as it cleans fine porcelain, enamel and tile. It's kind to the hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors.

Buy a package of Old Dutch today and test it thoroughly on all your cleaning tasks. You'll prove to yourself that there is no substitute for its quality and economy.

Bake in a moderate oven in a pan of hot water for 1½ hours. Before serving lift the paper from the pudding, remove a square piece of the top crust, pour in some of the boiling stock, and replace the crust. Serve it in the baking dish with a folded damask napkin pinned about it.

VEGETABLE BUBBLE AND SQUEAK.

This is simply fresh young cabbage boiled for ten minutes, strained, chopped, and mixed with mashed potatoes. Season with pepper and salt and fry into a nicely browned cake.

TOSSED CARROTS.

Scrape the carrots, cut into dice, and boil in slightly salted, boiling water, but don't overcook. Drain, then toss them in butter and serve sprinkled with chopped parsley.

PORT WINE JELLY.

1¼ ounces granulated gelatin
¼ pound lump sugar
2 cups port wine
1½ cups water
½ inch stick cinnamon
½ lemon peel, grated
Nutmeg

Place all the ingredients except one cup of the wine in a saucepan and heat until well blended. Strain and add the rest of the wine. Turn into well wetted molds and let chill until firm. (Best soak the gelatin five minutes in a tablespoon of cold water before combining.)

SOLID SYLLABUBS.

Turn one-half cup of combined orange juice, lemon juice, and sherry (equal parts) into a big bowl and add considerable sugar. Add one cup of heavy cream and beat until fluffy, but not in the least buttery. Whisk the white of an egg to a stiff froth and fold it in.

CHICKEN ROLLS ARE SATISFYING ON DINNER MENU

Whole Wheat Chicken Rolls.

2 cups cooked chicken, chopped.
1¼-cups medium white sauce.
1½ cup white flour.
½ cup whole wheat flour.
1 pimento, chopped.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
¾ teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons hard fat.

Prepare a biscuit dough by sifting thoroughly the flour, baking powder, and salt. Add the fat and chop or crumble it into the flour mixture until the texture is like that of coarsely ground meal. Add the milk, mix lightly, and spread the mixture upon a floured board. Roll or pat the dough into a rectangle about 6 inches by 12 inches.

Mix one cup of the chopped chicken with three tablespoons of the white sauce and about half the pimento. Spread this mixture quickly upon the dough. Cut into three fourths inch strips, roll the strips, place in a shallow biscuit pan, and bake for about twenty minutes in a hot oven, or 460 degrees Fahrenheit. Combine the remaining chicken, pimento, and white sauce and heat in a double boiler while the rolls bake. When the rolls are baked serve them with the creamed chicken.

TRIBUNE RECIPES

TOMATO LAMB CHOPS.

Dredge the chops with flour and season with salt and pepper. Arrange in a baking pan and slice over them onions, green peppers, and a whole lemon. Cover with tomato juice and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 2 hours.

"YOU CAN PROVE TO YOURSELF HOW LONG OLD DUTCH WILL LAST BY PUTTING THE DATE ON THE NEXT PACKAGE YOU BUY."

"THAT'S AN IDEA, AND I'LL DO IT. I'VE NOTICED ALREADY HOW MANY MORE THINGS YOU CAN CLEAN WITH OLD DUTCH."

"Seismotite" (pronounced sis'-mo-tite) is a fine, scratchless cleaning and polishing material of volcanic origin. It cleans more things, cleans quicker and doesn't scratch. Seismotite particles cover more surface because they are flaky and flat-shaped like this. That's why Old Dutch goes further and does more cleaning per penny of cost. Avoid cleansers containing destructive grit.

Old Dutch is ideal for cleaning any surface on which water may be used—floors, woodwork, painted walls, kitchen utensils, glassware, etc. And it polishes as it cleans fine porcelain, enamel and tile. It's kind to the hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors.

Buy a package of Old Dutch today and test it thoroughly on all your cleaning tasks. You'll prove to yourself that there is no substitute for its quality and economy.

TELLS HOW TO REDUCE MOUTH CANCER'S TOLL

Dental Head Calls Deaths Needless Sacrifices.

The hundreds who die annually from cancer of the mouth were termed needless sacrifices to neglect yesterday by Dr. Joseph E. Schaefer, president of the Chicago Dental society. Dr. Schaefer addressed the closing session of the society's 70th annual convention in the Stevens hotel.

About 4 per cent of the 25,000 deaths due to cancer each year are cases of cancer of the mouth, Dr. Schaefer said. He declared that mouth cancer mortality would be reduced almost to the vanishing point if every sore on the lips or in the mouth were treated immediately, particularly among persons 40 years or older. He warned that such sores that did not respond to home treatment in two to three weeks should be examined by a physician.

"If the lesion does not heal under the proper medical treatment, then we suspect cancer," Dr. Schaefer continued. "Once the lesion is recognized as tending to cancer it is an easy matter to take care of it by surgery or radium. Even in late stages of mouth cancer there is chance for control. If the cancer invades the glands of the neck we still can take effective measures by removing the infected parts, but there is a serious problem when the disease spreads to the lungs and involves the heart. Because dentists are the first to see 65 to 75 per cent of mouth cancer in its early stages, they are in a position to play a vitally important part in its control."

Visiting dentists milled about the clinics held in the grand ballroom of the Stevens during the afternoon, where new methods and materials were demonstrated. Among patients having unusual cases was a five year old girl who proudly flashed an entire upper set of artificial teeth. The child has lost her baby teeth from abscesses and will wear artificial teeth until her second set push through the gums.

MAYOR DISCUSSES 'KEEP CHICAGO AHEAD' CAMPAIGN

Preliminary plans of a campaign to "Keep Chicago Ahead in 1934" were discussed yesterday by Mayor Kelly and a group of utility and transportation leaders. The campaign will be built around importance of the coming World's Fair as a business magnet. Similar meetings will be called by Mayor Kelly asking the attendance of other business leaders so that a well rounded program may be formulated.

The campaign probably will be divided into three sections, said Mayor Kelly. The first part will comprise national publicity for the city and exposition, probably through both radio and advertising media. A second will be a local effort to enlist the aid of all business concerns in publicizing the campaign. The third part will take form in a concerted effort to increase the interest of Chicagoans in the 1934 Fair, in respect to the personal advantages and the general benefit to the city.

W. H. Spears, general passenger agent for the Greyhound bus lines, said yesterday that the company will launch an advertising campaign this month to bring visitors to A Century of Progress. Officials of the company predicted a large volume of business during the summer based on last year's success.

NEW WILLS FILED IN PROBATE COURT

Two wills were admitted to probate yesterday and filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. The wills are those of:

LUCIA DE LUCAS, died Jan. 21. Estate, $10,000, to three sons, two daughters, and three granddaughters. Michael De Lucas, a son, is executor.

AUGUST ROSS, died Nov. 24, 1933. Estate, $9,000, to two sons and one daughter. The Chicago City Bank and Trust company is executor.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR CAPT. ZIMMER

Funeral services for Capt. Matthew Zimmer, head of the uniformed police force, were held yesterday in the chapel at 318 North Central avenue. Burial was in Graceland cemetery.

Capt. Zimmer died Monday in his home, 8132 South Sangamon street, from the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning. He was 67 years old.

Capt. Zimmer was overcome in the garage behind his home nine days ago by fumes from the exhaust of his automobile as he warmed the the motor. Found unconscious by his wife, he was revived by an inhalator squad, but grew weaker and died, despite several blood transfusions.

A crowd of approximately 400 persons attended the services, among them a detail of 250 uniformed policemen. The pallbearers were Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, Supervising Capts. John Prendergast and John Stege, Capts. David Flynn, Ira McDowell and Thomas Condon.

JESSIE J. HIXSON, CHARITY LEADER IN EVANSTON, DIES

Mrs. Jessie Jordan Hixson, a leader in charitable work, died yesterday at her home, 1216 Hinman avenue, Evanston. She was president of the Evanston branch of the Children's Home and Aid society, a director of the Evanston Community chest, and a member of the Woman's Athletic club. Mrs. Hixson is survived by her husband, H. Rea Hixson; a sister, Nellie M. Jordan of Evanston, and a brother, George Jordan of Los Angeles.

Thomas Henderson, 84, Pioneer Auto Maker, Dies

Coral Gables, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Thomas Henderson, 84, pioneer automobile manufacturer and one of the founders of the Winton Motor Car company, died today after a month's illness. He came here six years ago from Cleveland. Funeral services will be held here Saturday.

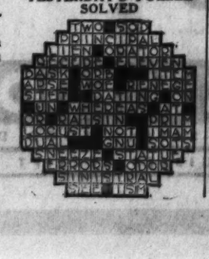
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



OMER CUSTER'S SON KILLS SELF IN HOTEL ROOM

Burlington, Ia., March 1.—[Special.]—Howard Temple Custer, 34 years old, general manager of the Burlington Hawkeye Gazette and son of Omer N. Custer, Galesburg, Ill., publisher and former Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, shot and killed himself today in his room at the Burlington hotel, where he resided. A note on the dresser in the room addressed, "To my parents," said: "I am sorry. Your son."

Associates of young Custer on the newspaper said that he had been complaining of ill health during recent weeks. J. Tracy Garrett, editor, said Custer had left his office at 2 p. m., saying he was not feeling well. His body was found an hour later by C. W. McLaury, city editor, who went to inquire about his health.

Custer was married, but his wife, Mrs. Josephine Custer, is estranged. His father arrived in Burlington a few hours after the tragedy.

Young Custer had been living in Burlington since last June, when his father purchased the newspaper. His funeral will be held in Galesburg Sunday.

REMOVE PRUNE PIT FROM GIRL'S LUNG PASSAGE

A prune pit which lodged in the passage to the right lung of Fermina Iacucci, 12 years old, 2222 North Halsted street, was extracted at the Children's Memorial hospital yesterday after a delicate operation with a bronchoscope. The child, according to Dr. Max Lampert, who performed the operation, was unharmed.

The pit fell into the child's laranyx on Wednesday when she was seized with a coughing spell while at dinner in her home. Its presence there became evident when she experienced difficulty in breathing and her father, Peter, took her to the hospital Wednesday evening. An X-ray examination yesterday located the stone and the operation was performed.

A bronchoscope, physicians explained, is a flexible hollow tube about 18 inches in length. It is inserted through the mouth into the lung passages. A tiny electric bulb at the end of the tube illuminates the passage so that delicate forceps can be inserted through the tube to capture any foreign body that is sought.

FRANK R. WHEELER, NOTED ENGINEER, DIES SUDDENLY

Frank R. Wheeler, widely known engineer, died suddenly yesterday in his home at 105 East Delaware place. Mr. Wheeler was a specialist in condensing equipment, having served as a technical expert for the Northern Pacific Railway company and for a number of Chicago and Pittsburgh engineering concerns.

He was born in Wheeler, N. Y., being a member of a family of early American ancestry, the founder having settled at Concord, Mass., in 1640. Mr. Wheeler was graduated from Stanford university in 1902 and immediately afterward began his work for the railroad. During his career he was a contributor to technical engineering publications and was elected to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and to the Western Society of Engineers. He is survived by his widow, Blanche, and an uncle. Funeral ceremonies will be held today in St. James Episcopal church. The body will be taken to Pittsburgh for burial.

The body of Mary Carter, stewardess on the United Air lines plane which crashed into a mountain in Utah, arrived here yesterday en route to her home in Chattanooga, Tenn. Her husband, John F. Wheeler, 25 years old, 102 East Chestnut street, was accompanied on the train by two friends of the dead girl, Martha Dalin and Hilda Zwicky, also air line stewardesses. Wheeler and Miss Carter were married in Chicago last July, but kept the wedding a secret because of a rule of the air line prohibiting stewardesses from marrying.

Bury Young Wentworth, Gas Victim, Tomorrow

Funeral services for Edward N. Wentworth Jr. of Chicago, one of the nine Dartmouth college students who were killed last Saturday night by poison gas fumes traced to a defectively fired furnace in their fraternity house, will be held tomorrow afternoon in Dover, N. H. Edward N. Wentworth, the young man's father, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to New Hampshire. He has been on the west coast. A. Allerton Wentworth, an uncle of the youth, and James McCulla, of St. Ansgar, Ia., accompanied the father east from Chicago.

Marie Jenney Howe Dead; Biographer of George Sand

Harmon-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., March 1.—[Special.]—Marie Jenney Howe, biographer of George Sand, suffrage leader and for a number of years a practicing minister in the Unitarian church, died quietly while she slept early today. Mrs. Howe was the wife of Frederic Clemson Howe, consumers' counsel for the agricultural adjustment administration, and former immigration commissioner under President Wilson. She was 63 years old.

LOUIS THUROW SR., FARM MANAGER'S FATHER, IS DEAD

The staff of THE TRIBUNE'S experimental farm near Yorkville was saddened yesterday by the death there of Louis Thurow Sr., pioneer Kendall county farmer and father of Clarence F. Thurow, the farm manager. Mr. Thurow, who was in his 71st year, died suddenly from a heart attack. He had been ill for a month with pleurisy.

Mr. Thurow was born in Zarnefanz, Germany, on April 24, 1861. He journeyed to the United States with his parents when he was 3 years old, settling at Fond du Lac, Wis. In 1870 Mr. Thurow moved to Kendall county where he farmed for the remainder of his life.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina Jandt Thurow, two sons, Clarence and Louis Jr., two daughters, Clara and Mrs. Errol Cropsey of Oakland, Cal.; three grandchildren, three brothers and two sisters.

Funeral ceremonies will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the Emmanuel Lutheran church, five miles south of Yorkville. Burial will be at the Elmwood cemetery.

FUNERAL SERVICE TODAY IN GENEVA FOR A. M. FINLAY

Funeral services for Arthur Miller Finlay, who died on Wednesday at his home in Geneva, will be held at 4 p. m. today in the residence of his son, John Jerome Finlay, in Geneva. The Rev. A. J. Neidert of St. Patrick's Catholic church, Geneva, will conduct the services. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, St. Louis.

Mr. Finlay was born in St. Louis on Sept. 15, 1859, and lived there until he retired from the oil business 20 years ago, when he moved to Chicago. He was the son of John Robert and Mary Mitchell Finlay, who came to St. Louis from Edinburg, Scotland. John R. Finlay was one of the pioneer oil refiners west of the Mississippi river. He and his family were prominent in the commercial and social life of St. Louis.

Arthur Finlay is survived by his widow, Stella Hartnett Finlay; his son, one granddaughter, Barbara Dodd Finlay; a sister, Mrs. Louise Finlay Wentz of Wyncote, Pa., and two brothers, William Paddock Finlay of Wyncote and Charles A. Finlay of St. Louis.

Wife of Lake Forest Caretaker Kills Self

Mrs. Annie Crane, 62 years old, hanged herself yesterday in the basement of her home at 139 Washington circle, Lake Forest. She was the wife of James Crane, caretaker of the residence of Charles F. Childs, investment banker, at 747 East Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest. Police were told Mrs. Crane committed suicide in despondence over ill health.

Auto Collides with Bus; Passenger Severely Hurt

Charles Harmon, 51 years old, 4560 North Damen avenue, was critically injured when an automobile in which he was a passenger collided last night with an Evanston bus in front of 627 Howard street. The driver of the car fled. Police said the license was issued to Rockwell A. Johnson, 2045 Arthur avenue. Harmon was taken to St. Francis hospital.

Mrs. Hugh White, Widow of Chicagoan, Dies in N.Y.

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Hugh White, native of Ottawa, Ill., and said to be the widow of a Chicago financier, died here today at the age of 82. Her husband was one of the builders of the Brigham Young Cañon railroad, a pioneer western enterprise. Burial will be in Chicago.

Reports His $200 Bagpipe Stolen from Parked Auto

Police are on the trail of a bagpipe playing thief. Last night the thief broke into the parked automobile of Melville Finlayson at 43d and Halsted streets and stole Finlayson's silver and ivory mounted bagpipe, valued at $200. Finlayson lives at 615 Hammersmith avenue, Lombard.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Bury Clarence V. Smith, 56, in Lake Forest Today

Funeral services for Clarence V. Smith, 56 years old, lawyer and insurance company representative, will be held at 4 o'clock today in the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest. He died Wednesday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. B. N. Parmenter, 777 Washington road, Lake Forest. Mr. Smith was a graduate lawyer but never actively practiced in court. He was special representative in Chicago for the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York. He will be buried tomorrow at Kearney, Neb., his birthplace.

Young People Dance Tonight at Fortnightly

Hard Times Costumes Will Be Feature.

Mrs. Robert C. Orr, are planning to go east in the early spring, the time of their departure depending upon the date of Newell Avery Augur's marriage to Miss Trimble Hoblitzelle. Miss Hoblitzelle, whose home is in St. Louis, hasn't decided just when they will be married but the ceremony is to take place at the home of her brother, Harrison Hoblitzelle, in Wynnewood, Pa., in late March or early April.

Miss Hoblitzelle is spending this winter in New York but she will return to St. Louis to live after her marriage for that is where Mr. Augur has been living for several years. The Hoblitzelle-Augur engagement was announced several weeks ago. Miss Hoblitzelle, who has visited the Burford Porters here [Mrs. Porter was Susie Singleton of St. Louis], is a charming young woman and has traveled extensively. She was educated at the Mary institute in St. Louis and the Finch school in New York and then made her debut in St. Louis under the chaperonage of her aunt, Mrs. John B. Denvir.

Mrs. Wheaton Augur is spending a few days in Detroit just now but will be back in her Fullerton parkway apartment shortly.

Edward H. Bennetts Going to New Mexico

The Edward H. Bennetts and her daughter, Betty Mead, will leave the end of this week for New Mexico to see how the little 'dobe house they are building on some property they own about 75 miles from Santa Fé, is progressing. They will be away only two weeks for they want to be back at home in time to be moved out to Lake Forest when the two sons of the family, Ted Bennett and Joe Mead, return from their eastern schools for the Easter holidays.

Mrs. R. Boynton Rogers, who has been spending the winter with her mother, Mrs. S. J. Masters of Baltimore, at the latter's winter home at Miami Beach, will join Mr. Rogers in New York the end of this week to sail on Monday on the Aquitania for a Mediterranean cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will leave the ship in France and will go to Paris and London for brief visits before returning to New York in six or seven weeks. Mrs. Rogers then will go south to Miami to pick up little Iris Rogers, who will remain with her grandmother during her parents' absence, and Mrs. Rogers and Iris will join Mr. Rogers in Chicago about May 1.

From Palm Beach comes word that the Laurance H. Armours are there visiting for a fortnight the Albert L. Smiths at Casa Invierno. Also that Mrs. Arthur Orr who, with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth of New York, has been visiting Mrs. Eleanor Orr, has returned to her home in St. Charles. And that the George A. McKinlocks, the Wolcott Blairs, and the Joseph M. Cudahys were among the several hundred invited to the annual reception at El Mirasol on Feb. 26 to celebrate Edward T. Stotesbury's birthday.

Howard Linn Will Join Wife in Miami.

Howard Linn will shake Chicago's snow off his shoes next week and go to Miami to join his wife, who now is in New York for a brief stay after visits in Middleburg, Va., and Aiken, S. C., where she enjoyed her favorite sport, hunting. Mr. and Mrs. Linn will not return to their Lake Bluff home until April.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Templeton have returned to their Lake Forest home, having left their debutante daughter, Miss Josephine Templeton, in Tucson, where she is attending the University of Arizona.

The Harry H. Lobdells have returned from Miami, where they visited the Warren Wrights. Mrs. Lobdell's sister, Mme. Giovanni Cardelli, is also at home, having returned recently from Paris to her Lake Shore drive apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Newcomet and their daughter, Miss Marion Newcomet, have just returned from a trip through the Panama canal. They reversed the usual way of going from east to west and went to California first and then sailed through the canal to New York.

At home at the Drake hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr., who arrived in town yesterday after a six weeks' wedding trip which included several weeks in Honolulu, a visit to her grandmother, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., on Catalina island, Cal., and a short stop in Phoenix, where the former Betty Ofield has spent many happy winter months at another residence of her grandmother's.

The great Wrigley house atop a hill near the Biltmore is closed this winter, however, for Mrs. Wrigley and her son, Philip, and his wife and children are planning spending the entire winter at Catalina. The Sullivans will be apartment hunting in the near future. The date for Mrs. Sullivan's parents' return from a motor trip to Florida is indefinite.

A young Chicagoan, Wirt Dexter Walker Jr., has been placed on the midterm honor roll at the Westminster school in Simsbury, Conn., where he is in the second form.

The University of Chicago Symphony orchestra is to give its annual winter concert at 8:30 this evening in Mandel hall on the university campus. Jacques Gordon is to be the guest soloist and Carl Bricken will conduct.

Tea Monday for Kenwood Club Workers.

Mrs. Philip Copenhaver and Mrs. E. M. Van Winkle are giving a tea next Monday at the residence of the former, 4837 Kimbark avenue, for all committee chairmen and mannequins of the Kenwood Social Service club's fashion show to be held on the afternoon and evening of March 21 at the Drake hotel. Mrs. George B. Cross is president of the club, Mrs. Wilson Killough chairman of the fashion show, Mrs. Alan Lockard chairman of tickets, and Mrs. Benno F. Nell in charge of reservations.

The mannequins will be Mrs. Copenhaver, Mrs. Faris Chesley, Mrs. Albert S. Cummings, Mrs. Walter Trude Jr., Miss Dorothy Trude, Miss Virginia Dorwart, Miss Caryl Cummins, Miss Helen Dodd and her twin sister Lois, Miss Ella Jane McKillop, and Miss Lorraine Donkle.

Learning the Worst—and Best—of Skins

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

You may have seen your face in a magnifying mirror, but we'll bet it's never been inspected by a beauty expert through a magnifying lens that's at least a foot in diameter and that tells absolutely ALL—its defects, its virtues, and, what's pretty thrilling to us, its true flesh tones.

The head of one of our leading beauty establishments who used this lens in her Paris salon and laboratories for skin analysis recently shipped it to this country. You'll find it, large as life, in a corner of the cosmetic goods section of a Chicago store. And you'll find a skin analysis at the hands of the capable woman in charge a pleasant and profitable experience. It's free, too.

The tremendous lens reveals with the utmost precision the exact texture and the condition of your skin, pores that are distended, little lines which will grow into large lines if you don't watch out, the dry patches, the oily patches—and the dominating hue of your complexion.

It's this last that we're inclined to rave about. Through the deep lens, with the aid of lights, we got a better idea of those utterly important underlying skin tones than we'd ever gotten before. You'd be amazed at the range of hue a complexion can have. Bet you never dreamed your skin might have a bluish cast. Lots of skins have—and they're the skins that should be complemented with makeup aids that are similarly cast—a good raspberry rouge and lipstick and blue eye shadow, for example.

Every skin, we found as we peered through the lens, has a number of opalescent hues such as cream, ivory, pink, and olive and definite orange-red and blueish tints, with different tones predominating in different skins to create its general cast. This cast, understood for once and for all, selecting your makeup shades is as simple as learning the alphabet.

If you're downtown give yourself a few minutes of being inspected by an expert. Science and beauty are sensibly becoming better pals every day—and you might as well take advantage of their friendship. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Comb Performs Daily Massage for the Scalp

Heads Need This Treatment for Good Health.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Did you ever think of making your comb work a bit overtime on that scalp of yours? I mean you women who are afraid to use the brush on your marcel or finger wave?

My judgment is that scalp disorders, as they are confided to me [and these confidences are aplenty], are due, times without number, to the fact that the scalp never is gotten at from hairdressing appointment to hairdressing appointment. It does take courage to dig into a perfectly well set wave with a brush. Comparatively few women do it, I know, so the scalp never gets a toning except when the hair is shampooed. It never gets brushed. It requires no hair expert to realise that this form of scalp treatment is not good for scalp or hair.

Recently I have run across, first, a woman who, over fifty, hasn't a gray hair in her head, and whose daily habit is to comb her hair, not as you and I comb ours, but comb it for several minutes as one would apply as much time to a good brushing job. She says she cannot go a day without this comb-scalp treatment, and she's never had a bit of dandruff, nor any of the scalp disorders so common. She's been using the comb as a scalp massage implement for years and years. And her hair looks gorgeous, glossy, of fine color and texture.

Then, in the course of my scouting around, I have run into a hairdressing salon proprietor who talks "comb" to his customers all the time. He combs, and combs, and combs the hair in the treatment he gives. He thinks the comb better than the brush for scalp toning. Whether you agree with him or not, the fact remains that customers will run the comb through a marcel or finger wave when they won't apply a brush to it. His theory is that if you can't stand a good comb on your scalp there is something wrong with your scalp, requiring special attention. In all probability what is wrong with the scalp, he contends, is that it is never gotten at by any implement of massage, and no hair exists in a healthful state unless the scalp is made to tingle daily.

WEDDING

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Dagmar Oberg, daughter of Mrs. Anna W. Oberg of Robertsfors, Sweden, to Dr. Delevan M. Foote, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curtis Foote of Muskegon, Mich., which took place in the parsonage of the Rogers Park Presbyterian church on Feb. 24. Dr. and Mrs. Foote are at home at 7421 North Damen avenue.

funny people, these men

When that person you've taken for better and for purse (such as it is) comes up your steps, it's pleasant to know that you've a coffee to please him. Men are particular; they're funny that way. But you'll find that the unvarying goodness of Hills Bros. Coffee is an unmatched treat for even the most exacting tastes. And for exacting pocket books, too! It may cost a penny or so more a pound than "bargain counter" coffees, but you don't drink coffee by the pound—you drink it by the cup. If you're a family of two or twenty-two, you'll like Hills Bros. Coffee because it tastes better and goes farther. Order Hills Bros. today and look for the Arab on the can!

CUPID talks it over with Lupe Velez

CUPID: "Lupe, how do you win hearts before I even have a chance to aim one of my arrows at them? Is that nice, I ask you, interfering with my work?"

LUPE: "No, Cupid, I do not steal your job, I do nothing at all."

CUPID: "Maybe if you'd stop using Lux Toilet Soap I'd have more work to do! But while you have such devastating skin..."

LUPE: "You have a nerve, Cupid! I stop using Lux Toilet Soap? No! Never would I stop using the soap that does so much for my skin!"

CUPID: "Well, girls all over the country have found that out, Lupe. They've decided that the soap you use works for them, too."

LUPE: "Then romance will come to them. And pretty soon you will have no more job, my little Cupid!"

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance, regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately. She promises him she won't marry Rance without his consent. Gregory goes away and Barbara strives futilely to put him out of her mind. Disbrough, her father's partner, is a frequent visitor at Lynwood. Barbara goes on a visit to Long Island. Brawne worries himself into a frenzy. When Disbrough calls he sends him to propose to Barbara, knowing that their marriage would be only one of convenience. Barbara promises to consider Disbrough's proposal. When she returns home she receives a letter from Gregory, which she is afraid to open because of the impossible longings it would awaken. In desperation she decides to accept Disbrough.

INSTALLMENT XLI.

ACCUSATION.

Barbara walked to the postoffice and posted her letter to Allen herself. She had said what she wanted to say:

My dear Allen: I have considered your proposition from every side during these last weeks, and I have decided to accept it on certain conditions. They may seem to you extraordinary, but the situation itself is extraordinary. I am taking you at your word that this is a purely business arrangement, with obvious advantages on both sides. The death of my aunt has made it easier for me to do what I wish. On the day of our marriage I shall make over to you half of the inheritance I have received from her. This is your right, and I would consider marrying you on no other terms. In return I shall retain complete independence. Feeling as I still do towards Gregory Rance and as long as I continue to do so, it would be unthinkable for me to undertake this marriage in any other way. I do not mean this as final. You must trust in my meaning exactly what I say and more. I shall do my best to forget and readjust my life, but until I have rid my mind of certain memories you will respect this attitude. There is nothing in this world now I want so much as my children—at the proper time.

"You are writing to him?"

The alternative is to wait until I have fought out my fight. I leave the decision to you.

If you can understand and respect my motives, and still want to marry me, I wish it to be at once. My aunt's death makes it possible that we can be married quietly, with no one present but the immediate family. If it is to be, it should be immediately, because later I may not find the courage to do what I am doing. BARBARA BRAWNE.

When she returned from the postoffice the reaction set in. She shut herself up in her room and would see nobody. By night she was in such a state of collapse that she could not sleep. In the middle of the night, after long, feverish, wakeful hours, she rose, lit a candle and stole down the stairs to the library.

There would be no peace until she had written Gregory. His letter lay on the table before her, still unopened. She rested her head on one hand and painfully began to write:

Gregory dear: Your letter is here, and I have not the courage to open it. It were better for me, for my peace of mind, if I didn't. There has not been a day in all these months that I have not thought of you. I have tried to forget and nothing has changed. You are as close to me as that first night you held me in your arms. My days and nights are with you. I go back again and again over every moment we lived together. I remember every word, every touch of you. I live in a world of the past. All my life I shall go back into that world. I promise you.

What I have to tell you will hurt you, and yet it will set you free, as I hope to find some peace of mind to begin life over. I am going to marry Allen Disbrough, my father's junior partner. I could give you many reasons. The real one is I have to do something final to put you out of my mind. There is absolutely no hope for us, dear. For your sake and mine we must not prolong the agony. Don't think I haven't tried again and again to change my father, and don't think that I could be held by a promise forced from me in a moment of hysteria. If I thought he could survive the shock I would come to you now, at this moment. But he wouldn't. I have talked it all over with the doctors. There isn't any doubt in their minds or mine that it would be fatal to him, and, on the other hand he may live for years. What can I do?

Suddenly she stopped, tore open his letter and read:

My beloved: I'm half crazy. I saw you in New York. You were passing in a taxi. I called to you, I tried to follow you. I lost you and you never even saw me!

I've tried to forget, I've tried in a hundred ways, with all sorts of women—women I've hated, women I've respected. I can't forget I'll never forget. When we've been what we've been to each other, no matter how long we have to wait, nothing can destroy that! No matter what happens, some day, when we meet again you'll come to me as you came to me that night, by your own free will. Good God, Barbara, why did you do that? I've tried to understand. I can't. Did you think to pay me off, free your conscience? No, that's unthinkable. I'm crazy to write it! But then, why—why? Did you think it would make it easier for me to forget? Barbara, if you love, you don't destroy the man you love! And then to go from me—that night—to go to you father and end everything—that night!

My darling, I don't know what I'm writing, only that I've got to see you. You must listen to me. Why do you sacrifice me instead of your father? If he's wrong he should suffer. If I were weak, broken, if you knew you had destroyed me, you'd come to me. But because you believe that I'll fight it out and go on, you sacrifice me as women like you always sacrifice the stronger man to the weaker. But don't you see, your father's life is over—ours is just beginning. A few years—what difference would that make to him? But to us! Or is it because you believe what's been said against me? Did you lack faith in me? Did you think I'd end by forgetting you—just an episode? Well, I haven't and I never will. I need you now more than he needs you!

Barbara, your father isn't in danger now. The situation isn't the same. Marry me now, quietly, at once, and let him face an accomplished fact. He'd go into a rage—yes. He'd turn you out of your home—yes. But he'd survive the shock. He'd have to because he wouldn't be struggling to avert something, because he'd have to acknowledge defeat. Don't you see? Won't you risk it? Why haven't you the courage? Barbara, I simply won't give you up. If you don't answer this letter I'm coming up myself. I'm going to see you if I have to force myself into his house, despite him, despite everything! He's got to listen to me. You've got to listen to me——

She put down the letter and stared at it through the blinding mist of her tears, until from sheer weakness her head dropped on her arms.

All of a sudden she raised her head. Her father was standing in the doorway, his face suffused with rage.

"You are writing to him!" he cried hoarsely. "Don't lie! I know it!"

She started up, snatching her letter from the table, retreating.

He came forward unsteadily, catching at a table, a chair, blinded with rage.

"So you have been seeing him, writing to him all the time!" he cried with dilated eyes. "To the man who's done this to me, crippled me, destroyed me!"

Doris Blake Answers

Be Subtle About It.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend must know I think a great deal of him. I have never really told him so. Is it right for a girl to express her feelings to a boy? TOORS."

If asked, yes! Sometimes it is all right and necessary to slip the hint—but subtly.

Stick Around and See.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a young boy who told me that he does not love me, but that he admires a certain something about me. Shall I go out with him? PEGGY."

Well, admiring may lead on to better things, Peg. Stick around a bit and see!

It's Proper to Ask Young Man to Go to Party

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I've been invited to a bridge party and the hostess-to-be has made the suggestion that each girl bring a man friend. There is a young man whom I like very much, but hesitate to invite him, as I have never been out with him. W. R."

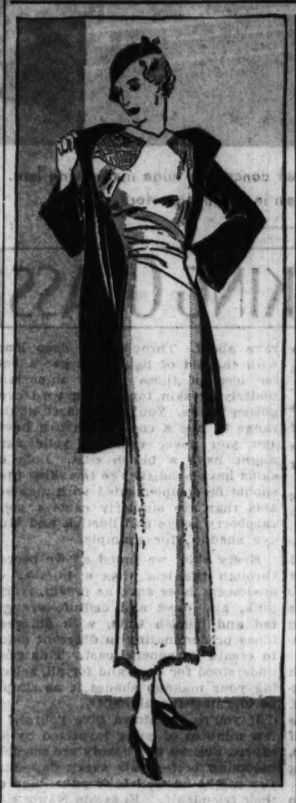
Why not invite the young man? The worst that he can do is to turn you down with a previous engagement as alibi. Or, it might be that he would have a previous engagement, really, but your invitation will not hurt his feelings, we judge.

This question of wondering whether you should or should not extend an invitation to a young man under circumstances like the above worries a number of girls. They would like to take the initiative, but are fearful lest it be mistaken for advances not consistent with polite behavior. Meanwhile other girls, not so reserved, are making pretty fair headway with men whom they have not been so squeamish about inviting places.

Of course, you have to use your head about extending invitations to men. You wouldn't, for instance, invite a young man who hadn't shown the slightest interest in you, or one whose time was obviously taken up by another girl.

As a matter of fact, you can put yourself in the young man's place, and ask if you wouldn't be pleased if a nice girl called you up and asked you to sit in at bridge with friends of yours. The reaction of young men to such incidents is not different from that which a girl would experience. Young men can be just as lonely, just as desirous of meeting nice people, just as eager to be asked to make a fourth at bridge as any lonesome girl, and just as appreciative of one who takes the trouble to ease a lonesome evening.

Bruyere Trims Frocks of Irish Tulle with Simple Tatting at Yoke and Hem



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Bruyere proposes that we drop our knitting needles and take up tatting. She trims a bouquet of white cotton dresses with tatting. They're designed to wear in the south immediately and later on in the north. Bruyere uses tatting to make the hems of plain sports frocks dainty and she puts tatting shoulder yokes in many of her daytime dresses.

The model herewith is one of her best tatting-trimmed frocks. It is made of a marvelous new cotton that is called "Irish tulle" and is really a mesh so fine it looks like linen. The frock is a one piece with short cape sleeves that are edged with tatting lace. The shoulders are made transparent by twin yokes of tatting that are set into the top of the bodice. The tatting yokes are separated in front and back by the material of the dress which rises in the center to the neckline and makes bands around the sides of the neck.

At the waistline Bruyere sets in a wide band of the material on a slant so it descends to the hipline at the left side. The plain skirt has a tatting lace hem.

A FRIEND IN NEED

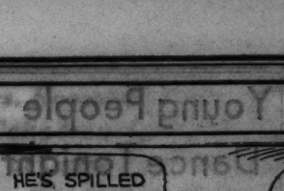
BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Appeal for Clothing.

"Dear Miss Brown: We are providing temporary care for an aged minister and his wife who came to this city from a rural community. They were unable to earn any money in their home community and decided to come to this city to visit their daughter from whom they had not heard in a long time. Upon arriving here they learned that she had died. In addition to the disability of old age, lack of income and inability to earn a living the minister is crippled as the result of malaria fever contracted during his evangelistic work. Will your readers help supply this aged couple with clothing before they are returned to their legal residence? They are wearing ragged clothing and are both in need of a complete wardrobe. The man wears size 44 coat, size 46 waist and 32 pants length. His wife wears size 44 or 46.—E. B. B."

This letter comes from a case worker and concerns a most pitiful pair.

Sisters Race to Win Washday Speed Test



Two young wives who are sisters staged a washday speed test. Each sister used the same laundry soap, the same washing method, but Mrs. B—— added two tablespoons or so of Lux to each tub of suds.

Then they compared notes. Mrs. B—— finished first, yet both sisters agreed her wash looked ever so much nicer!

"Adding the Lux gave me much richer suds and these better suds got the clothes clean quicker," she said. "My wash looked lovely—white things so white and colored things just sparkling."

Why not try this new washday trick? It saves time and work!

NOTE: Use only Lux—no other soap—for silks, woolens, rayons. Delicate fabrics should never be exposed to harsh alkali or cake-soap rubbing.

Stock Plays Music Tribute to Noted Elgar

Honor Memory of Famed English Composer.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Last night's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, originally intended to be entirely a request program, was by force of circumstances partly turned into a program to the memory of a famous English composer, Sir Edward Elgar, who died on Feb. 23 at the age of 76 years.

At least twice in his life he appeared in Chicago as conductor of his own works, once in 1906 with this orchestra, the other time in 1911 when the Sheffield choir was touring this country. In his life he acquired about as many honors as it is possible for a composer to attain. He was knighted, he was appointed master of the king's music, a position in music corresponding to that of poet laureate in literature, and he received honorary doctorates of music from five universities, Cambridge, Durham, and Oxford in England, Yale and Pennsylvania in the United States.

He is best known by his orchestral pieces, the "Pomp and Circumstance" march and the "Enigma" variations, but Conductor Stock decided that music of a graver nature was more fitting for an occasion such as this. Wherefore he revived the Incidental Music and Funeral March from "Grania and Diarmid," a play by William Butler Yeats and George Moore, and the First Symphony.

This is music displaying Elgar in his most learned and thoughtful phase. It is not in the least dramatic; even the music from the play is hardly music of the concert stage. It is, however, the output of a man who had thought much and felt much, and was able to translate his life's experience into terms of music.

The second part of the program took up as much of the request program as had not been canceled through force of the memorial part of the program. It began with the Elegy, Chorale, and Fugue by Thorwald Otterstrom of Chicago. This is a work which in its none too lengthy span would seem to contain a great deal if not most of the theoretical lore of composition. Its three sections are all founded on one theme; that theme is inverted, doubled, halved in time, presented in as many lights as an orchestra can give it. Many pieces of this sort are severe and forbidding. This one remains music.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

MORE ABOUT ONE-OVER-ONE.

UNLESS a hand looks hopeless, we never pass an opening bid if we have any kind of a biddable and playable suit. By this I mean a long suit, either a five carder headed by two honors, or by one honor with a side king. Naturally we do not respond with a four-carder such as Q J x x and even if we have very strong outside cards, we try to avoid bidding A 10 x x.

Our one-over-one response may be based on a long suit without holding the equivalent of one primary trick. By rebidding this suit, we are able to dispel any doubts that exist in our partner's mind as to the primary strength that we hold. Occasionally, the system is misued and abused and trouble ensues. This is no fault of the system and with perfect coördination, responding and rebidding with this type of hand is a perfectly safe and advantageous proposition.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 Hs [1]	Double [2]	3 Sp [3]	Pass
3 Di [4]	Pass	3 Sp [5]	Pass
4 Sp [6]	Double [7]	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. Plenty of excess values over the requirements for an opening bid.
2. A negative double. Should South bid over this double and West nevertheless be able to bid, there should be a game in some contract for East and West.
3. Informing the opener that hearts is a poor contract for my hand, but I have a playable spade suit. This bid cannot be mistaken for strength, as with primary strength I would pass the double and bid on the next round or else redouble. My partner cannot place too much reliance in this bid.
4. A game force. I must rebid.
5. Showing a long spade suit and nothing else.
6. A gambling bid, but one in which I should not be set more than one trick.
7. No criticism can be made of this double.

The play:

Trick.	West.	North.	East.	South.
1.	♣10	♣2	♣A*	♣J
2.	♣4	♣7	♣3	♣K*
3.	♦7	♦J	♦A*	♦3
4.	♦2	♦K*	♦10	♦4
5.	♠7	♠10[1]	♠K*	♠8
6.	♣5	♣A*	♣6	♣4
7.	♥4	♥A*[2]	♥8	♥2
8.	♣6	♣3	♣8	♣J*
9.	♣8	♥7	♣Q	♣Q*
10.	♥5	♥J	Squeeze	♠9
11.	♣9	♥Q		♠5

East holds the heart K and diamond 9 5. He must discard either the heart, and my 10 spot will then be good; or else a diamond, in which case the dummy's two diamonds will both be good.

Figuring Out the Squeeze Possibility.

1. I placed East with the spade K and heart K and four diamonds. My only hope of fulfilling my contract was for East to have three spades and for him to win the first lead. This was necessary to give me an out card from the dummy.

If the spades were divided two and two, I did not mind West ruffing a diamond as I would be able to discard a losing heart on the king of that suit and would only be one down.

2. Preparing the squeeze play.

East could have avoided the squeeze by ducking the spade on trick 5.

Mr. Sims will answer all inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper. Inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In talking yesterday about managing the 5 year old we pointed out the necessity of providing him with outlets for his growing strength and allowing him as much independence as is compatible with his safety. All this instead of putting the lid on and holding to our expectations of baby behavior.

In addition to providing him with such things as velocipedes and roller skates and scooters for outdoors and the right toys for indoor play we ought to provide him with other outlets. Children need variety of occupation because there are many sides to their nature—or to put it another way—because they have many needs. So we want to provide them at 5 or before with materials for creative work in the manual skills of the arts—and this means both little girls and little boys.

What would those materials be?

Nails and pieces of lumber—preferably soft wood—and boxes from the grocery store.

Clay and a bread board to model on—and a smock or soft oilcloth apron to wear.

Big wax crayons and large sheets of paper as well as soft pencils.

Scissors—good but blunt pointed ones—and colored paper.

Produced by Crown.
Presented at the Majestic theater.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

QUALITY: Mediocre.

ACTING: Cast of foreigners distilled work under uncertain direction.

PLOT: None to speak of. Soldiers fighting, suffering, dying, take up most of the footage. One Karl, arriving home on leave, discovers his wife carrying on with the butcher boy. He returns to the front, finding the comradeship of the trenches soothing after the infidelity he has encountered at his hearthside. True, the wife says that she was hungry and sinned as payment for food, and, as Karl dies—in the finale—he mutters to a lowering sky that, at last, he understands. . . .

PHOTOGRAPHY: Fair.

SOUND, SYNCHRONIZATION, DIALOGUE: Poor.

REMARKS: Many of the episodes are maddeningly long drawn out. You see a man prone on the ground. You look and look and the scene has not changed—he is still prone on the ground. Praying heaven for patience, you close your eyes. You open them—and there he is just as you left him. A bit wearing . . . !

War is terrible. But "The Price of War" has no new proofs to offer that such is the case.

See you tomorrow!

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt entertained a company at luncheon today in the White House in compliment to Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, head of the Japanese Red Cross and former president of the house of peers of Japan.

The other guests included the Japanese minister to Canada, Chief Justice Hughes, Secretary Hull, Secretary Morgenthau, Secretary Ickes, Senator Key Pittman, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, and Judge John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. C. Shelby Carter have returned from Havana.

Mrs. Tobe Coller Davis, who is staging a fashion show on March 7 at the Ritz-Carlton for the benefit of the Jacob A. Riis settlement, had her committee members for tea this afternoon in her home.

Mrs. Edward De Rose sailed for Bermuda on the Queen of Bermuda.

Miss Margaret Le Boutillier entertained at dinner for Miss Jane Erdman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John F. Erdman, and her fiancé, William F. Burton II.

Mrs. Roosevelt Gets Cake from Girl of 7, at Camp Fire Party

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt stood before an electric camp fire this afternoon and cut a cake which 250,000 camp fire girls all over the country accepted as the signal for a nation-wide birthday party. It was the 22d birthday party.

"I baked it for you because I learned angel food is your favorite cake," said a 7 year old curly-haired blonde of immense poise, Margery Hunt. "I hope you will cut it for the camp fire girls."

"I certainly will," replied Mrs. Roosevelt, smiling, "and I'm glad to have a cake baked by such a little girl."

ENGAGEMENT

President and Mrs. Ernest Hatch Wilkins of Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Glen C. Turner of Claremont, Cal., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Turner of Huntington Beach, Cal.

YOUR GROCER HAS THIS SUNNY WAY TO BETTER HEALTH
Check Common Constipation with a Delicious Cereal
Food has a lot to do with how you feel and how you look. For instance, you need plenty of "bulk" with your meals to avoid the risk of common constipation.
This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. Laboratory tests show the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is safe and effective. In fact, it is much like that found in leafy vegetables.
Within the body, the fiber of ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.
In addition, ALL-BRAN provides vitamin B and iron.
Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."
Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Stanley cup playoffs, the world series of hocky, which presently will have their 1934 première, were given a preview at the Chicago Stadium last night when the Rangers and Blackhawks, abiding by the best standards of the New York-Chicago tradition, put on one of the grandest hocky games of the year. It might have been grander had not the Rangers won, 3 to 1, to take second place away from the Hawks.

The game was such that practically the entire attendance entered into the spirit of the thing in the closing minutes of the second period, causing the game to be halted on three different occasions, such was their ire at the decisions of Referees Ag Smith and Bill Stewart. They showered the ice with such intensity that four of the balcony snipers were led quietly downstairs. Their money was returned, after which they were ejected as quietly. One feminine fan back of the west cage left Mr. Smith with a memento of the evening with a cuff of her pocketbook at his jowls.

Dillon Scores Twice.

The game itself, particularly with reference to the first period, was as strenuous as any witnessed at the Stadium this season and the rink boards boomed throughout the evening as a result of the rugged checking of both teams. Eleven penalties were called, four of them being given to big Babe Seibert and two to the ordinarily mild Bun Cook.

Cecil Dillon was the hero of the Ranger attack, scoring two goals, but it was the redoubtable Andy Aitkenhead who really was responsible for the New York victory, making 44 stops to Chuck Gardiner's 22. Paul Thompson was the only one to make any impression on Andrew, scoring in the first two minutes. Murray Murdoch scored the Rangers' other goal.

The Hawks rectified their recent weakness for failing to score early by sending out the Romnes line to harry Aitkenhead until he almost assisted them in scoring the first goal of the evening. Romnes carried the puck across the blue line on the right side of the rink and shot a lateral pass to Thompson, who had accompanied him down the ice. Paul promptly lined it to Aitkenhead, who juggled it in attempting to field it. Then it fell from his right glove and wandered into the cage. The time was 1:40.

Rangers Tie Score.

The Rangers replied to this presently with Cecil Dillon scoring the tying goal at 4:20 with the coöperation of Seibert, who was making himself particularly obnoxious to Gardiner. Chuck went outside the cage attempting to save, but was clearly beaten. The fact that McFadyen was

Grimm Leads Nine Cubs to Spring Camp

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Nine Cubs, including Charley Grimm, who because of his managerial title must be given separate mention from those in the ranks, rolled out of Chicago last night in quest of climate conducive to physical perfection. The destination will be the same as on twelve previous spring expeditions—Catalina island, which the booster guides mention as being 25 miles off the coast of sunny southern California.

It will not be long before Grimm has far more than nine men to watch. Four others are scheduled to join up this morning while the Golden State Limited tarries at Kansas City. Another flock will be on hand at Los Angeles Sunday morning and a few stragglers are already at the island camp, which will be reached at noon. Actual training labor will not start until Monday morning, thus giving

Schmidt to Be Named Head Football Coach at Ohio State

Columbus, O., March 1.—[Special.]—Appointment of Francis A. Schmidt as head football coach at Ohio State university is expected at the next meeting of the athletic board, probably tomorrow, it was revealed today by Athletic Director L. W. St. John. Schmidt is now football and basketball coach at Texas Christian university.

FRANCIS SCHMIDT.

The signing of Schmidt is believed assured, inasmuch as he received the unanimous recommendation of the advisory committee at a meeting of the athletic board today.

No official announcement was made by the board, but it is said that only the absence of a high official from the campus prevented the acceptance of Schmidt at today's session. As a matter of courtesy to this official, the board deferred final action until the next meeting.

With the signing of Schmidt, it is understood that Raymond Wolf, line coach at Texas Christian, will be offered a post at Ohio State.

Board members, the president, newspaper men and university officials met with Schmidt in an informal session last night.

There is some objection on the board to the immediate appointment of Schmidt, one member being in favor of inviting C. A. West, coach at the University of North Dakota, to come here for an interview.

After toiling over the selection of a coach since Sam Willaman resigned Jan. 31, the action of the committee came with unexpected suddenness.

GOLDEN GLOVES WARRIORS CALL A WEEK'S TRUCE

32 to Return Next Friday for Finals.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Only the distant echoes from the marching feet of homeward bound warriors were left yesterday to recall the newly made heroes of THE TRIBUNE's Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

The knowledge that they will be back with us again brought cheer to more than thirty thousand who had watched them wage their battles for three nights in the Chicago Stadium.

The warriors—32 of them, all that are left from a field of 8,177—will return next week and on Friday night at the Stadium will fight it out for the championships. The winners will automatically become members of Chicago's team which travels east and fights New York's champions in Madison Square Garden on the night of March 23.

Chicago's amateur fighters, who in former tournaments gave their out of town cousins an unmerciful thumping, sized up the situation yesterday and found themselves fighting with their backs to the wall.

Only eight Chicago boys remain in the running for titles against twenty-four which come from the invading forces. The Chicagoans have been outboxed with great regularity ever since the tournament opened. They were swept completely out of championship contention in two divisions. There isn't a Chicagoan left in the welterweight class nor in the light heavyweight division.

Johnny Brown is the lone Chicagoan left in the flyweight division. Joe Mennici is the only home town boy surviving among the bantamweights. Chicago is pretty well fortified in the featherweight and middleweight classes.

Two of the leftovers in the featherweight class are from Chicago. They are Irving Goldstein and Andy Scavini. In the middleweight division two Chicago boys remain in the running. They are Fred Caserio, last year's champion, and Charles Wozniak, the Catholic Youth organization titleholder.

Phil Kennelly is the lonesome Chicago boy to survive the spectacular fighting in the lightweight class. Otis Thomas of the Savoy Athletic club is our only surviving heavyweight.

Boy, What a Bout!

Max Marek, of course, is a Chicagoan, but he is scrapping with the unattached Notre Dame team. If he hooks up with Thomas in the heavyweight championship bout, just about every boxing fan in Chicago will turn out to see it.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer team with six qualifiers ready to come back and fight it out Friday night was a top heavy favorite to win the out of town team trophy.

Yet there were a few Peoria Golden Gloves fans left in the loop who were trying to wager with the Clevelanders that Peoria will wind up with more championships than the Cleveland team does. The Peoria team qualified only three men for the semi-final round but the rooters from down that way are confident all three Peoria boys will scrap their way to championships.

The Grand Rapids Press team and the one representing the Detroit Free Press were others from the invading forces in the battle for the team trophy.

Resume Training Tomorrow.

There was no work among the Golden Glovers yesterday. All of them will rest again today. Tomorrow the boxers from every sectional center will be back at their training tasks.

Whitney, Braves' Infielder, Weds Houston, Miss., Girl

Houston, Tex., March 1.—[Special.]—Arthur [Pinkey] Whitney, Boston Braves' third baseman, will have a companion when he leaves for the Braves' training camp next Monday. Whitney was married to Miss Audrey Boyd last night. The bride's home is in Houston, Miss.

JUST TOO BIG

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

DR. FORREST C. ALLEN, athletic director and basketball coach at Kansas university, doesn't need to go to a spa to take the waters. . . . Put his basket team in a tight game and "Phog" will drain several quart bottles of water, using this method to keep his nervous system in shape. . . . When an official calls one against his club or when an opponent sinks a long basket instead of leaping to his feet and tearing his hair Allen tilts a bottle of water and has a long drink on the house. . . . Frank Lane, one of the most active basketball referees in the country, says the five best teams he has seen in the east, south, or middle west are Notre Dame, Purdue, Pittsburgh, Marquette, and Kentucky.

DR. F. C. ALLEN.

University of Wisconsin's head cheer leader became indisposed on the eve of a basketball game this winter and his twin brother pinch hit for him. . . . Nobody knew the difference. . . . Arnold Herber, half back on the Green Bay Packers, whose long forward passes have wrought havoc in the National Professional league, is tossing pop cases in his mother's beverage plant at De Pere, Wis., at present. . . . Bob Cahill, honor student in the college of commerce, has been named secretary to Elmer Layden at Notre Dame. . . . He will serve in part time capacity until June, when he will receive his degree. . . . Cahill is business manager of the Notre Dame Glee club, the job Art Haley held until Knute Rockne made him business manager of athletics. . . .

Frank Walsh, Chicago professional, writes that the gale during the Texas open golf tournament at Galveston was so strong that on a par three 145 hole he used a No. 1 iron and was short of the cup. . . . A few holes later, with the wind at his back, he used a driver and a mashie niblick on a par five 540 yard hole and his ball landed over the green. . . . Graham Kernwein, who did what starring the Maroons did in the 1925 Dartmouth game, is now resident surgeon at Billings hospital on the Midway. . . . Ray Morstadt, Marquette's high scoring basketball player, runs for a popcorn stand after every game. . . . Out of nine games played with eastern football teams since 1925 Michigan has won seven, tied one, and lost one. . . . Only the Navy, which came back to beat the Wolverines, 10 to 0, in 1926, after having been overwhelmed, 54 to 0, the previous year, scored a victory. . . .

The 18 month receivership period at Chicago Stadium will expire on July 19. . . . The lease of the Stadium Operating company, which has exclusive rights to boxing and wrestling in the building during the receivership, expires on the same date. . . . The Most Rev. Bernard J. CHAMPION HAS 86 POUND EDGE IN MIAMI BOUT

Crowd Estimated at 15,000.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 1.—Primo Carnera of Italy retained his world heavyweight boxing crown tonight by winning a fifteen round decision over Challenger Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia. Referee and judges agreed on the verdict. Loughran, outweighed 86 pounds instead of the 75 expected, never had a chance of ultimate victory, although making a courageous and scientific stand against such great physical disparity.

The contest was attended by 15,000 who paid $50,000 to see the affair. Both estimates are unofficial until the final count is announced tomorrow.

This gate is a new modern low for heavyweight title contests. It is a wide contrast to the $2,600,000 which Tunney and Dempsey drew in their battle of the long count in Chicago in 1927.

Leo Shea was the referee.

Better Than Expected.

From a competitive viewpoint, it was not a great fight. That had not been anticipated. As a spectacle of a game, courageous chap, more scientific and more experienced, against a champion who will be beaten, when beaten, only by a hard hitter, it yielded more than they had any advance right to expect.

Carnera's strength was so great and his advantage in reach, a matter of ten inches, so wide that he could score points to match those of the challenger. His margin in the clinches was marked enough to turn the tide.

If Carnera had been a harder hitter, if his blows had been directed at a less elusive foe, if he had known what to do when he had Tommy tired and wobbly in the last three sessions, the Philadelphian would not have stayed to the finish.

Anyway, Tommy Stays Up.

On the other hand, if Loughran had not been a master boxer, an adept at evading many of the ponderous rushes of the huge bulk opposed to him, if he had chosen to take the easy way out, he would not have had whatever satisfaction and honor there was in staying 15 rounds against an adversary who by all the tenets of pugilism should have stopped him.

For five rounds the bout was almost even so far as points scored was concerned. But Loughran, never a hard hitter, did no actual damage to the champion. It was apparent his chances were almost negligible, for he was not outscoring Carnera decisively and the latter was complete master in all clinches, where he tossed Tommy around as a dog would do with a rabbit. Here Carnera's weight advantage, 270 pounds to 184, was especially useful.

Blows Weaken Loughran.

From the fifth to the ninth round Loughran maintained his defensive stand, not noticeably weakened from his efforts but gradually losing some of the snap from blows at the best not too powerful. Carnera, on the other hand, plowed along at the same pace, unhurt and unweakened.

Loughran began to show weariness to experienced observers. Carnera's rough tactics in the clinches and on the ropes were taking their toll. Tommy's last three rounds were hopeless from the viewpoint of eventual victory. He was tired and wobbly enough so a straight clip might have stopped him.

Carnera, as champion, would be a great fighter if he were a better hitter. He landed on as clever a fellow as Loughran far oftener than expected. But many of his punches still are pushes rather than the sharp straight blows carrying conviction and soporific impact.

Crowd Against Primo.

Sympathy of the crowd was preponderantly with the lighter Loughran. Boos for the Italian punctuated the 15 sessions. These were induced by the advantage which Carnera took of his weight, often wrestling and whirling Tommy around. Twice Primo was warned for stepping on Tommy's feet, but his own are so large anything within range is likely to be beneath. Several times Carnera did hang on and pull Loughran toward him in the clinches, hitting with one hand free. That was within the rules, for they protected themselves until broken by the referee.

Throughout the bout Carnera pressed the attack. Loughran usually eluded him by side stepping or backing away. It was on those occasions when Carnera cornered his opponent or when he had him on the ropes that he did his most effective work. Then Primo whipped across both hands with total disregard of any damage Tommy might inflict. Loughran took plenty in the body, but his headslipping and covering up prevented deciding blows to the jaw. It hardly seemed possible a boxer could weather so many such storms.

11 Rounds to Champion.

Loughran was able to land, and land easily, but he did not do so and get away as easily as many of the admirers had predicted. Carnera had a pretty fair defense. He could outreach Tommy on straight lefts and in addition carried his right high against stray lefts which Tommy might send across.

This correspondent's count gave 11 rounds to Carnera, two to Loughran and two even. It was in many re-

MICHIGAN, N. U. MEET MAROON TEAM TOMORROW

Ward Leads Wolverine Runners.

Michigan's track team, leading contender with Indiana for the 1934 indoor championship of the Big Ten, will try out the facilities of the University of Chicago fieldhouse tomorrow afternoon in a three way meet with Chicago and Northwestern. The meet is the last warmup before the running of the championship meet a week later. The Wolverines should take more than half the firsts.

Ward Michigan Star.

Willis Ward, Michigan's versatile Negro athlete, who is now the outstanding dash man and high jumper of the Big Ten, should take firsts in his specialties and may capture the hurdles. Childs of Michigan, who has done 4:19.7 in the mile, is favored at that distance, and Alix of Michigan should win the two mile. Dave Hunn, sophomore pole vaulter, may take that event from Roberts of Chicago and Rudolph of Northwestern. In addition to these men Michigan has a host of competent performers for place points or better, including Lemen, Ellerby and Kemp in the 440, Hunt in the hurdles, and Howell in the distance runs, and a fine relay team.

Favor N. U. in Shotput.

Northwestern figures to take the shotput, with Sophomore Steven tossing better than 47 feet, to place Sophomore Fleming well up in the 440 and Farley in the mile, and to pick up points in the high jump and hurdles. Chicago expects to take enough points in the high jump, pole vault, two mile and shotput to meet Northwestern on equal terms. The Maroon athletes, who were behind the Wildcats in the scoring at the quadrangular meet, are more accustomed to the longer track at the Midway.

CENTRAL MEET MARCH 9

Notre Dame, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—The Central Intercollegiate conference indoor track meet to be held here March 9 and 10 promises to rank again this year as one of the fastest in the country.

Last year's indoor meet was faster than the Big Ten meet. The C. I. C. outdoor competition was second only to the I. C. A. A. A. A. and the N. C. A. A. meets.

Coach John P. Nicholson of Notre Dame reports that entries should reach 15 teams, although most schools hold off until the last minute to file their entries. He has received definite word from a dozen teams that they will enter.

Metcalfe Main Attraction.

While Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, holder of every world's sprinting mark from 40 to 220 yards, sharing the 100 dash mark, will be the greatest individual attraction, the two mile run promises to be the hardest fought and most interesting event to watch. There is no competition available to press Metcalfe on the basis of teams known to be entering to date. The Hilltopper star set a world's 60 yard dash mark of 6.1 seconds last year in the C. I. C. meet.

The two mile run will bring together Ray Sears of Butler, National A. A. U. and C. I. C. cross country champion; Tom Ottey of Michigan State, I. C. A. A. cross country champion; Billy Zepp of Michigan Normal, former National A. A. U. cross country champion; Hutton of Illinois Normal, who defeated Sears; Hammer and Bechtold of Michigan State, and Leo McFarlane of Notre Dame, who ran the two mile in 9:33.4 last Saturday.

Teams almost sure to enter include Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Marquette, Michigan State, Michigan Normal, Butler, Western State, City College of Detroit, Armour Tech, Hillsdale, Loyola of Chicago, and Drake.

N. U. TO BATTLE MICHIGAN SWIM SQUAD TONIGHT

Northwestern and Michigan swimming teams, both undefeated in dual meet competition, will meet at Patten pool tonight. The two teams have finished first or second in the Big Ten for the last three years and tonight's match will indicate which squad will have the edge in the conference meet at Iowa later in the month.

The Wolverines, last year's conference champions, are favorites over the Purple. The visitors are led by Bob Christy, distance swimmer, who was a member of the 1932 Olympic team. He is favored to win both the 440 and 220 yard swims. Degener, fancy diver, also an Olympic man, is expected to win for the Wolverines.

Capt. Art Highland of Northwestern, holder of the conference 100 yard championship, is expected to retain his title. He may also enter the 220 yard swim against Christy.

The Wildcats are heavy favorites to win the water polo match, which will follow the swimming meet. Northwestern is undefeated this year and has scored 45 points against one point for opponents.

Fonseca Smashes Home Run First Time Up at Sox Camp

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 1.—The White Sox today celebrated the early arrival of First Baseman Zeke Bonura by conducting the first batting practice of the year. Zeke, who brought his 210 pounds into camp early this morning without notice, was the first bat swinger of the year and managed to sock a few long ones off Paul Gregory's restrained delivery.

LEW FONSECA.

Haas, Simmons, and Dykes were the next to make their trips to the plate, with old man Dykes turning in the best showing of the trio. Then up strode Manager Fonseca, whose previous efforts in camp had been mostly vocal. Boss Lew smashed the first pitch for a homer over the left field hedge, the smack so encouraging him that he ran into the clubhouse, donned a rubber shirt, and joined the others in dashing about the acreage. Milt Bocek, the Cicero powerhouse, followed Fonseca at the plate and knocked a homer about 40 feet longer than Fonseca's.

A Double for Gehrig.

The enormous Bonura reported in physical shape, the result of having played pro basketball all winter. Zeke's architecture is similar to that of Lou Gehrig. Zeke and Lou both are exactly 6 feet tall and are the same weight. Zeke's piano legs are slightly larger than Lou's, otherwise their physical resemblance is very apparent.

Trainer Ad Schacht reported today that he is pleased with the condition of the entire squad. A real hot day ironed out the few muscular kinks that existed and it is expected that everybody now here will be in shape to make things miserable for the softies of the second squad who will arrive early Saturday morning and work out two hours after they get here.

Manager Fonseca plans to make the Saturday workout plenty stiff; and then, if the newcomers are suffering too much, may proclaim a general holiday on the Sabbath. He has not fully made up his mind on this, however.

Tietje Gets a Hand.

Pitcher Tietje, who beat the Yankees and the Browns in his brief span with the Sox last fall, and Pitchers Stine and Mills are winning increasing praise from their skipper each day. Gallivan, Pomoroski, and Nitcholas all are getting along all right, as are Gregory and Wyatt.

Babe Herman attended the Sox training session again today and was, in contrast with his recent temper, in the happiest of moods. He still hasn't signed his contract, and although he refused to discuss this phase of his affairs, there was every indication that he will be on the Catalina bound boat with the Cubs Sunday morning. The Babe, as Dr. Andy Lotshaw of the Cubs can testify, is the game's leading patron of the rubbing table. Today, while all the Sox were on the field, Babe slipped into the clubhouse and had Dr. Schacht give him a rubdown. Schacht was the trainer of the Seattle team when Babe was there and Herman says that Ad perfectly understands the texture of his muscles.

The golf match between the Sox team of Simmons and Dykes and the Cub team of Malone and Root has been arranged for 1 o'clock tomorrow. A large gallery is expected at the event.

NINE CUBS LEAVE FOR TRAINING ON CATALINA ISLAND

the well known Doc Andy Lotshaw ample time in which to equip each athlete with a uniform that comes at least close to fitting.

Rowland Ill with Flu.

The scarcity of athletes at the getaway from the La Salle Street station was more than offset by the army making up the remainder of the party. In all there were 33 individuals traveling as Cubs, some of them being club officials, some just plain fans, such as Dan [Firehose] Cahill, and newspaper men. At the last minute Scout Clarence Rowland, who was slated to depart, was forced to withdraw. He was taken ill yesterday afternoon and hastily removed to his home with a suspected case of flu.

Despite reports that Holdout Billy Herman would show up in Los Angeles Sunday for a talk with President William Walker, it now is thought that the young man may remain with his cattle herd on his Texas ranch.

The only team survivor of the Cubs' first expedition to Catalina, in 1922, is Charles Leo Hartnett, who is better known as Gabby. The then young man made his debut that spring under the guidance of Manager Bill Killefer. Hartnett's ability as a sort of glorified hog caller was soon recognized and the moniker of "Gabby" promptly awarded him. Time has taken much of his speed, but the voice goes on like the famous babbling brook, with a few more brooks thrown in.

The athletic members of last night's excursion party were Manager Grimm, Coaches Red Corriden and Mike Kelly, and Players Cuyler, English, Hartnett, Jurges, Klein, Phelps, Tate, and Warneke. Also present was Don Conrads, the 21 year old southpaw who will be turned over to the Los Angeles club for seasoning if he displays enough promise to warant such a move. Cub officials included President Walker, Vice President John Seys, Treasurer Charles [Boots] Weber, and Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis. P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, will greet them when they reach Catalina.

TILDEN, VINES TO PLAY PLAA, COCHET HERE

Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines will revisit Chicago next Tuesday and Wednesday for international tennis matches with Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa, France. The matches will be played at the Broadway armory, the seating capacity of which has been increased to 5,000.

The United States pair appeared in Chicago last month on a nation-wide tour which took in 20 cities. Vines won the series from Tilden, eleven matches to nine. Neither Cochet nor Plaa has ever played in Chicago.

The two day engagement will find Tilden meeting Plaa and Vines facing Cochet on the first night. The second night Tilden and Cochet will meet while Vines plays Plaa.

Wood Has No Opposition for Boat Trophy

New York, March 1.—(AP)—J. Lee Barrett, secretary of the Yachtsmen's Association of America, announced tonight there will be no race this year for the Harmsworth international speed boat trophy "unless the unexpected happens and there is a challenge by midnight tonight."

At the same time Harry Greening, Canadian motor boat enthusiast and royal commissioner of the classic race last year, said that Canada had decided not to reconsider a challenge. The dominion challenged Gar Wood in January, but withdrew on Monday.

"The Canadian challenge was withdrawn because it was found that there was insufficient time to get a boat ready for the race," Greening said.

CENTRAL A. A. U. BASKET TOURNEY OPENS MARCH 19

Central A. A. U. basketball championships for men and women will be decided in a tournament starting March 19 at the Arcadia gardens, Arthur Morse, president of the Six Point organization, which will stage the event in conjunction with the A. A. U., announced yesterday. Entries will close March 17 with Mr. Morse at room 1307, 221 North La Salle street. The girls' games will be held for the first time under men's rules.

MAUREEN ORCUTT LOSES IN FLORIDA EAST COAST GOLF

St. Augustine, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Four women golfers battled today to the semi-finals of the Florida East Coast tournament.

Maureen Orcott, Englewood, N. J., who already has two legs on the tournament trophy, lost a hard fight to the western champion, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, 2 up.

Still leading the parade was Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, tournament medalist, who shot a 73 to eliminate Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky.

The defending champion, Kathleen Garnham of London, England, won her match from Jane Douglas, Beverly Hills, Cal., 5 and 4. A 15 foot putt on the 17th gave Helen Hicks, Long Beach, L. I., a 2 and 1 victory over Grace Amory, another Long Island girl.

TILDEN DEFEATS PLAA IN FIVE SET MONTREAL MATCH

MONTREAL, Que., March 1.—(AP)—William T. Tilden continued the unbroken string of victories for himself and Ellsworth Vines against their pair of French professional tennis rivals tonight by defeating Martin Plaa, 7-9, 8-6, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4. The match was the first of their five-match series here.

Averill Joins Holdouts; Salary Cut "Too Much"

Cleveland, O., March 1.—(AP)—Earl Averill, slugging outfielder of the Cleveland Indians, became a holdout today. Averill received his contract from Manager Billy Evans and immediately handed it back. "It's too much of a cut," Averill said.

RED WINGS TAKE 4 TO 1 BEATING FROM MAROONS

Detroit's String of Home Victories Broken.

Detroit, Mich., March 1.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, leading the American division of the National Hocky league, tonight dropped their first game on home ice since Christmas as the Montreal Maroons handed them a 4 to 1 beating.

The Maroons built up a 3 to 0 lead on goals by Northcott in the first period and Ward and McKenzie in the second. Detroit's only score was made early in the third period on a shot by Sorrell, and in the late stages of the game Robinson caught the Wings far down the ice and pushed another shot past Cude, who received his first beating on Olympia ice.

Rangers Drop Hawks from Second Place

The boys deceived the customers for the first five minutes of the second period by relaxing after the spirited nature of the first session. This proved to be merely a ruse, however, for the rest of the period was quite as strenuous as the first one. The Hawks opened with Gottselig still serving time in the penalty box, but he returned within less than a minute after the whistle, and did his share of annoying Aitkenhead.

As the period advanced the customers became so impatient for a Blackhawk score that they showered all manner of missils on the ice, causing time to be called while the Stadium's broom brigade came out to dust off the ice. The operation was repeated a minute later, and the announcer was forced to plead with the customers to desist, which they refused to do, causing a third visitation by the sweepers. The galleries finally listened to reason, and the period was nearly concluded without further disorder until the one minute mark, when Stewart caused another uproar by sentencing Conacher for tripping.

Rangers Take Lead.

Shortly after the opening of the third period the Hawks commenced another foray on Aitkenhead, but failed to make any impression on him. The Rangers responded with an assault on Gardiner, which proved quite profitable in six minutes and 14 seconds. Murdoch was the marksman who put the New Yorkers ahead, with no assistance. He fired the puck past Gardiner and then bore in for a possible followup with such speed that he and Gardiner were both seated on the ice when the red light blinked.

About ten minutes later Dillon broke through the Hawk defense for a shot which bounded off Gardiner's skates. Immediately after this he repeated the performance and deceived Gardiner with a shot which brought Chuck out of the cage far enough for the puck to sail home and put the Rangers ahead, 3 to 1. The time was 16:55.

PREP SWIMMERS TO BEGIN STATE TOURNEY TODAY

High school swimming teams will compete at Bartlett gymnasium pool this afternoon and tonight in preliminaries of the Illinois State High School Athletic association meet. Among the 22 squads entered are Rockford, the defending champions; Oak Park, Suburban league champions; University High, South Suburban league title holder; and Morgan Park.

The complete list of entries includes Austin, Calumet, Crane, Danville, Englewood, Hyde Park, Lane, Maine, Morgan Park, New Trier, Oak Park, Parker, Peoria Central, Rockford, Roosevelt, Schurz, Sullivan, Thornton Fractional, Thornton Township, Tilden, University High, and Waukegan.

Salvatore Out to Keep Boxing Record Clean

Geno Salvatore, La Salle, Ill., lightweight, will meet Lou Vine of Chicago in the six round main event of the boxing show tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Salvatore is undefeated since turning professional last Oct. 23. Don Messina and Frank Keevil, Chicago junior welterweights, collide in the five round semi-final. Other matches:

Jack Krans vs. Red Johnson [4], heavyweights.

Freddy Gravelle vs. Hugh Allen [4], 130.

Jackie McCarten vs. Al Schiarato [4], 135.

Curtis Mills vs. Chuck Roberts [4], 150.

Ed Van Herrick vs. Hassen Ahmed [wrestling].

Lenny Cohen and Frank Mirabal, bantamweights, are paired in the five round semi-final to the Gene Higgins-Johnny Stroppa eight round windup Monday at Marigold Gardens. Lou Bolton and Matt Dour, middleweights, will meet for four rounds. Stroppa, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, is due today from Detroit.

Elvar Edwardson and Roy Reykdal, light heavyweights, are matched in a five round bout on the amateur boxing card tonight at the 24th Ward club, 3242 Roosevelt road. Henry Konecki will tackle Willard Weaver, Aurora welterweight, at five rounds.

Honey Boy Brown, Indianapolis 147 pounder, replaces Iowa Joe Rivers against Jackie Ausborn of Birmingham, Ala., at Eau Claire, Wis., March 9. . . . Ausborn also is booked to face Billy Hoon in an eight round match at Davenport, Ia., March 15.

Ald. John Toman of the 23d ward is sponsoring a Bohemian Organized Youth, headquarters of which are at 3950 26th street. Forty-eight boys of Bohemian antecedents already have joined the B. O. Y., which will concentrate on amateur boxing.

Franz Hart opposes Alex Kasaboski in a wrestling bout at Rainbo Fronton next Wednesday. Kid Mephisto also will be on the card. . . . Ben Jeby, New York middleweight, is scheduled to box Marty Simmons at Detroit next Wednesday. . . . George van der Hayden, South Bend, Ind., junior lightweight, wishes to fight here.

Frank Sigilio, Chicago lightweight, and Midget Mike O'Dowd signed yesterday to meet in the main event at Cicero stadium on March 23. The date was set ahead from March 16 to give Sigilio's sore hand additional rest. . . . Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, has placed himself under the management of Murray McLean and Mike Ferrozzo of St. Paul and Leo Kossick, Moorhead, Minn.

Leo Rodak, junior lightweight, will start boxing today at C. Y. O. center with Young Geno of La Salle for a 10 round skirmish against Paul Dazzo at White City, March 12. Dazzo did loosening up exercises yesterday. He is to follow this procedure again this afternoon. Paul is to begin sparring tomorrow. He will rest Sunday.

MURPHY, BARAK IN DISTRICT PLAY AT WHITE CITY

Charles [Feed] Murphy, former Loyola university star, and Steve [Red] Barak will be among the stars who will be seen in action tonight when six games complete the quarter-final round in the Chicago District Basketball tournament at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue.

Murphy and Barak, together with Don Cavanagh and Lennie McGraw, former Loyola captains, play with the Cullertons, who meet the Ninth Ward Republicans in a men's open division game. The Ninth Ward lineup is composed of stars from Pullman and Roseland.

The Klingen Oilers and the Cushna Goodfellows in the men's open division, and Mary Queen of Heaven and Kelvyn Park in the church class are other headliners. The Queen of Heaven team is the former C. Y. O. heavyweight championship quintet. A girls' rules contest, in which the two court game is used, will be a feature of tonight's schedule.

The schedule:

6:00—Arnold Sandwich Shop vs. Holy Cross Y. M. C. [Boys under 17].

6:45—Empire Sportcraft vs. Siena High school. [Girls' rules.]

spects a better bout than expected. Loughran lost nothing in prestige but did lose his long sought chance for the championship. Carnera boxed better than anticipated, but he still needs much more accuracy in timing and direction. His experience tonight can hardly be other than helpful to his future ring career.

Cancela Stops Tonn.

Jack Pettifer of England, 224½ pounds, weathered three knockdowns in the first round to last the four round distance against Eddie Hogan of New York, 212 pounds. Hogan received the decision. Hogan is a former New York Golden Gloves champion. Both were sparring partners of Loughran at his West Palm Beach camp.

tributed by St. John to the fact that the group had previously gone over Schmidt's record carefully, had received numerous and sufficient recommendations concerning him and was pretty well sold on him before he came here yesterday.

Salary terms and other details were talked over last night by Schmidt and Athletic Director St. John. It was announced what salary Ohio State would pay, but it is known that he received $5,500 at Texas Christina last year and had been promised $6,000 for the coming year. It was believed that his salary at Ohio State would be somewhere around $7,000 a year, $1,000 more than was received by Sam Willaman, with a promise of an increase in case he made good.

Schmidt has been at Texas Christian university for five years. His teams won the Southwest conference football title in 1929 and 1932 and tied for the championship last year.

Lane Crushes Tuley; Enters Semi-Finals

Lane Tech's heavyweight basketball team advanced to the semi-final round of play for the Chicago Public High School league championship yesterday by defeating Tuley, 47 to 26, at Roosevelt gymnasium. The winner's victory also qualified them to compete in a sectional tournament for the state title.

Lakner, Benzinger, and Polachanin starred for Lane Tech. Lakner and Benzinger each scored ten points, while Polachanin collected four field goals and six free throws. Zurek was Tuley's high scorer with four baskets and six free throws. Lane led, 11 to 1, at the end of the first quarter and held a 23 to 8 advantage at the half.

Two lightweight and three heavyweight semi-final contests will be played this afternoon. Final games will be played in the Suburban league, West Suburban conference, South Suburban league, Big Six conference, Little Seven conference, and the Northwest conference.

The Lane Tech-Tuley lineup follows:

AUDY TO RIDE IN SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE AT STADIUM

Jules Audy will be among the starters in the thirty-second international six day bike race which will open in the Stadium one week from Sunday night. Audy at the present time is riding with Fred Ottevaere, Detroit youngster, in New York's race at Madison Square Garden.

Audy was absent from the last two Chicago races.

Brawl Injuries Fatal to Kruck, Race Driver

Sioux City, Ia., March 1.—[Special.]—Rudolph C. Kruck, 31, dirt track automobile race driver, died tonight of injuries suffered last Sunday in a brawl at a beer parlor here. Murder charges probably will be filed against Bartley Jones, 30, Dakota City, Neb., who confessed to striking the fatal blow.

Bonthron to Race Venzke Again in New York Monday

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—William R. Bonthron, sensational Princeton runner, will make his last start in New York Monday night at Madison Square Garden. Bonthron has entered the 1,500 meter run in the intercollegiate A. A. A. championship meet in which he will oppose Gene Venzke and others.

BLUE RIBBONS SKATE THROUGH MANITOWOC, 12-1

Third Period Bring Six Goals for Chicago.

The Pabst Blue Ribbon team of the Chicago Amateur Hocky association piled up a 12 to 1 score on the Huchthausens of Manitowoc, Wis., last night at the Coliseum.

The expected opposition from the Badger team, which had beaten every sextet in its part of the state, failed to materialize. After putting up a good battle in the first period, which ended with them trailing 2 to 1, the Manitowocs tired and the Ribbons swept through for four goals in the second period and six in the last.

HEAVY ENTRY LIST

The Central A. A. U. hocky tournament which will get under way tomorrow and Sunday at the Coliseum has attracted entries from several states, Emil Iverson, president of the Chicago Amateur Hocky league, said yesterday.

It is expected that the eight community league teams and the seven clubs in the C. Y. O. league will enter, although at present only the Egan Shamrocks, Roosevelt Bluebirds and Litsinger Motors are in the fold.

Out of town teams which have entered are the Rainbow Hocky club of Highland Park, Waukegan All-Stars, Barco club of Fox Lake, Blue Eagles of South Bend, Ind., and the Columbian Squires of Fond du Lac, Wis.

Invitations have been sent to the Hammond [Ind.] Rangers and the Manitowoc, Oshkosh, Neenah and Appleton, Wis., teams.

MILLIONS of men have already found that a twice-a-week massage with Vitalis keeps hair healthy—and keeps it lustrous, handsomely-groomed.

Practically every man, young or old, suffers from tight, dry scalp. And the Vitalis workout can correct this condition. Tight dryness goes. Your scalp wakes up. Necessary oils are restored to scalp and hair. Loose dandruff can't clog the pores. Pure vegetable oils lubricate your hair without leaving it "gummy." Your hair stays in place—and looks the way a man wants his hair to look! Get Vitalis today from your druggist.

YOUR BARBER knows what Vitalis will do for your hair. Let him prescribe Vitalis for yours!

HIALEAH BANS HORSE TRAINER ON DOPE CHARGE

Monel Wins as Claim of Foul Is Denied.

Miami, Fla., March 1.—[Special.]—J. Y. Christmas, horse owner and trainer, was suspended by Hialeah Park stewards today. Christmas is alleged to have administered stimulants to the horses Zembla, Rough Party, Pardina, and Nourrice, owned by Christmas, and Caterer and Wee Broom, owned by C. B. Strum and trained by Christmas.

The statements issued by stewards follows: "J. Y. Christmas, the horses he owns and trains, are suspended under rule No. 328 [stimulants and narcotics]. The case is referred to the Florida racing commission. Horses are Zembla, Rough Party, Pardina, Nourrice, Caterer, and Wee Broom."

The day's feature race was won by Monel, owned by S. W. Labrot. The chestnut mare won by two lengths from Pot Au Brooms, while W. S. Kilmer's Sun Apollo finished third. It was the first victory of the meeting for Monel.

A charge of foul was made by Charley Kurtsinger, who rode Pot Au Brooms, but the stewards disallowed it. Monel paid $5.80 for $2 straight tickets and covered the mile in 1:38.

JESSIE CAREY WINS

New Orleans, La., March 1.—[Special.]—Jessie Carey, which had never won a race in the last two years, finally triumphed today. The eight year old horse captured the claiming feature event at the Fair Grounds. Cara Domus trailed the winner home by two lengths and Foxland Hall was third. Jessie Carey, which paid $17.20, ran the mile in 1:42 3-5.

Poloists Play Tomorrow for League Lead

First place in their respective divisions in the Metropolitan Polo league will be the goal of two of the four teams that will meet tomorr w night at the 124th Field artillery arena, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Both of these teams, the 124th Field artillery in the senior division and Fort Sheridan in the junior bracket, are at present in three-way ties for the lead in their classes. Both also will have formidable opposition in their efforts to get further tomorrow night, with the Cleveland Riding club facing the artillerymen and the Chicago Shamrocks blocking the title march of Fort Sheridan.

Shamrocks Face Army.

The Shamrocks-Fort Sheridan game was originally set for next week, but has been switched to tomorrow night. The Shamrocks trio of Capt. Leo B. Callahan, Capt. Leslie R. Ireland, and Lieut. J. C. McAnulty have been coming ahead fast and should prove a real threat to the fast traveling threesome from the fort. They will receive a 2-goal handicap to offset the higher rating of the Fort Sheridan players, whose lineup will be selected from among Capt. C. B. Cole, Lieut. R. C. Cooper, Lieut. J. L. Hines Jr., and Lieut. E. C. Greiner.

Maj. R. G. Hunter, who put up a brilliant exhibition last Saturday night against the Sixth Corps area following his recent recovery from pneumonia, will again lead the 124th Field artillery in his regular No. 1 position. He will be supported by Capt. Bill Everett, who was unhorsed in a bad spill in the last league game, and by Lieut. Chris Schuh, back in the game after being struck by a mallet which narrowly missed his eye in a game at the armory three weeks ago.

Reed in Reserve.

This combination will give the artillerymen their regular lineup against Cleveland. In anticipation of a bitterly fought, rough battle, Maj. Hunter will hold Lieut. H. D. Reed in readiness for action.

Arriving this morning, the Buckeye ponies will be followed tomorrow morning by the members of the team, Maj. Ollie Gaites, William D. Fergus, and Hank Evinger, who in their last appearance at the south side armory defeated Sixth Corps area in the fastest game of the league season thus far.

MELILLO SIGNS CONTRACT.

St. Louis, Mo., March 1.—(AP)—Oscar Melillo, the .991 fielding second baseman, today signed his 1934 contract with the St. Louis Browns.

Badgers Sell All Seats for Iowa Game

Madison, Wis., March 1.—[Special.]—A Wisconsin record was broken when it was announced today that all tickets had been sold for the Wisconsin-Iowa basketball game here Saturday night.

Twice before the field house has been sold out for basketball—the first time when it was opened, in December, 1930, with the dedicatory game against Pennsylvania, and the second time when Purdue played here, Jan. 15. But in both these cases, the ticket supply lasted until almost game time.

Now it is planned to add several hundred seats for the Iowa game. About half these will be side seats; the balance will be on the ends. In this way the capacity will be increased to about 8,800.

OUT TO STOP HAARLOW

Northwestern's second place basketball team is preparing to defend its Big Ten ranking by rehersing various deep laid plots to stop Chicago's Bill Haarlow at the Midway tomorrow. The game will be the last of the season for both teams.

The cellarite Maroons, who have won only two games in eleven starts, upset the Wildcats, 36 to 34, at Evanston Feb. 10, chiefly through the basket shooting of Haarlow, who set the season's scoring record for a single game at 21 points that night.

The result will depend on whether Northwestern can bottle up Haarlow. Coach Norgren of the Maroons has several other men who can score, but probably not often enough. Haarlow has averaged 10.1 points per Big Ten game, and in one of the games he played only 35 seconds. Lyle Fisher, N. U. center, has averaged 9.9 points and this personal marksmanship duel will add interest to the encounter.

IRISH END HOME PLAY

Notre Dame, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—The home season of Notre Dame's record breaking basketball team will come to a close here Saturday night, with Ohio State furnishing the opposition.

Capt Ed (Moose) Krause, center; Joe (Arms) Voegele, forward, and Leo Crowe, guard, will be making their last appearance here. These three formed the backbone of last year's team and the current team, which broke every Notre Dame basketball record of importance with one exception, the single season winning record of 21 games set in 1908-'09.

The squad of last year and this year won twenty-two straight games and set a home victory record of 17 in a row.

U. S. INCREASES DEPOSITS, BANKS BUY MORE BONDS

N. Y. Reserve Units Purchase on 'Credit.'

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The government continued to pile up deposits in the New York banks last week and the banks in turn continued to buy government bonds. The amount placed on deposit by the government again exceeded the bonds bought by the banks. The report of the New York member banks showed an increase of 32 millions in holdings of "governments" and an expansion of 44 millions in government deposits.

How far the government will continue with its policy of selling bonds to the banks on "credit" and in what position the banks will find themselves when the government starts drawing down on its balances are questions which have aroused the curiosity of observers. A sudden withdrawal of government funds—an unlikely development—would certainly create a tight money market in New York, it is argued.

Fear Curtailed Lending.

Such a development will not take place before the big government financing is over, it is believed. Then, however, unless foreign funds come in or the interior banks increase their balances in New York, the banks there may find it necessary to curtail their loans and investments sharply.

The New York banks did curtail loans and discounts sharply last week. Collateral loans fell 100 millions, all of which represented a decline in loans to brokers. Commercial loans dropped 45 millions. Investments other than governments were up 23 millions.

Chicago Changes Small.

In Chicago changes shown last week by member banks were insignificant. Gross deposits showed an indicated expansion of 26 millions and excess reserves expanded 28 millions. Government deposits were unchanged at 69 millions and holdings of governments were off 6 millions.

The statement of the 12 reserve banks showed a shrinkage in credit, which was reflected in a drop of 15 millions in total bills and securities. The heavy importations of gold, now beginning to dwindle, resulted in an increase in 184 millions in the gold certificates held by the reserve system and gold due to it from the treasury.

Hold 6 Million Bonds.

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Government security holdings of reserve member banks have reached a figure substantially larger than the amount held during the war-time financing of the government, the federal reserve bank of New York says in its monthly review.

During the 4 weeks ended Feb. 21, the review says, government security holdings of reporting banks increased $954,000,000. Bringing the total holdings to $6,199,000,000. The increase from the previous month generally reflected operations of the treasury financing program.

Net demand and time deposits of reporting banks, the review states, did not increase in proportion to the increase in total loans and investments during the last month, as a large part of the proceeds of new government securities purchased by the banks for their own account and for their customers was left on deposit in the banks pending government expenditures.

Unexpended balances of the government on deposit in weekly reporting banks rose more than $1,000,000,000 in the four week period to $1,418,000,000 on Feb. 21, the largest amount on record.

Gain 383 Millions Gold.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—A $383,000,000 increase in the United States gold stock today was reported by the federal reserve board for February, the first month of dollar devaluation. This put today's gold assets at the record figure of $7,401,000,000.

During the same period, gold certificates held by the reserve system increased $381,000,000 as the government paid for gold purchases and made deposits.

Following the normal post-Christmas holiday course, money in circulation shrunk from $5,590,000,000 at the beginning of the month to $5,355,000,000 at the close. The average volume of outstanding reserve bank credit dropped $56,000,000 during February.

A $263,000,000 increase in member bank reserve balances pushed the aggregate to $3,093,000,000 and indicated a new record of reserves in excess of legal requirements. In recent weeks the excess ranged between $900,000,000 and $1,000,000,000.

Rail Surcharges Between Canada and U. S. Halted

Wages and Cost of Living Since the Outbreak of the Civil War

INDEX 1913 -100
INDEX 1913 -100
The index of wages runs back to 1791, although this chart starts with 1860. The index for 1791 was 15, which was just 1/15 of the index for 1929. Between Lincoln's inauguration and Hoover's, wages increased 5½ fold, while the cost of living increased a little less than threefold. Real wages go up when dollar wages rise more than living costs. Real wages were highest in 1931, because prices went down faster than workers' earnings.

McDougall Resigns 'Fed' Bank Position

The resignation of James B. McDougall, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago since its founding in 1914, was announced yesterday. George J. Schaller, acting governor since Jan. 1, was named governor.

J. B. McDOUGALL.

One of the best known men in middle western banking circles, Gov. McDougall built himself an enviable reputation as head of the Chicago reserve institution. He has been on sick leave for a year. Directors of the bank deferred the acceptance of his resignation in the hope that he would be able to return to his job. While he is greatly improved in health, he felt unable to resume active duty, the board explained.

Noted for Conservatism.

Gov. McDougall was given a large share of the credit for the strong position which the Chicago bank has always maintained. His conservatism was a byword among bankers here, and they contend his policies were fully justified by the events of the last few years. It was the Chicago Reserve bank that came to the aid of the New York Reserve bank in the hectic days immediately preceding the national bank moratorium a year ago.

Gov. McDougall spent his early banking career in the commercial banking field and as a national bank examiner. He was called to Chicago in 1906 to organize and head the examination department of the Chicago Clearing house.

Becomes Reserve Bank Head.

He continued with the clearing house until 1914, when the Chicago Reserve bank was formed. The distinction gained in his service with the clearing house made him the logical choice as the head of the new Chicago central bank.

With his election as governor, Mr. Schaller gave up his post as a class A director of the bank, to which position he was elected in 1930. Until his election as acting governor early this year he was president of the Citizens First National Bank of Storm Lake, Ia. He is known as a practical banker and noted for his conservatism.

MANDEL BROS. REPORT PROFIT; HAD LOSS IN 1932

Mandel Brothers earned a profit of approximately $200,000, before depreciation, in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, according to preliminary figures made public yesterday. This compares with a loss of $374,236 in the preceding year, or an indicated improvement of nearly $600,000. The preliminary figures are subject to the check of the auditors.

A profit of about $10,000 after depreciation was indicated as compared with a loss in 1932 of $578,448. The year-end balance sheet will show current assets of approximately $4,864,000 and total liabilities of slightly more than $1,000,000. Working capital is approximately $180,000 above a year ago.

Silver Tenders Set New Record; Stocks at Peak

New York, March 1.—(AP)—An aggregate of 22,225,000 ounces of silver was tendered for delivery against March contracts on the Commodity exchange yesterday. This was the largest daily total of such tenders against any contract in the history of silver trading in this country, according to the exchange. Stocks of silver in the depositories licensed by the exchange total 111,418,262 ounces, a new high record.

DOLLAR HOLDS EVEN WITH FRENCH FRANC, LOSES TO STERLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—The dollar moved over a restricted course in the foreign exchange markets today, with the volume of business even less than yesterday. It opened fractionally lower in terms of the French gold franc, but rallied later. French francs closed at 6.57¼ cents, unchanged from last night. Based on the old gold franc parity, the dollar closed steady at a value of 59.61 cents.

The British pound sterling closed at $5.08, compared with $5.06½ last night. The advance in the pound reversed its trend of the last few days, although advices from London indicated that the British equalization fund was operating to prevent the pound from advancing.

Gold sold in the open market in London at the same price as yesterday, or 137 shillings and one penny an ounce. The dollar equivalent based on the opening price for sterling was $34.72 a fine ounce, as compared with $34.75 yesterday.

About £600,000 in gold was offered in London and taken largely by American representatives, according to reports from abroad; and it appears that while the gold flow to this country may be considerably reduced, as the spread for the metal between the London and American prices narrows, imports will continue.

Today's gold statement of the Federal Reserve bank of New York showed imports of $47,148,300 from England, France, Holland, Cuba, and Canada. There were no exports and no change in the gold held under earmark for foreign account.

FORD WILL PASS FREIGHT SAVINGS ON TO CUSTOMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 1.—The Ford Motor company today announced reductions, effective immediately, in prices of all V-8 passenger cars, trucks and commercial cars. The cuts apply to most sections of the country. The reductions vary by districts, the largest amounting to about $19 a car.

Owing to variations in freight rates, each district will install its own new prices, it was stated. Certain Pacific coast districts are not included in the reductions.

W. K. Edmunds, Ford branch manager in Chicago, explained the reduction was not a cut in factory prices but has been accomplished by reducing the items making up the difference between the F. O. B. and the delivered cash price. The reduction will be put through here although Ford sales in the Chicago district so far this year are running nearly 300 per cent ahead of the comparable periods of 1933 and 1932, he said.

BANK OF FRANCE LOSES $215,000,000 IN GOLD WHILE ENGLAND GAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—While gold reserves of the Bank of France have been depleted by approximately $215,000,000 in the six weeks ended Feb. 23, bullion holdings of the Bank of England in the seven weeks' period ended today have registered a net increase of $1,550,000, according to an analysis of weekly condition statements made today.

The current drain on France's huge hoard of the yellow metal was inaugurated in the week ended Jan. 19, a little less than two weeks before President Roosevelt's dollar devaluation proclamation, which augmented the outward flow from the country. From Feb. 2 to Feb. 23, the condition statements reveal, the total shrinkage aggregated 2,889,000,000 francs or, roughly, $180,000,000.

For the week ended Feb. 23 the Bank of France reported a decline in its gold reserves of 463,440,324 francs, or $30,448,000 at the current rate of exchange. This fresh drop brought total reserves to 73,971,475,499 francs, contrasted with 77,254,000,000 on Jan. 12.

Virtually all of the metal lost in the six weeks has gone to England and the United States. The greater proportion taken for American destination was for private account, although some taken for United States treasury account is now beginning to be repatriated. The Paris-to-London movement of the metal also was heavy during the period, and much of it was immediately reshipped to the United States.

President Asks U. S. Guaranty of Home Bonds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—President Roosevelt in a message today asked congress to make an authorized 2 billion dollars of bonds that may be exchanged for home mortgages direct governmental obligations in the same manner as an equal amount of bonds authorized for exchange for farm mortgages already have been guaranteed. Under the original home loan legislation the treasury guaranteed the farm and home mortgage bonds only as to interest and not as to principal.

At the same time the President requested added authorization for the Home Owners' Loan corporation to lend money to householders for modernization and repairs. He also asked legal permission for holders of more than $266,000,000 of home mortgage bonds now outstanding to exchange the old-type bonds for the fully guaranteed ones proposed in today's message.

Urges Moral Obligation.

"There is the same reason for acknowledging publicly what already amounts to a moral obligation in respect to these bonds," the President wrote, "as there was in the case of bonds authorized to be issued through the farm credit administration."

Enactment of the legislation requested by President Roosevelt is considered assured, in view of the wide agreement manifested in congress with his proposal to guarantee farm mortgage bonds. Bills carrying out the intent of the message were introduced in the house by Representative Steagall of Alabama, and in the senate by Senator Fletcher.

While enactment of the measure technically will add 2 billion dollars to the bonded indebtedness of the United States, since the bonds will have the full status of treasury obligations, officials take the position that they actually are not charges against the national credit. This view is based on the fact that each of the bonds to be issued will be secured by mortgages on real estate which are appraised as conservative credit risks under normal conditions.

Relief Program Hampered.

It has been stated repeatedly in informed circles that the program of relief for home owners established around the home loan bank board has been in danger of falling because of the lack of guarantee of repayment of the principal of the bonds. As evidence of this alleged condition it has been pointed out that, despite the known need of large credits in refinancing home mortgages, only a little more than one-tenth of the proposed bond issue has been placed in the hands of investors in exchange for mortgages.

In his message the President said that through guaranteeing of the principal he expected the Home Owners' Loan corporation to be able to extend much greater assistance in the modernization and repair of homes. He proposed that the Home Owners' Loan corporation be given authority to purchase bonds of the federal home loan banks to make funds available to those banks and to building and loan associations "to encourage private building."

HOSIERY FIRM HAS 1ST PROFIT IN FOUR YEARS

Milwaukee, Wis., March 1.—[Special.]—The Holeproof Hosiery company in its annual report today showed a profit for 1933 of $38,985 after three years of losses aggregating $1,400,000. The profit was shown this year after writing down inventories either to cost price or market, whichever was lower and after allowances for all taxes and for plant depreciation.

The loss for 1930 was $368,448; for 1931 it was $410,503 and for 1932 it was $626,212. Dollar sales for 1933 were about the same as in 1932.

MARKET SUMMARY

NEW DEALERS URGE MILLIONS FOR HOME FIXING

Say They Will Offer Reduced Costs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—A $58,000,000 plan for the renovation of American homes under federal stimulus is being worked out for the administration by Frank C. Walker, director of the national emergency council, and Winfield W. Riefler, central coördinating statistician of the New Deal.

It is said to have an excellent chance of adoption by the President and the industrial interests concerned. Should that happen, householders all over the country will soon be approached by government representatives who, in a manner reminiscent of the Liberty loan salesmen of wartime, will urge them to proceed at once with the repairs, additions and reconstructions of their dwellings which they have been contemplating but from which they have refrained for monetary reasons.

Costs Would Be Cut.

The householders will be told that if they will agree to improve their homes, construction labor will be available to them at a 20 per cent reduction from prevailing scales. They will be informed that the railroads will haul the necessary supplies at reduced rates and that manufacturers will lower the list prices for materials.

Most important of all, the salesmen will notify the property owners that if they want to borrow money for the renovation on the collateral of their homes and the banks are reluctant to advance the money, the government will underwrite the obligation. It is this part of the scheme that will take, it is estimated, no more than $55,000,000 from the funds in the recovery budget.

Authors of the plan, and those whom they have converted, believe that it will do a great deal to bring down for the present what is regarded as an unduly high scale for construction labor that is termed out of line with other labor costs, with the general price level and with the theory of slow and steady advancement of prices and labor toward the national recovery level.

Reward Would Be Jobs.

The consideration which it is held would induce construction labor to cut its prices would be the other reductions and underwritings inherent in the plan—and widespread opportunity to get work that cannot otherwise be obtained.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Reifler believe that they have evolved a sound plan to put life into the construction industry again. Economists have been watching throughout the period of the President's economic experiments for signs of renewed construction activity, holding this to be one of the essential bases of real recovery. Various devices have been presented also to start a flow of capital goods. A revival of construction would be a step in this direction.

Because the Walker-Riefler plan seeks to attack the depression cycle at what is conceded to be a vital point, it has been receiving serious administration attention, although it has not yet been adopted as a part of the program.

PENNSYLVANIA GETS PREMIUM FOR 3¼% BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—A nationwide group of forty-five banks and banking houses headed by the City Company of New York, Bankers Trust company, First National bank, and the Chase National bank, won the award today of a new issue of $30,000,000 commonwealth of Pennsylvania war veterans' compensation bonds. The issue represents the largest single piece of long-term state and municipal financing since December, 1932.

The bonds, due $2,500,000 each March 1 from 1944 to 1954, inclusive, brought a price of 100.659999. The bonds will bear 3¼ per cent. The second, and only other bid submitted, was that of 102.06 for the bonds as 3½s, made by a group of Pennsylvania and New York banks, headed by Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia.

The issue will be formally placed on the market tomorrow. At the close of business today the bankers reported orders in hand for more than half of the issue.

Bids Asked on 100 Million 182 Day Treasury Bills

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau today invited bids on $100,000,000 of 182 day treasury bills. The bills will be dated March 7, when $100,050,000 of bills mature, and will fall due Sept. 5. The issue will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. Federal reserve banks and branches will receive offers up to 2 p. m., eastern standard time, next Monday.

British Fund to Stabilize Currency to Be Continued

LONDON, March 1.—(AP)—Operations of the British currency exchange equalization fund will be continued indefinitely, Sir Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer indicated to the house of commons today. Asked if there was any prospect of the fund being wound up at an early date, Chamberlain replied: "No, sir."

Seek RFC Loan to Reorganize W. Side Trust

Action with respect to the affairs of the closed West Side Trust and Savings bank, which a group of depositors is endeavoring to reopen, was continued yesterday by Judge Robert E. Gentzel of the Superior court until March 15. Early in the day the depositors' committee, of which S. K. Stearn is secretary, appeared before Judge Gentzel and stated that it had waivers on close to $2,600,000 of the $4,000,000 deposits of the bank.

Judge Gentzel announced five weeks ago that if deposits of $2,500,000 were waived by the depositors he would recommend to State Auditor Edward J. Barrett that the bank be reopened in accordance with the depositors plans.

To Ask $2,100,000 Loan.

After hearing arguments by attorneys representing the various interests on the depositors' petition which asks that the state auditor's office be restrained from continuing the liquidation of the bank's assets, Judge Gentzel instructed Michael Ahern, attorney for the receiver, Willard L. O'Connell, to negotiate immediately for a $2,100,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and to make a report on the progress at the March 15 hearing.

Harold J. Rosenberg, an attorney representing the depositors' committee, argued that if a new bank is organized and obtains an RFC loan of $2,100,000, the stockholders will agree to pay $400,000 under their liability with the agreement that this would absolve them of all further liability.

Would Get 40 Per Cent Payment.

If this is done, he said, the depositors of the old bank would receive a 40 per cent payment at an early date and the remainder would be "frozen." Under the plan depositors who have $50 or less in the bank would be paid in full.

Morris Sider, an attorney for the Yellow Cab company, which has $46,000 on deposit in the bank, suggested that the court appoint an intermediary to confer with all groups in an endeavor to clear up the difficulties. Replying to this suggestion Judge Gentzel said that if he appointed an intermediary it would have to be some one willing to serve without pay as he is not willing to lay himself open to criticism for imposing further expense on the depositors.

Attorney Ahern attacked the plan of forming a new bank, asserting that the receiver could obtain the RFC loan as well as the proposed new bank could do it and that in that case the stockholders would still be liable for the unpaid dividend.

"If the receiver obtains the loan," Mr. Ahern said, "the depositors would immediately get a 40 per cent dividend and perhaps more. Besides they would still have a chance of receiving further dividends."

CITY OF WHITING RETIRES ITS DEBT; ONE $1,000 NOTE

The city of Whiting yesterday retired its funded debt and thereby set an example for other governmental bodies. The city's debt consisted of one $1,000 certificate. It has not delayed its municipal pay roll nor defaulted on a bond during the depression. The reason for the liquidity of the city's finances, officials explained yesterday, was the fact that the one "industry" within the town—the Standard Oil company refineries—has operated steadily throughout the depression, paying taxes on time and maintaining its pay rolls so that city residents are able to pay their tax bills.

REVEAL AVIATION SECURITY PROBE FINDINGS MONDAY

Exchange Head Tells of Check on Sales.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The question of whether members of the New York Stock exchange had advance information of the action of the President when on Feb. 9 he canceled the air mail contracts and whether they engineered short sale transactions to take advantage of such information will be answered before the senate committee on banking and currency Monday morning.

Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, in answer to a question today by Senator Kean of New Jersey, said that the exchange had questionnaired every firm on the exchange dealing in stocks of the aviation corporations whose air mail contracts were canceled by the President.

Questionnaires Analyzed.

The answers to these questionnaires have been analyzed, he said, and the result will be placed before the committee for its information when it convenes Monday.

The matter of the investigation of the aviation stock transaction was brought into the record by Senator Kean immediately after an assertion by Mr. Whitney that in his opinion the stock exchange performs "a necessary economic function." This being so, it should not, he argued, be subjected to the rigorous regulation which, he contended, amounts to prohibition, as provided in the Fletcher-Rayburn bill.

The aviation corporations affected by the stock exchange questionnaire, which covers the period from Jan. 26 to Feb. 9, inclusive, are the Wright Aeronautical, National Aviation, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, North American Aviation and the Aviation Corporation of America.

Withholds Information.

When Mr. Whitney was asked if he could indicate the general nature of the answers to the questionnaire he said he was sorry but that he intended to remain silent until Monday.

Mr. Whitney declared that the control bill, if enacted in the form it was introduced in congress, might lead to another panic, the repercussions of which would be reflected in all lines of industry and finance. Speculation, he contended, should not be completely eliminated. Like short selling, it is, under proper control, a necessary function in the economic structure of the country, he maintained.

MOST OF PEOPLE HAVE A 'STAKE' IN STOCK MARTS

50,000,000 Affected, Survey Shows.

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Between 6,000,000 and 10,000,000 individuals own bonds and between 9,000,000 and 11,000,000 men and women in the United States own stock. Every ninth or tenth man, woman, and child in this country probably has a direct stake in the nation's security markets—which means at least one family in every three.

These estimates are based on the research findings and recommendations of the Twentieth Century fund's survey of the securities markets, conducted a staf of more than thirty economists and assistants. The survey has been considered by authors of pending legislation for federal regulation of the securities markets. The Twentieth Century fund was endowed by Edward A. Filene and has devoted itself chiefly to economic research. Trustees recently stated as one of its ultimate objectives the "elimination of the need for philanthropy."

Million Employés Own Stock.

"Of the several million stockholders about a million are employés who were sold shares by their employers," says Evans Clark, director of the fund. "Another million are public utilities customers sold through the solicitation of their companies. Over one-fifth of all corporate stock outstanding is held by individuals with net incomes of less than $5,000 a year.

"The total market value of outstanding securities in 1932—the worst year of the depression—was at least 100 billion dollars. The value of stocks owned by individuals is nearly and may even exceed 50 billions. Thus nearly half of the value of all outstanding securities is in the hands of individuals.

"Through ownership of life insurance policies and payment of insurance premiums, a considerable portion of which are invested in bonds, more than 50,000,000 people are indirectly, but nonetheless vitally, interested in the security markets. More than 13,000,000 persons have savings in mutual savings banks, and at least twice this number have deposits in national and state banks and trust companies.

Majority of People Interested.

"A majority of the population, therefore, has an interest in the security markets through the investments of these banks and insurance companies amounting to nearly 27 billion dollars in 1932.

"It might be thought that because only a small proportion of the total outstanding shares or certificates of each issue is actually traded in the market in any year the size of the nation's stake is correspondingly less. These securties which are bought and sold, however, set the value of all the rest, and therefore directly affect the economic standing of every owner of stocks and bonds.

"The total value of stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange alone shrank from nearly 89 billion dollars, at the 1929 peak, to less than 16 billion dollars at the 1932 low. Bonds on the exchange shrank from 49 billion dollars in September, 1930, to 31 billion dollars in April, 1933. In some instances these were only paper losses, just as in the preceding boom there were many whose profits were in paper, but the effect of paper losses or gains upon individual lives is great.

"The indirect stake which the entire population holds in the security

New York, March 1.—The listed bond market again manifested irregularity today with a further diminution of the volume of trading. Domestic corporation bonds moved slightly lower on the average, United States government bonds slightly higher, and leading foreign loans generally higher. Price fluctuations in all groups were in narrow limits.

With the United States treasury scheduled to announce its March 15 financing plans early next week, the long term government issues failed to develop a definite trend. Final prices were 3-32ds up to 4-32ds down.

Domestics Average Lower.

Most of the domestic corporation issues which showed any considerable degree of activity closed at only fractional net changes on the day. In general, the railroad, utility, and industrial groups showed about the same average decline.

By far the most active issue was the American Water Works and Electric company 5s, due April 1, 1934, which are exchangeable, par for par, for new convertible collateral trust 5s of the company on which the cash subscription price is 105. The maturing bonds closed at 106¾, off 1¾ points on the day.

Germans and French Rise.

In the foreign list, bonds of the German and French groups were generally higher. The Scandinavian loans were irregular except for Finnish bonds, which were up fractionally to more than a point. Commonwealth of Australia loans were fractionally higher in active dealings. The lightly traded Latin-American issues showed few changes of importance.

On the Curb exchange, domestic bonds moved generally lower and foreign bonds higher in quiet trading. New York Central convertible 6s, due 1944, dealt in on a "when issued" basis, which closed at 115⅞, off 1¼ points. In the foreigns, the ultimations of the imperial Russian government were the most active, rising fractionally to 1½ points to levels of 4 to 5 cents on the dollar.

Louisville and Nashville.

Investors' Guide: The writer would appreciate any information on Louisville and Nashville.—P. M.

Answer: Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, controled by Atlantic Coast Line Railroad company, operates 5,240 miles of road. It and affiliates operate from Cincinnati, through Louisville and Nashville, to New Orleans. Branches extend to St. Louis and to Louisville. Another extends from Cincinnati to Atlanta.

Proportion of freight to passenger traffic is high. Most of the freight is bituminous coal from Kentucky and Alabama fields.

Since the products carried are destined mostly for industry, earnings of the road are sensitive to business activity. They showed steady increases prior to 1926, due in part to the Florida real estate boom and the favorable differential in price between southern and northern coal. With the Florida collapse, increased competition from Pocahontas coal, the setting in of the depression [which hit the south before the north] and competition from natural gas and fuel oil, earnings showed a downward trend through 1932.

	Gross Income.	Net Income.	Inc. Com.Shr.	Per
1933	$ 65,657,000	*$1,796,000	*$1.53
1932	63,920,000	† 2,109,000	† 1.80
1931	87,020,000	1,040,000	.89
1930	112,442,000	6,800,000	5.65

*Preliminary. †Loss.

On Nov. 30, 1933, current assets totaled $32,580,000 and current liabilities $8,127,000. There are no important bond maturities within the next two years.

A dividend of $1.50 per share on the 1,170,000 shares of $100 par capital stock was paid Feb. 15, 1934, the first since Feb. 10, 1932. Dividends were paid uninterruptedly for 33 years to Feb. 10, 1932.

At the close of 1932 funded debt was $236,398,000. There has been no material increase in funded debt for the last 10 years. Under normal conditions the road is conservatively capitalized, having about two-thirds of its capitalization in bonds and one-third in stock.

Two Transactions.

Investors' Guide: I hold some stock listed on the New York Stock exchange. Can I take this to a broker and exchange it for some other stock that is also listed on the exchange? —W. B. J.

Answer: The only way it can be done is by selling the stock you own and using the proceeds of the sale to purchase the stock you want. You would have to pay brokerage commissions on both transactions.

WHEAT SHIFTS ERRATICALLY TO FINISH LOWER

Corn Prices Relatively Firm; Oats Easier.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Uncertainty continues to curtail operations in the grain markets materially. Prospective legislation at Washington, the monetary situation and improvement in reports on the winter wheat crop have combined to reduce speculative interest to a minimum, with the result price changes are extremely erratic.

Wheat was fractionally higher at the opening yesterday, but broke a cent from the high point and then rallied moderately toward the close, showing net losses of ⅜ to ½ cent.

Corn held within a range of ½ cent and closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Oats were ⅛ cent lower. Rye was ¼ to ⅜ cent lower.

Winter Wheat Crop Improves.

Condition of the winter wheat yesterday as indicated by reports of Chicago statisticians is better now than it was on Dec. 1. Murray, the Clement Curtis & Co. statistician, placed the condition at 73.5 per cent normal, while Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. expert, made it 77.8. The government Dec. 1 figure was 74.3, while a year ago the condition was 58.5.

Conditions this year are the reverse of what they were a year ago, according to the experts, as winter wheat in the southwest shows improvement as compared with Dec. 1, against a drop of around 5 points during the same period the previous season. The recent severe cold waves in the central west were more than offset by material improvement on the North Pacific coast.

While estimates on the wheat production at this season of the year are regarded as almost worthless, the possible yield was tentatively placed around 475,000,000 bushels, compared with 351,000,000 busnels harvested last year.

Demand for Cash Corn.

Chicago cash corn handlers the last few days have enjoyed the best shipping demand for cash corn in some weeks, and during the last three days more than 600,000 bushels have been sold, largely to eastern distributors. The severe storms and cold weather have resulted in heavy feeding. Removal of hedges against the shipping business has been one of the mainstays in holding up the market. Country offerings were again light.

Scattered liquidation developed in oats, but prices failed to get as low as earlier in the week, and the market recovered a large part of the decline later in sympathy with the rally in wheat. Shipping sales of 20,000 bushels of rye were reported by local handlers, with hedges removed in the pit. Outside trade, however, was light.

STOCKS OF GRAIN ON FARMS CALLED LEAST IN YEARS

Farm reserves of wheat, corn, and oats on March 1, as indicated by reports of Chicago statisticians, are the smallest in a number of years, and below the normal farm disappearance which occurs after that date.

Total holdings of wheat on farmers, as averaged from the Murray & Cromwell reports, were 125,000,000 bushels, or 79,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, while corn stocks aggregated 929,000,000 bushels, a reduction of 333,000,000 bushels as compared with last year. Stocks of oats are down to 250,000,000 bushels or about 50 per cent of what they were in 1933.

Farm disappearance of the three major grains, as reported by Cromwell during the last two months, were only slightly below that of the corresponding period in 1933.

PROPOSES TAX TO FORCE CUT IN TOBACCO OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—Representative Kerr [Dem., N. C.] introduced a bill designed to insure success of the administration's tobacco acreage reduction campaign by technically levying a tax on all tobacco sold, but actually collecting it only from noncooperators in the voluntary reduction plan.

The bill would place a tax of 25 per cent of the market value of all tobacco sold. Farmers who cooperated in the acreage reduction campaign, however, would be allowed to sell their poundage allotment without payment of the tax.

LIVE STOCK MAN CRITICIZES U. S. CORN-HOG PLANS

Grain men, business leaders and bankers heard sharp criticism of the government's corn and hog programs voiced by James E. Poole, live stock expert, at the monthly dinner of the Grain Analysts' club at the Atlantic hotel last night.

He regarded the governmental operations as detrimental to live stock interests of the country has predicted there would be the largest run of old and piggy sows to market this year that has ever been known. The farmers will sell off all their old sows just as fast as possible and breed the young ones so there will be an abundance of hogs, said Mr. Poole.

STOCKS RESUME DOWN DRIFT AS NEWS IS MIXED

Labor Situation at Auto Plants Confusing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—Dribbling sales carried the stock list to irregularly lower levels today. The liquidation was largely of a professional character with the rank and file of traders still on the sidelines waiting for a trend to develop and for leadership to take the market out of the rut in which it has been floundering for the last week or more. Sales volume was around 1,240,000 shares.

News of the day was mixed and little calculated to stimulate large scale trading on either side of the market. The most encouraging item of the overnight news from the speculative viewpoint was the return to work of Toledo strikers in the automotive industry, thus removing for the moment fear of a serious labor situation in this "key" industry. However, this news was offset to some extent during the day by advices indicating that Wisconsin plants of the Nash Motor company had been closed by strikes.

Silver Stocks Slump.

Secretary Morgenthau's statement the administration's present monetary policy was an experiment and should be given a trial for at least nine months to determine its effectiveness gave a chill to the silver group.

U. S. Smelting, the leader of the silver group, slumped some 8 points to 117½, but rallied to 120, off 4½ points. American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, and other trading favorites of the group were off fractionally at the finish after being considerably lower earlier.

The market opened quiet and without special change. Floor professionals made a feeble attempt to start a rally during the first hour but gave it up in short order and from then until well along in the afternoon the tendency of the list was to seek lower levels.

Rally Near Close.

In the last hour enough support appeared to turn the leaders upward, and closing levels were generally above the lows of the day, early declines of a point or so being reduced to fractions and in some cases entirely erased.

Apart from the silver stocks, price movements were almost entirely without group distinction. Motors were generally soggy, and the merchandising issues failed signally to respond to the driblets of better news that came their way.

The rails were lethargic and narrow. Fractional losses were the rule in the tobacco, food, and oil stocks.

Steel shares came in for more than their share of the selling orders. United States Steel was down more than a point at its worst but rallied strongly in the late trading.

TRADE OUTLOOK MORE PROMISING, LEADERS ASSERT

Bankers' Journal Presents Business Symposium.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—In an interesting roundup of executive opinion entitled "The Industrial Horizon," the American Bankers' Association Journal today shows a picture of increased activity in several fields. The tire and rubber industry, automobiles and business machinery are represented and the heads find the outlook promising. They are quoted in part as follows:

P. W. Litchfield, president, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company: "Business activity is now going ahead and upward at a quite moderate and healthy rate. Real confidence in the outlook at the last seems to have been definitly renewed after more than four years of fear for the future. This confidence has been reflected in the cities and on the farms, with the income of the agricultural sections of the country 40 per cent more than a year ago.

Cites Better Retail Sales.

"Mail order houses and retail outlets generally are enjoying a good volume, particularly in the south and central west. In the cities, department store sales are most encouraging.

"With three of four great forces fundamental to good business now active—agriculture, steel, and automobiles—the remaining force, building, has yet to do its part. Probably it will come into play again when most needed.

Marvin E. Coyle, general manager, Chevrolet Motor company: "On Feb. 6 our employment was practically equal to the all-time high for our company. The people on Chevrolet pay rolls totaled 55,008 as compared with 33,727 at the same time one year ago. At the Fisher body plant 25,000 people were employed exclusively on Chevrolet bodies as compared with 19,000 a year before. In those comparisons is about as complete a story of our business improvement as could be written."

Predicts Capacity Operations.

"For the first time since 1929 we are headed for capacity production, and we are going to full capacity just as rapidly as we can possibly step up our manufacturing schedules. Our sale of trucks in January was about twice as great as in January, 1933. A truck represents a capital investment for business purposes, because the purchaser buys only when he knows where and how he is going to use his truck and he expects it to make money for him."

Joseph E. Rogers, president, Addressograph-Multigraph corporation: "Our business is improving at so rapid a rate it is absolutely startling. Nor is the improvement from any single locality. It is general. Orders are coming from every part of the United States and Canada. Foreign orders have been increasing for several months. And in local percentages some of the best showings are from those cities which were hardest hit by the depression. Orders for January, 1934—with a good many territories still to be heard from—are 96.7 per cent over January, 1933."

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Raw sugar was steadier today with more interest reported, principally from outport refiners. Futures were steadier, reflecting increased activity in the spot market and expectations of some adjustment in the Cuban tariff rate in connection with Washington reports that President Roosevelt was seeking reciprocal trade agreements. Prices moved within narrow limits and closed at net unchanged to 1 point advance. Sales were 7,000 tons. Prices:

LEGAL NOTICES.

SOUTH PARK COMMISSIONERS—
Proposals for Electric Light Globes.

Sealed proposals will be received by the South Park Commissioners, 57th street and Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, Illinois, until 12:00 o'clock noon of the 15th day of March, 1934, for furnishing and delivering one year's supply of electric light globes.

Bidding blanks to be used will be found in this specifications, which may be obtained at the above named office.

Bids from only those on record in the office of the South Park Commissioners as having received specifications will be considered. All specifications, including bidding sheets, must be identified by the stamp of the Secretary of the South Park Commissioners thereon. No bid will be considered which is not submitted on a bidding sheet received from the South Park Commissioners and identified as above described.

A deposit to the amount of 5 per cent [5%] of the aggregate amount of the bid, either in currency or certified check payable to the order of the South Park Commissioners, must accompany each proposal as a guarantee of the good faith of the bidder.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract and give a surety bond of twenty-five per cent [25%] of the amount of the contract.

Each proposal must be placed in the envelope accompanying the specifications, which will be marked "Proposal for Electric Light Globes," sealed and delivered to the Secretary of the South Park Commissioners, 57th street and Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, Illinois, before the time limit stated above.
